About FamilySearch Pedigree Resource File:

The Pedigree Resource File is a new lineage linked database of records available on compact disc containing family history records submitted by individuals through FamilySearch Internet Genealogy Service. Family information is organized in family groups and pedigrees and includes submitted notes and sources. Many charts and reports can be printed from this data. Each disc contains about 1.1 million names. With the publication of every five discs, a master index for those discs will be published and packaged with that set of discs. With the publication of every 25 discs, a master index for those discs will also be published and packaged with that volume of discs. Discs may be purchased as sets or volumes.

About FamilySearch Pedigree Resource File:

The Pedigree Resource File is a new lineage linked database of records available on compact disc containing family history records submitted by individuals through FamilySearch Internet Genealogy Service. Family information is organized in family groups and pedigrees and includes submitted notes and sources. Many charts and reports can be printed from this data. Each disc contains about 1.1 million names. With the publication of every five discs, a master index for those discs will be published and packaged with that set of discs. With the publication of every 25 discs, a master index for those discs will also be published and packaged with that volume of discs. Discs may be purchased as sets or volumes.

Please Note:

Submitter information is provided to help in the coordination of personal family history research. Use of this information for any other purpose, including marketing, advertising, or commercial solicitation, is strictly prohibited.

Wondering how information on Toys listed in papers I have connect with other listings here, My list starts with death of Elias Toy the Elder's son William who died somewhere around 1883 in PA. He had no children and no will. Everything was left to 7 brotheres and sisters on my list:
Harriet m. John Toy(both died by 1883) left 3 children
Mary m. William Cripps 1 child
Margaret m. Comly 5 children
Elizabeth m. Jacob Hall 8 children
Sarah m. Jesse Duffield 3 children
Elias m. ? son Jacob Kein Toy and John K m.? 6 children including a William b. after 1882

Does anyone see a connection? No Benjamins but I have more information on children of the marriages if it connects with anyone.

TAY or TOY

9-13-10

Hi!

I just "plowed" through correspondence rec'd from you over the years & noted your comment re Toy's possibly coming from England. I always had that thinking based on:

1. William Toy, prob. b: circa 1610 England.
2. He was in the Massachusetts Bay Colony living at Boston & adm. to the Church in 1644. He owned two acres of land on Long Island in Boston Harbor which he gave to one Leonard Buttels in exchange for 20 acres at Muddy (MUDDY) River (now Brookline, Mass.). The Toys removed from Boston area to Billerica, MBC, poss. as early as 1659, where they lived for 20 yrs. William & his wife, Grace (Newell), at some point* returned to live in Boston where he died circa 1680 In his will he stated he was 72 yrs. of age. (Will dated 28 April 1680.)

---

* prob. c:1679-80, as their house caught fire & burned down.

D

William Joy married Grace Newell, dau. of Abraham Newell on 14 Sept. 1644, presumably at Boston. They had eight children:

1. Grace - b: 23 - 1645 June
2. John - bapt. 21 - 1647 Sept. (b: 9-16-47)
3. Isaiah - bapt. 10 - 1650 Jan died: abt. 10 days of age
4. Abel - b: 21 Jan. 1652
5. Nathaniel - b: 23 Feb. 1654
6. Peter - bapt. 25 Dec. 1655
7. Jeremiah - 18 July 1657
8. Elizabeth - 25 June 1660

Grace (Newell) Joy, sole executor of her husband's estate, died at 91 years, 11 April 1712 at Roxbury (Boston Area).

John Joy, son of William & Grace (Newell) Joy, b: 16 Sept 1647, Boston, M.B.C. & bapt. at age of 5 days. It does appear he married, wife unk., as in his will William mentions his "grand-"daughter   , dau. of his eldest son." (John)

John Toy, presumably brother of William Toy, came to Boston, MBC., a short time prior to making his last will & testament that was probated 7 dec. 1641 & refers to his son, Allen. John was a "trader". He left (in his will — bequests of goods, fruit trees & money.

Allen Toy, son of John & presumably nephew of William. Nothing further known, though he may never come here.

Grace Toy, the dau. of Wm & Grace (Newell) Toy, according to her fathers will married ______ Meade.

There was a Henry Toy who lived at Ipswich, MBC (north shore colony). He died 1655.

Isaiah Toy, son of Wm & Grace served in the Militia during King Phillips War

& was a Representative to the General Court c: 1700's.

Abiel - s/o Wm & Grace - other than date of birth (1-21-1652) nothing known.

Nathaniel, s/o Wm & Grace, married Bathsheba Wyman, dau. of John Wyman, & resided at Billerica, a town west of Boston. Nath. & Bathsheba oops married 30 May 1677. (Issue: unk.)

Jeremiah, son of Wm & Grace, referred to in his father's will, he marr: Mercy ______ & had issue: Jeremiah, Woodward,* William, Jeremiah, Isaiah & Mercy. (Presume 1st Jeremiah died).

And, that is about it.

So, sorry my printer is down!

Best regards,
Ruth

* poss. his mother's maidenname.

Re: Toy origins

Dear Froberg,

In reply to your letter of 24 May, the original spelling of the surname Toy by Elias Johnson Toy was actually Tay. He definitely was not English. While we have no proof, a majority of the persons interviewed by Peter Kalm in 1748 were of the opinion that he came from Holland, although one person (Mårten Garret) claimed he was of Finnish origins. See my book, The 1693 Census of the Swedes on the Delaware, 64.

In my own opinion, he was probably of Dutch origins. His life was closed intertwined with Frederick Frederickson König. They lived close to each other. Elias Toy named his eldest son Frederick and Frederick König (King) named his eldest son Elias.

Sincerely yours,

Peter S. Craig

Dear Fran

Thank you for your letter of 21 November. How interesting that you met Bill Curnow and heard one of his presentations on Cornwall. He has been an active and very able member of our Cornish Heritage Society East and we are sorry that he is moving to Florida. Our group will miss him very much. However I believe that he would like to establish a Cornish group in your area and that will be great for you.

Yes I have done lots of research using Cornish records. Both of my parents were born there but I was born in the U.S. Since my parents were from Cornwall and my Mother had a great memory I had a great start as I knew which parishes to search for ancestors. Your problem will be finding where in Cornwall to begin.

Most of my research has been done in a Family History Center at a local Morman Church. They are wonderful genealogy places open to the public with volunteers from the church and public as helpers. There is probably a Family History Center in a Morman Church somewhere in your area and that is where you should begin. First I suggest that you look for the surname of TOY in the IGI. (International genealogical index) At the Family History Center the IGI is found in 2 places. It is on microfische and usually on CD roms on a computer. They will help you. All you need to tell them is that it is Cornwall in England and you want to find TOY. When you find the surname you can copy or get printouts of all the TOYs listed. They list births, christenings and marriages--no deaths on the IGI. Information on the IGI was all sent to the central depository in Utah of the Morman Church by someone who was sending in their family info or sending in a copy of their research and lots was sent in many years ago and there are many errors.

In addition to the IGI, there is another index available at the FHC which is a name index. I cannot at the moment remember what it is called but it is also on the computer and worth a look.

I also strongly suggest that you join the CORNWALL FAMILY HISTORY SOCIETY, 5 Victoria Square, Truro, Cornwall TR1 2RS, England. This is a society formed in Cornwall for the purpose of helping people who are searching for Cornish connections etc. I have been a member for years and found others searching the same people that I am and we help each other. They publish the surnames you are researching when you join and through their directories of members. People see the surnames you are searching and write to you. I got loads of help this way and am still in touch with some of them--in Australia, England, New Zealand and all over the US.

After you have looked at the IGI and the name index and providing you find possibilities, there are parish records for births, deaths and marriages for all of Cornwall beginning in the 1500s and continuing to the present. Some records are better than others but there are loads of records. Of course there are census records and other records also but some would be too recent for you. Census records available are 1841 to 1891. In England one must wait 100 years to order or see a census record.

Most of what I have needed for research I was able to get through the FHS. You can order microfilms to view at their centers for a small fee. In addition the Cornwall Family History Society in Truro has many publications for sale and some are helpful after you have identified the parishes you need.

If you narrow your research to certain parishes in Cornwall there are lots of memorial inscription lists available (names on tombstones for many parishes) from the CFHS in Truro. They have members who go to the churchyards and cemeterys and copy all the info from all the stones. I have found some of my ancestors with the help of their lists.

Can't think of anything else now. Good luck. I have seen the surname of TOY in the Camborne, Cornwall parish records which is one parish that I have done a lot of research as my Dad was born there.

I have also visited Cornwall 3 times and did research in the record office in Truro. Some records are only available over there.

Let me know how you do.

Sincerely,

Virginia

John Jnr. died of scarlet fever on 24th February 1883, at the age of 13. He was buried in Hølonda churchyard, where his father had purchased a family plot.

In 1883, Marianne Elisabet married Ingebrikt Olsson Næve (1861-1938). Marianne and Ingebrikt lived at Sjøli and they had 4 children: Oline Arntine, born in 1883; Johanna Sofie, born in 1886 and went to America about 1905; John, born 14th July 1891; Ole, born 2nd May 1896. Marianne died at Meldal 27th October 1913.

On 17th May 1889 a child was born at Sjøli, to Elise Sims. The father was Kristian Ingebriktsson Gumdal from Orkdal parish, seven years junior to Elise. John Sims had forbidden Elise to marry Kristian, for reasons unknown. The child was given the Norwegian name of Johannes, after his Cornish grandfather John. Elise married on 17th June 1890, to Ola Knutsson Espaas. Elise and Ola had three children: Ragna Marie, born 4th June 1891; John, born about 1893 and died about 1895; John, born 14th March 1897. Elise and Ola lived in Rennebu parish; Elise died of tuberculosis on 28th January 1901. She was buried in the Sims family plot at Hølonda churchyard.

Visits to Cornwall

Johns Sims probably returned more than once to visit Cornwall. In the summer of 1894 he went back to his homeland and visited with those in the family that were still there; his brother James, whom he had not seen for almost fifty years, had come from America to visit.

Marit Sims died at Sjøli on 18th June 1896, aged 65. She was buried in the Sims family plot at Hølonda churchyard. Also in 1896, Anna Marie Sims married Ivar Olsson Næve (born 1871, the brother of Marianne Elisabet's husband). Anna Marie and Ivar lived at the farm Gaasbakken in Hølonda, which Ivar had purchased in 1897. They had no children, her nephew, Johannes Sims, had a home with them until he went to America in 1907. Anna Marie died about 1924.

John Sims died 8th May 1902 at his farm Sjøli, of complications from asthma. He was buried with his wife Marit in Hølonda churchyard, a thousand miles from his Cornish place of birth. Their handsome pink-granite gravestone, inset with a bas-relief angel and topped with an alabaster dove, is inscribed: "John Sims, födt England, Hvil i fred" (born in England, Rest in peace).

The farm Sjøli was taken over by John's son-in-law, Ingebrikt Næve, who sold the farm in 1909 for 36,000 kroner and moved to Meldal.

The Toy Family of Cornwall

Contributed by The Ven. T. BARFETT (78)

Whence came they and what was their origin? What was their original name? Is there any member who may have done some research on this family who could throw further light on the problem? There evidently were some Toys in England, Wales and Ireland in the Middle Ages. There does not seem to be any record of them in Cornwall before the early entries in the Constantine and Wendron registers of the latter years of the 16th Century. Oral tradition suggests that they landed in the Helford river but beyond that there is no evidence.

The earliest reference in 1595 suggests that their arrival may well have been the result of Catherine de Medici's persecution of the Huguenots in 1574. This family seems to be separate from Alderman Bryan Toye's family whose ancestor, Guillaume Henry Toye, a weaver and a Huguenot, came over from France and settled in London. Alderman Toye is the Director of Toye Kenning and Spencer the company which manufactures medals and decorations and is a member of the Court of Common Council in the City of London. Our difficulty is that Guillaume did not arrive in London until after the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes. He came disguised as a cattle dealer in 1685 and settled in Hope Town, today known as Bethnal Green.

Incidentally, the Company has produced a small pamphlet which describes the history of the firm since its inception in 1685.

An earlier reference in the City of London is of one Humphrey Toy who had an answer printed to John Whitgift's tract An answer to a certain Libel in 1572 in response to the Puritan treatise which advocated the reform of the Church of England, Humphrey kept a bookshop in St Paul's Churchyard. It was during the second part of Queen Elizabeth's reign that the Calvinists increased their agitation against the English Church.

The late Humphrey Toms of Vancouver, researching the Welsh Port Books (1550-1603) records that there were two merchants living in Carmarthen trading with Bristol across the Bristol Channel from 1565 to 1567 called Robert and Humphrey Toy. The ships they were using were called Le Michaell de Laugharn and Le Mathew de Carmarthen. (Food for thought.)

Referring to even earlier times, John Rowe of Ottawa told me that there is a village of the name in Northern Ireland not far from Belfast and another in the United States of America. Dr A.L. Rowse in his book The Cornish in America mentions several of the name emigrating and settling on that side of the Atlantic. He also said that there was an Aluric Toy recorded in Liber Wintoniensis and a Warin Toy appears in the 1273 Hundred Rolls of Cambridge. Furthermore there is a Toy's Hill in Kent presumably named after a Norman Toy or du Toit. There was also a Toy family in Gloucestershire at an early period.

The question is then posed: are they the du Toit family of France? I have found several references to this family in the journals of the Sociéte de l'histoire de Protestantime Française' (some of which I have deposited in the Society's library). From these it is possible to trace the migration of the Huguenots from France to the east into the Low Countries and Switzerland. In fact Rietstap shows a coat of arms attributed to them in the Canton of Vaud: "D'azur a deux poteaux d'or ùn toit de gules adextrés et senestrés d'une haie d'osiers d'or".

I have been in touch with some of this family, one is an architect in Toronto, another was Dean of Carlisle Cathedral some thirty years ago. These came from the part of the family which had emigrated to South Africa. Mrs Hearne of Lelant, many years ago, researched the origin of that family in Capetown for me and found there a marriage of 1690. They had come from a place near Lille in Northern France. Another contact was Lieutenant General du Toit of the South African Army who shows descent from this marriage. However, as this migration was after the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes it does not seem to help much with our problem of the century before. (Rugger fans may have noticed a player of this name in the 1991 Varsity match.) An interesting point is that du Toit is pronounced Toy in South Africa. There was also a General in the Dutch Army called du Toit at the beginning of the Second World War, I noted this in a newspaper of the time but did not take further notice of it.

After some thirty years that is as far as I have been able to get but perhaps there is someone out there who has more information or who can build on what is written above.

May 5, 2009

Dear Fran,

It was nice to hear from you and many thanks for the family history information. I apologize for my failure to keep you informed about our activities and hope that you are doing well. There has been some nasty weather in your area during the last few years. We have had a very cold and wet spring, and the weather has kept us from getting much done outside. Pat is hoping to get her vegetable garden going soon.

I have not accomplished much with the Toy side of the family in the past couple of years. Most of my attention has been given to the maternal side, and I have found quite a few things related to the Watkins and Valentin families. But I did try something different last year. I tried a DNA test program last spring, and the results for the paternal side of the family suggest that we have reason to be confused about the background of Elias Toy's father.

One of the initial results indicated that there were exact genetic matches scattered in about a dozen countries, with England, France, Germany, Ireland, Scotland, and the United Kingdom predominating. These matches were described as among the most recent generational connections. There were also one or two genetic matches in Belarus, Canada, Netherlands, New Zealand, Spain, Sweden, and Wales. That leaves us about where we were with the early information. There were numerous other less exact matches in many other countries over a longer period of time. They included genetic matches with one to four variations, thus indicating these near matches probably dated from much earlier.

The genetic matches for males include connections for both fraternal and maternal lines, so that adds to the confusion. I have tried to get another test to see if there are any differences. I am also planning to try a surname list, but there is only one other Toy doing that with this particular company. So, we shall see if the DNA studies add anything more. I will definitely keep you and Ruth Holman informed about these results.

With best wishes,

Eckard TOY

FISH

CASPER FISH II

Casper was born on February 9, 1684 or January 11, 1688 to Casparus Fish and Margaret _____ Fish.① The year of his birth would determine whether he was born in Pennsylvania or New Jersey. He was the youngest of four sons and had three sisters. Casper was between 20 and 24 at the time of his father's death and was named co-executor of his father's will in 1707 with Nicholas Laycon, his brother-in-law. Casper received the majority of his father's estate, both real and personal. This seems unusual as property in those days passed to the oldest child. His brother, John, was not mentioned in their father's will and may have died. His brothers, Gustanus and Elias (if my assumptions have been correct) were on their own and living quite a distance from the family homestead. They may have received some monetary help from their father when they married.

According to the will of Casper II, he had seven children: Michael, John, Isaac, Elias, Rebecca, Mary and Eleanor. Michael, Isaac, Rebecca and Eleanor are new names and may have come from his wife's family. I dislike presuming again but will have to unless I find a record for the ages of Casper's (II) children. His son Michael was married in 1737. So I am making a guess Michael was 23/27 and born in 1710/14. Casper would have then married about 1709/13 at age 25.

There is a record of Casper's grandson, William, being born 1754. So if William's father (Isaac) was about 25/30 when he married, Isaac's date of birth would be 1723/28.

1. MICRO-FILM ON GLORIA DEI at Pennsylvania Genealogical Soc.

JOHN - He was appointed executor of his brother Michael's will and died Intestate before 1760. I have not unearthed any records for a John Fish in Waterford Township for that time period. Was he Casper's oldest son? Did he marry? Did he have children? He inherited part of his father's land but I have not, as yet, discovered a deed pertaining to this property. Casparus (I) had 220 acres, Casper (II) added 150 acres, total 370. If Michael received 16 acres, that left 354 to be divided equally between John and Isaac (177). I have not found Isaac purchasing any land; nevertheless, from 1779 to his death he has 290 acres.

REBECCA -

MARY - There is a possibility she could be one of the following:

Mary Fish and John Hamilton married October 20, 1750 license issued by Gov. James Hamilton. (Pa. Historical Society) Pa. Marriages 1748-1752.

Mary Fish and John Codd married by Rev. William Sturgeon, March 5, 1756 at Christ Church, Phila.

ELEANOR - Could she be the Eleanor Fish who married James Tay, August 25, 1759 at Christ Church, Phila. (Pennsylvania Archives Series II Volume 8)

There are no TAYs listed as being buried in St. Mary's churchyard at Colestown. However, it is sometimes hard to read the older penmanship and TAY could have been TOY. Burials at St. Mary's, Colestown read:

April 1, 1787 James wife Eleanor Toy-pleuryz
June 14, 1787 James Toy about 75
March 18, 1803 James Toy

If Eleanor Toy was Casper's daughter, I have no idea of when she was born. From Casper's will I would presume she was still single in 1748. She could have been as old as Michael or just slightly older than Elias. Therefore, if she was Eleanor Toy, the first James Toy's death could have been her father-in-law or her husband. The second James Toy's death could have been her husband or her son.

Dear Ray:

I am well aware of your tremendous research efforts on the Howard Family. The more I ponder your relative, Mrs. Athla Tankersle's genealogical data, I think we relate through the Leach, Robinson. Sweets, Dunn's and other allied families of Illinois and Indiana. These families may relate to Eliakim Howard and [2] Margaret Truesdale. I connect through Alanson "Lant" Howard and Elizabeth Sweet. Eliakim and Alanson were sons of Sylvester Howard and wife Lyida Bosworth Sweet.

Sylvester and Alanson Howard were some of Illinois and Southeastern Nebraska's earliest Pioneer Families.

I quote from U.S. Treasury Department Claim Notification #179668, dated November 29, 1904, pertaining to Isaac Steele, as follows:

"In the case of Isaac Steele, private, Co. H, 3 Ind. Inf., and Pvt., Co. F, 70 Ind. Vols., a balance has been found due this office, and a certificate No. 8.429825 & 429826 dated Nov. 25, 1904' has been forwarded to the Secretary of the Treasury for payment, as follows: $42.14 to Francis J. Hart, (child), Anderson, Ind.; $7.02 to Sarah King, (grandchild), Morrisville, Ill.; $7.02 each to Perry Leach, and Susan Howard, (grandchildren), Louisville, Ill.; $7.02 to Martha Grotts, (grandchild), Alma, Ill.; $7.02 to Monroe Leach, 212 E. Martin St., Litchfield, Ill.; $14.04 each to Chas. W. Steele and Isaac C. Steele (grandchildren), all of Ohiowa, Nebr.; $10.53 to Isaac Stringer, (grandchild), Shelbyville, Ind.; $10.53 to Lydia Lawson, (grandchild), R.R. No. 8, Anderson, Ind.; $2.35 each to Alfred Lynch and Hattie Harkey, (great grandchildren), Irving, Ill.; $2.35 to Della Leach, (great grandchild), R. R. D. No. 1, Waggoner, Ill.; $21.07 to John W. Dear Sir:

I am well aware of your tremendous research efforts on the Howard Family. The more I ponder your relative, Mrs. Addie [illegible]'s genealogical data, I think we relate through the Leach, Robinson, Sweets, Dunn's and other allied families of Illinois and Indiana. These families may relate to Elisha Howard and [illegible] Margaret Alexander. I connect through Alanson "Lant" Howard and Elizabeth Sweet. Elisha and Alanson were sons of Sylvester Howard and wife Lydia Bostwick Sweet.

Sylvester and Alanson Howard were some of Illinois and Southeastern Nebraska's earliest Pioneer Families.

I quote from U.S. Treasury Department Claim Notification #179568, dated November 29, 1904, pertaining to Isaac Steele, as follows:

"In the case of Isaac Steele, private, Co. H, [illegible] Ind. Inf., and Pvt., Co. F, [illegible] Ind. Vols., a balance has been found due this office, and a certificate No. [illegible] dated Nov. 25, 1904' has been forwarded to the Secretary of the Treasury for payment, as follows: [illegible] to Francis [illegible] Hall, (child), Anderson, Ind.; [illegible] to Sarah King, (grandchild), [illegible], Ill.; [illegible] each to Harry Leach and Susan [illegible], (grandchildren), Louisville, Ill.; [illegible] to Martha Greene, (grandchild), Alma, Ill.; [illegible] to Horace Leach, [illegible] Greenfield, Ill.; [illegible] each to Chas. Further, I quote from the Louisville, Clay County, Illinois, September 11, 1929 newspaper, as follows:

Anyway, I am wondering if you would send me a copy of your pedigree. I hope to meet with you, when I travel to Des Moines, to meet with my Aunt, Esther Simpson Rash, Pual's wife. I am not certain, if travel will be allowed, due to a February 3rd, 1995, heart attack, due to complications from-on-set diabetes. The only other relative we know about was my great-uncle, Gilbert L. Howard, who died at age 44. He was married to Fanny Hays, of Southeastern Nebraska, mainly around Tobias or Tecumseh.

March 1990 Vol X, No 1

Olof Nilsson and His Gästenberg Family

Olof Nilsson, from Letstigen, Visnum Parish, Värmland län, arrived in New Sweden on the Mercurius in 1656 accompanied by his wife. Under Dutch rule, i.e., before 1664, he and five associates were granted a 1,000-acre tract at Marcus Hook, where he still resided in 1671. Soon after this tract was resurveyed by the English on 27 July 1675, Olle Nilsson joined Eric Mullica and Christiern Thomasson in their Tacony settlement, which was surveyed for 950 acres on 20 October 1675. By 1684 he had chosen the surname of Gästenberg (meaning "guest mountain" in Swedish), pronounced "Yestenberry" and spelled erratically in contemporary records. His two sons, Nils and Eric are shown below (#48-49). His three daughters, as named in Eric's will, were Christina, Maria and Brita, who in 1693 were married to Nils Jonasson (#23), Nils Lycon (#42) and Dirick Johnsson (#52). His wife Cecelia, born in Örebro, Sweden (allegedly in 1619), was buried at Gloria Dei on 26 May 1703.[24]

#48. Nils Nilsson Gästenberg (Pennypack, Dublin township, £64): Born in 1659 at Marcus Hook, Nils was frequently described as Nils Nilsson (his father's patronymic). He was so named in the 1693 tax record, although named Gästenberg in the church census. In 1680 he married Maria, born in 1663, the daughter of Gustaf Danielsson, who had arrived in New Sweden on the Eagle in 1654 and died intestate at Upland in 1681. In 1693 Nils and Maria Gästenberg had five daughters: Ingeborg (b. 1681), Anna (b. 1683), Helena (b. 1685), Maria (b. 18 Jan. 1690) and Brigitta (b. 11 April 1691).[25]

2nd wife of Elias Toy. See deeds.

#49. Eric Nilsson Gästenberg (Pennypack, £100): Shown in the 1693 tax record as "Erick Nellson," Eric died as Eric Gästenberg 8 Jan. 1725 [1724/5] at the reported age of 65. His wife, variously named as Hasin, Hannah, Hanshe and Hunshe, was a daughter of John Classon (see #51-53). After she died intestate in 1745, there was a scramble among collateral heirs to share in her estate of over £400. She and Eric had no children. In the 1693 census their household included Eric's aged mother.[26]

The Boore Family

Among the passengers arriving in New Sweden in 1641 was a sailor named Lars Thomasson from Veddige Parish, Halland län, Sweden, who served many years on Governor Printz' sloop, became a freeman, married and in 1653 joined 21 other freemen in complaining about Printz' rule. As a freeman, Lars Thomasson adopted a surname which was generally written as "Boers" by contemporary scribes (perhaps from "boer," meaning "farmer" in Dutch). But the name transition is clear, because throughout Lars Thomasson used a distinctive mark, an arrow pointing upward with an "x" in the middle.[27] His wife, for many years a widow, was described in her old age as Swedish and the mother of Lars Bure. She gained some notoriety by the fact that she had been scalped by Indians in her youth and no hair thereafter grew on her head.[28]

#50. Lars Larsson Boore (Pennypack, £124): Lars Larsson, son of Lars Thomasson, was born in New Sweden in August 1648. Until the mid-1680's he generally used the patronymic (Larsson, Laurenson, Lawson), although his name was entered as Laers Boers in the 1677 Upland Court tax list. The spelling of his chosen surname varied considerably (Bure, Buur, Boer, Boor, Bore, Boore), but became standardized as Boore in later generations. As Laurence Laurenson, he was one of the six original patentees of Karraconks (Carkoens) Hook in Kingsessing, surveyed on 19 June 1675 for 560 acres, "which they have long inhabited." With Olle Ollesson Kuckow (#188), Laers Laerson moved in 1680 to a 670-acre tract called "Pleasant Hill" between Poquessing and Pennypack creeks. He remained at this location until his death in 1708. His wife Elizabeth (parents not identified), born in February 1654, was named in his will of 27 Nov. 1708, but was deceased by the time it was proved, 7 Feb. 1708/9. In 1693 their household included five children, Lars (b. 1678), Gertrude, Elizabeth (b. 14 Mar. 1687), Maria (b. 7 Aug. 1689) and Anders (b. 20 Sep. 1691), and either Lars Boore's aged mother or a servant.[29]

John Classon and the Johnson Family

John Classon, also called John "Paerde Cooper" (horse trader in Dutch), and his brother Peter Classon (father of Jacob Classon of the Crane Hook congregation, #136) shared the "Mill Dorpe" plantation on the Christina River in 1669-1671.[30] Both were probably sons of Clas Jansson, who was a passenger on the first voyage of the Kalmar Nyckel to New Sweden in 1637-38 and who is recorded as the first settler at the site later called "Mill Dorpe."[31] By 1677 John Classon owned land at Passyunk, property which he sold to Anders Bengtsson in 1681. On 11 Sept. 1677 the Upland Court granted him 300 acres on Neshaminy Creek. By a later grant from William Penn, this was expanded to 525 acres.[32]

John Claessen and his eldest son, Claes Jansson, each pledged 12 guilders to the Swedish church at Wicaco on 10 August 1684. The father apparently died soon thereafter. In 1693, he was survived by three sons (#51-53) and six known daughters: Anna (then the widow of Francis Walker), Hasin or Hannah (wife of Eric Gästenberg, #49), Henrietta (wife of Matthias Keen, #45), Gertrude, Elizabeth (b. 1678) and Catharine (b. 1680).[33]

#51. Claes Johnsson (Neshaminy, Bensalem township, Bucks Co., £80): Born c. 1658, Claes Johnsson was married to Walburg, born c. 1661, the daughter of Matthias Bengtsson. Her father, possibly a brother of Anders Bengtsson (#14), had been deputy schout and court-messenger for the Upland court before his death on 9 Sept. 1662. Their children in 1693 were John (b. 1683), Lawrence (b. 1688), Derick (b. 1691) and probably a fourth one (b. c.1685) who died before 1697. Claes Johnson died in December 1723, "probably 65 years old," and his widow Walburg died in April 1732, "aged about 68 or 70 years."[34]

Peter Petersson Yocum (#35). His 500-acre New Jersey tract, based on a permit issued in February 1674, was located on the north side of Pennsauken Creek, and shared with Jonas Keen (#44) and Frederick Fredericksson König or King (#55), when a patent was finally issued 23 Feb. 1683/4. Hans acquired another 100 acres on 10 Apr. 1688. He probably died c. 1691. On 10 May 1692 his property was taxed to "Widow Hance." Thereafter his widow and sons adopted Steelman (Stille + Måns) as their surname.[42]

#54. Peter Hansson Steelman (Senamensing, Chester township, Burlington Co.): In 1693 the widow Ella Steelman, born in Sweden in 1634, resided with her three youngest sons, Peter (b. in Senamensing c. 1674), Christiern (b. 1679) and Eric (b. 1681). Soon after the 1693 census Peter Steelman married Gertrude, the daughter of Hans and Williamke Keen (see#95). By 1697 they had two children and resided at Great Egg Harbor (Atlantic City). Christiern Steelman moved to New Castle, where he married Mary (of Quaker birth), widow of James Claypoole Jr. and daughter of John and Mary Cann who arrived in New Jersey on the Griffin in 1675. Eric Steelman married Brita (parents not identified) and moved to Gloucester County, where he died of smallpox 10 May 1731. Old Ella Steelman was buried 10 Jan. 1718 in Gloucester County.[43]

The König or King Family

#55. Frederick Fredericksson King (Senamensing): The 1693 church census names him "Friedrich König," the name also assigned to him when he pledged support of the Wicaco church in 1684, suggesting that Frederick was of German origins. In Delaware River records, he was also called Frederick Frederickson and, finally, Frederick King. Born in September 1659, he was present in Burlington County as early as 1680 when he was shown as sharing 500 acres on Pennsauken Creek with Captain Hans Månsson (#54) and Jonas Keen (#44). He also bought 200 adjoining acres with John Hansson Steelman (#142). In 1693, Frederick King was married to Christina, daughter of Jonas Nilsson (#22) and had a son Elias (b. May 1690). Others in the household of six included his wife's sister Brigitta, her brother Peter Jonasson and Charles Steelman. Frederick King was chosen constable of Chester township on 21 Feb. 1697/8, but drowned in the Delaware River 24 Sept. 1698, leaving a widow and five children.[44]

The Toy Family

#56. Elias Toy (Senamensing): The father and national origin of Elias Toy ("Tay" in Wicaco church records) have not yet been discovered. Born in October 1664, Elias Toy is first mentioned in Delaware River records on 10 Aug. 1684 when he pledge 12 guilders to support the Wicaco church. On 20 April 1689 he purchased 139 acres at Senamensing from Frederick King (#55). With him at that time were his mother Christina and his sister Susannah (see #57). In February 1690 Elias married Gertrude, born 1671, daughter of Anthony Nilsson (#64). By the time of

Elias Toy's
2d wife was Maria Gärtonberg

the 1693 census their household included two children, Frederick (b. 30 July 1690) and Margaret (b. 14 Dec. 1691). Elias Toy died in Senamensing before 22 Feb. 1719/20 when the inventory of his estate, endorsed by his widow, was filed in the Gloucester County Court.[45]

#57. Jöns Hansson Steelman (Senamensing): In 1693 Elias Toy's sister Susannah was living with her husband, Jöns Hansson Steelman, their son Anders (b. 1691), and Susannah's mother Christina. Jöns (called James in English records) was the second son of Hans Månsson and Ella Steelman (see #54). On 10 Nov. 1695 James Steelman acquired 500 acres near Great Egg Harbor (Atlantic City area), to which he later added further lands. As one of its first residents, he was chosen 1 June 1696 to lay out a road between Great Egg Harbor and Gloucester. The will of James Steelman of Great Egg Harbor, dated 2 Aug. 1734, proved 10 Jan. 1734/5, named eight children, the youngest of whom was born by his second wife, Catharine Ouster, whom he married 13 June 1730.[46]

The Fish Family

#58. Caspar Fisk (Fish) (Putshack, Pennsauken Creek, Gloucester County): Although not born in Sweden, he consistently signed his name as Caspar Fisck (the Swedish word for "fish"), and probably was the son of Johan Fisk, who came to New Sweden on the Swan in 1648.[47] Caspar was born 4 Feb. 1651, presumably in New Sweden. On 17 April 1675 he married Margaret, born 1656, daughter of Gustaf Danielsson of Upland. In 1676, in partnership with Peter Petersson Yocum (#35), Fisk was granted 500 acres called "Pimmepaka" (Pennypack), where he lived briefly before moving to West Jersey. On 7 Aug. 1682, both he and Marcus Lawrence, his wife's brother-in-law, obtained 100 acre tracts on the south side of Pennsauken Creek, where he lived until his death in 1708. Caspar Fisk was a Wicaco church warden in 1684 and 1693. In the latter year his household included six children, Johan (b. 15 Sep. 1677), Gustaf (b. 10 Dec. 1678), Elias (b. 16 June 1681), Caspar (b. 9 Feb. 1684), Susannah (b. 11 Jan. 1688) and Maria (b. 15 May 1693), plus two orphaned children of Marcus Lawrence (see #59). His eldest daughter Anna had left home and was living with her husband, Peter Petersson Stake (#29). After Caspar's first wife Margaret died in childbirth 14 Nov. 1697, Caspar Fisck married Williamke, the widow of Hans Keen (#95). In civil records Caspar's name was invariably written as ~~Casper Fish, and Fish be~~came the family surname.[48]

Marcus Lawrence and the Huling Family

Marcus Lawrence (to use the English spelling) was a Holsteiner, first found in Delaware River records in 1669 when he drew a nominal fine for involvement in the Long Finn Rebellion. By 1675 he had joined Olle Fransson (#159) and Nils Nilsson alias Repot (#168) on a 700 acre plantation at Verdrietige Hook in present New Castle County, north of Christina (Wilmington). He had two known wives, the first

2. ancestral line down from James Toy (1717-1787). You write that Eleanor Fish is my ancestor - yet I have it that Mary Borden 2nd wife of James is that individual. Consider this -

James wed Patience Wallace & had Patience Toy. Patience Wallace Toy may have died in childbirth or shortly afterward. James in need of someone to care for his daughter, Patience Toy, then married Mary Borden c. 1749-50.

Sometime between 1850 & 1759 Mary Borden Toy died & James then wed Eleanor Fish.

James Toy was named by Richard Borden as his executor & was referred to by Borden as "my son-in-law" in Will. Richard Borden died circa 1751.

James Toy & Mary Borden named their first born child Richard Toy & their second child James. (Possibly Peter was their son.)

James & Eleanor Fish wed 1759. Sons Caleb & Andrew were born in 1760's.

SECTION B. IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT YOUR ORDER

We can only search for a record based on the information you provided in blocks 1-12. The success and accuracy of our search is determined by the information you provide. Often there are many files for veterans of the same or nearly the same name. If there are three or fewer files for men with the same name as the individual in whom you are interested, we will examine the relevant files and compare their contents with the information that you have provided us. If the veteran's identity seems obvious, we will furnish you a copy of the file we think is the correct one.

We can not make a file-by-file check to see if the information in the numerous files matches that provided for the veteran in whom you are interested. In such cases, we suggest that you visit the National Archives and examine the various files, or hire a professional researcher to examine the files for you. We do not maintain a list of persons who do research for a fee; however, many researchers advertise their services in genealogical periodicals, usually available in libraries.

PLEASE NOTE: This mail order photocopying service is available ONLY from Old Military and Civil Records (NWCTB-Military) at the address below. Please address all inquiries about your order to Old Military and Civil Records at this address or call us at 301-713-6800. When you send more than one form at a time, each form is handled separately. Therefore, you may not receive all of your replies at the same time. Allow 8 to 10 weeks for processing your order. More information about the availability of records pertaining to military service or family histories may be found in our free genealogical information leaflets and forms. You may request these, as well as order additional copies of this form, by writing to: Old Military and Civil Records (NWCTB-Military), Textual Archives Services Division, National Archives and Records Administration, 700 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20408-0001.

Toi
Tøj

Dear Fran Wooley,

The "Toy" surname could certainly be Swedish, and, if you found it in Peter S. Craig's work, you can almost bet on it. It might be spelled "Toj" or Toi, or Töi or something similar in Sweden, but, phonetically, "Toy" is what the record keeper heard.

If Mr. Craig did not list where they came from in Sweden, that indicates it might take a very long search, unless you can get on the Internet and get lucky with someone answering you about it. There is so much there, chances are actually good that could happen.

For Olof Froberg and Helena Anderson, you might try looking into their "church marriage", the membership records of the church they attended when they first got to this country, their "church" death record, the sexton's record, their obituary in a local Swedish or Norwegian language newspaper, the sexton's records, the funeral home records, their marriage license application, old family letters, pictures, and so forth, to find a place name.

"Upsand" is a name that does not appear in the Norwegian Postal guides. It is suspected "Utsund", a place in Kviteseid parish, Telemark county, Norway, or Uppstad = "Opstad" in Østfold County Norway is meant. That is a place in Tune parish - Sarpsborg parish is next door. You would have to look into the actual parish registers of the place in order to find out the true story concerning Helen and her parents.

As you may be aware, those films, and some of the others you may need could be ordered to a local Family History Center™. A list of those nearest you is enclosed. The staff there could help you determine which films would be best to search.

You may also want to contact Mr. Craig, and see if he has anything further in his files about the Toy family. His number is 202-362-7192.

Hope this gives you some ideas as to where you can find the answers.

Good luck in your searches!!

Sincerely,

Ruth Maness

From Our Viking Past

THIS IS THE STORY OF WEST JERSEY, and especially of certain colonial families who have left their imprint upon the history of this special part of New Jersey. To tell the story requires a return to Europe, to the great northland commonly known as Scandinavia, and more particularly, to Sweden.

Finland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden produced a daring, inquisitive and warlike people who became known as the Vikings, and even later as the Normans. Far earlier, man was living in Sweden. Archeological diggings have revealed human habitation in Sweden some 6,000 years before Christ. In A.D. 98, Tacitus mentioned the powerful Sviones (Swedes). Later, Ptolemy spoke of the Goths of Sweden. By the sixth century, the Swedes had established their capital city of Uppsala, and Beowulf, a Swede, had become an epic hero.

Myth and historical fact are interwoven in the saga of Beowulf in which he earned his first fame by coming to the rescue of Hrothgar, king of the Danes. Our hero was the nephew of Hygeloc, king of the Geats, and it was altogether seemly that ruling families give support to one another. The Danish army was being destroyed by the monster, Grendel. Nightly, Grendel raided the mead hall, killing the king's soldiers. Beowulf slew Grendel. The Danish army was saved. The legend continues, depicting Beowulf in a series of fantastic adventures in which he was ever victorious. Eventually Beowulf became king of the Geats, over whom he ruled for fifty years. Finally, his

THE HANS AND ELLA MANSSON FAMILY

Hans and Ella Mansson, married ca. 1654 at Wicacao, had:
- John Hansson, born ca. 1655.
- James, born ca. 1665; married Susannah Tay.
- Peter, born ca. 1667; married Gartara ——— in Old Swedes Church.
- Charles, born ca. 1679; married ——— Yokum.
- Eric, born ca. 1681; married Bridget ———; purchased lands in Greenwich Township of Justa Lock on July 9, 1715.

Hans died May 10, 1691; Ella died in 1718 at the home of her son Eric.

Eric and Bridget had:
- Hance, baptized Mar. 7, 1719, at Raccoon Church.
- James, who married Rebecca Boles.
- Catherine.
- Carl, born July 5, 1724.
- Bridget, born Sept. 10, 1726; died Nov. 6, 1726.
- Mary and Eric, born Feb. 1718 (twins); Eric died this same month.

Eric, the father, died of smallpox in 1731, intestate. After payment for nursing care in his last months and other debts, balance of estate paid to his daughters, Mary Champion and Catherine Steelman.

Charles had:
- Eric II.
- Margaret, who married John Bird.
- Eleanor, who married David Enuxson.
- Charles.

Hans left the Cinnaminson Plantation to his son Charles, who, in turn, left to his son, Charles. This latter Charles sold the estate to Philip Wallis. The deed is duly signed by Charles, Eleanor Enuxson, and Margaret Bird. (New Jersey Archives, D.D., p. 206).

John Hansson moved to Delaware, became a well-known Indian trader, and established a trading post which grew into the present Harrisburg.

Eric II had:
- Hance.
- Charles.
- John.
- Daniel.
- James, who married, first, Magdalene Paterson, and second, on Feb. 12, 1772, Elizabeth Lock Keene (born Apr. 4, 1747). Her will dated Apr. 3, 1786, proved Jan. 12, 1788. This couple had: Elizabeth, Jan. 5, 1773; Jemimy, May 3, 1776; John, May 5, 1778; Andrew, June 5, 1781.

which included the Delaware River Valley was a denial of and in contravention of an earlier grant made to Sweden by King Charles I of England. The grantees of such grants expected to become enriched from the sale and rentals of land. In both types of title, quitrents were collected annually. Also, the collection of taxes, license sales, and duties added to the income.

With the title lying with the duke of York, and unbeknownst to him, his agent granted patents to the lands on which Englishtown and Monmouth are now located. The same deputy later encouraged dissenters to settle at Shrewsbury and Middletown. Unaware of the issuance of these grants and patents, James, the duke of York, conveyed his rights to John Lord Berkeley and Sir George Cartaret. Both of these men held title to huge land grants in the Carolinas, and neither had any real interest in the new grant. Berkeley, in particular, had a distinct preference for the social whirl of London in contrast to any visit to or any entanglements in the New World.

The southern boundary of Cartaret's grant, following the Treaty of Westminster, was set in a line running from Barnegat Creek to Rankokus Kill. This was superseded in 1676 when John Lawrence ran a line from Little Egg Harbor to forty-one degrees and forty minutes north latitude on the Delaware River. George Keith ran a third line from Little Egg Harbor to the south branch of the Raritan River in 1687. However, the line run by John Lawrence was incorporated in the quintipartite deed of 1676 and validated by the New Jersey Supreme Court in 1855. Under the terms of the quintipartite deed, the southern half of the province was named West Jersey and the northern part became East Jersey. The deed was signed by Daniel Leeds, Thomas Budd, and Thomas Revel, among others.

Berkeley and Cartaret promptly sold their grants in New Jersey. East Jersey was purchased by a group of twelve men headed by William Penn. West Jersey was sold to a tanner of England, one John Fenwick, on March 18, 1674. Fenwick was fronting for Edward Byllynge and relying on Byllynge's promise to yield to Fenwick 10 percent of any profits accruing from the deal. Fenwick made the purchase for 1,000 pounds, then roughly equivalent to $5,000. The land cost him about two cents an acre.

Byllynge had been involved in some financial and real estate deals which were tainted with fraud, and he was barred by the English courts from holding title in, or dealing in, real estate.[1] Consequently, the Fenwick-Byllynge transaction was an illicit deal. Fenwick bor-

The West Jersey Shore Develops

JAMES STEELMAN WAS BUSY at the Tacony plantation, and he was talking of selling his property. He was at home but infrequently. During 1688 and 1689, he had made several trips to the Jersey shore and talked excitedly of living there. Ella, his mother, knew he visited the Mullicas at their Tarakan estate from time to time, but she was surprised to learn he had become a frequent guest at the Christian Tay plantation, their neighbors. James and Elias Tay had been lifetime friends, and it was to be expected that the fraternal ties would continue unbroken. Ella complained because James did not stop in to see her and Hans as frequently as she hoped. She learned that from time to time James was an overnight or a weekend guest of the Tays. Then came the news. Susannah Tay, sister of Elias Tay, and a longtime friend of James, had accepted James's proposal of marriage. While Hans and Ella had not planned such a union, nor were they consulted, it was an especially agreeable engagement. The Tays were prosperous people, held in high esteem among the Swedes, and were close neighbors. Equally important, the Tays were Swedes. Susannah was a blond, blue-eyed, large-boned young woman who, judging by her build, promised many hale and hearty grandsons.

Ella had lots of time to reminisce, as did Hans. Free of direct responsibilities for the operation of the plantation, Ella and Hans had ample opportunity to dream of the future and to recall the past. Ella would be involved in the plans for the wedding. Being neighbors, some part of the wedding celebration would fall upon the Steelmans. The major responsibilities of the wedding and its attendant festivities fell upon the Tays; yet the overflow of guests would require that many be put up at the Steelmans.

Ella recalled the close friendship which had extended over the years between Susannah and James, how they had attended church together, learned their cathechisms together, visited back and forth between the two properties and sailed back and forth across the Delaware when livestock was being transported to Dock Creek for sale. She could visualize the courting: James and Susannah going for rides on their horses; sitting before the fireplace, at the Tays, to talk; and lying on long winter nights on Susannah's bed, with her under one quilt and James atop the quilt, whereby the couple gained a degree of privacy while conserving heat and light.

Ella dreamed her dreams while Hans followed his own thought-patterns. Hans thought of the wedding as a part of his admiration for his extended acres of well-cared-for farmlands, the great barns which provided storage as well as stables for his horses. Ella was more concerned about the interior appearance of the home. "Certainly," she assured herself, "this is a very suitable place in which to entertain." The whitewashed plaster walls provided a desirable background for the pieces of furniture which she had accumulated over the years. Most of these pieces had been built by itinerant cabinetmakers who used the cherry, the oak, or the maple readily available on the plantation. "With my fine linen on the dining room table, my new pewter candelabra agleam with candles, the dining room will be a picture. I am so happy that the children gave me the pewter table service and the fine china, for they add elegance which would have been lacking were I obliged to use the tin cups and wooden spoons with which I began my marriage." The dining table would seat twenty-six people at a time comfortably and from the adjacent kitchen and bakery, a wide variety of foods and pastries would be served to tempt the palates of the guests.

Among those expected to be housed at the Steelman's were the Peter Rambo family, lifelong friends and neighbors from Aronomink; the Sven Svensons; Captain Lars Kock, with his wife and nine children; Anders Bonde, his wife and ten children; and, of course, the Steelmans, with their children. While the married couples would enjoy the wedding and the extended gala, Ella hoped that the young men from among the Swedes, the single men such as John Bonde, Hindrick Collman, Matts Jacobs, and Lars Larson would attend. Young, single men were needed to enliven the parties and, naturally, to enable the young people to meet, and hopefully, become romatically aware of one another.

The celebration would begin at Gloria Dei, Wicacao, after which the guests would begin to arrive at the Tay's and at the Steelman's. No one could foretell how many would come, nor how long they would stay. In addition, all neighbors were invited and would come for varying periods of time. Hans was having the men put up benches and tables in the yard about the house. The stables were being aired and cleaned lest they be needed for sleeping quarters. The bedrooms would sleep quite a number, and the children would sleep on pallets placed on the floor. While Ella was dreaming of the huge roasts baking in the ovens, while great vats filled with potatoes or carrots and other staples bubbled over the fires, with savory pies and cakes and breads belching forth from the ovens, Hans was making certain he had adequate supplies of hard cider, brandy, wine, and brews for the celebration.

The days rushed by amid much bustling and visiting between the families, and the hustle and excitement gave Ella an exhilaration she had not experienced for a long time. As the preparations continued that last week, she checked through the rooms to make certain the servants had dusted thoroughly. She admired the hooked rugs which graced the wide-planked floors and which lent color to the entire room. The dining room floor was bare. The hooked rug which had occupied the floor had been banished to a bedroom. Ella had a surprising bit of luxury with which to amaze her guests. At the last minute, she would have the maids lay her rug. The latest in style, it had just been landed at the pier a few days previously. This straw carpet would draw commendatory remarks from the women, albeit such compliments might be tinged with shades of envy.

Transportation for the guests was a matter of concern. Canoes and flatboats were the principal means of movement. While the coastal trading vessels which stopped at the plantation's pier were excellent and economical means for moving pelts, grain, barreled meats, and livestock to market, social visits and calls meant travel by water, by foot, or by horseback. Travel by land meant following the Indian trails. Fording a stream in dry weather was easily done, but where a stream had been swollen by heavy rains or by melting snow, a ford became almost impassable. In such a case, one swam with the horse across the stream. In any case, with the best of transportation facilities, the vagaries of the weather could well dampen the guests' enjoyment.

The time sped past quickly. The marriage complied with all the customs of the Swedish community. The bridal couple appeared at Gloria Dei wearing the prescribed crowns and garlands. Susannah's hair was coifed according to the accepted style. The entire congregation could and did enjoy, vicariously, the evident joy emanating from the happy couple and from the proud family.

Such happy and formal weddings were not always the way of a maid and her man since the English had taken over the government. The English had provided legal means whereby the couple need not have the banns read, nor a religious ceremony held. Rather, they could appear at a county office and obtain a marriage license. The bridegroom needed to give bond that neither he nor the bride suffered any legal bar nor hindrance whereby they should not be married. The prospective groom then posted a bond to the amount of between $5,000 to $10,000 copper attesting to their right to be married. Upon signing the bond, for which a fee was charged, the license of marriage was issued by the county clerk. The license, issued in the name of the governor, required no minister to perform a ceremony. From this, the issuance of the bond and the licensure for marriage, the governor obtained an incidental income.[1] Where civil ceremonies were performed, the ceremony was usually quite informal, and the bride did not appear in any but her regular clothes. Such a marriage did not occasion much great joy among the family, in those early days. A cloud existed, and an unspoken question was raised which was emphasized by the arching of the eyebrows or by the shrug of the shoulder.

But the ceremony went well. The church was crowded, for Hans and Ella Mansson were widely known and highly respected as were the Christian Tay family. And so by boat, by horse, and by cart, the Swedes gathered at Gloria Dei, and then at the Tay plantation to celebrate the jointure of two Swedish families. At the Tay's, the fiddlers played for dancing and the colorful scene, enhanced by the dancers following the figures, the constant flow of light conversation, the constant supply of beverages, and the sudden eruption of masculine laughter, probably at an off-color story, joined to attest to the happiness of the event and to the warm hospitality of the Tay family. During the week, idle gossip and games occupied the younger people, many of whom paired off to walk along the river or explore the woods. Some of the men engaged in early-morning duck hunting; a number left in the evening on a wolf hunt. The call of the wolves frightened the women far more than the everpresent summer danger of the many rattlesnakes. Conversation among the adults encompassed the story of the alleged member of the royal family who had been encased in a barrel with her jewels at Gothenburg and shipped to the New World. In a storm off the Jersey coast, the ship foundered, and she was washed ashore. Here she was found by a hunter, who led her to safety. From this unexpected meeting, romance blossomed; and the two were married. No one could guess the name of this royal woman, but from this union came the Garrison family of Cumberland County. While this bit of gossip intrigued the party, they were more interested in the report of an arrest. Israel Helms, Mons Justeson, and William Cobb had been brought before the Gloucester County Court and charged with unlawful hunting and killing of pigs. No details were known. In the 1640s a shipment of pigs from Sweden to New Sweden had escaped when being unloaded; and they took to the forests where they bred and multiplied, developing into wild pigs. Their killing was lawful. The arrest indicated a question of fact to be determined by the court, "Did they kill wild pigs, or the domesticated pigs claimed by a citizen?"

The bride and groom suffered the usual broad jibes faced by any newly married couple. Susannah was fully advised that it was important to her to make certain that James at no time acquired more debts than he was able to pay. Should he die with such debts, Susannah's chances at obtaining another husband would be limited. Even should she become engaged, on the day of such marriage, she would have to leave her domicile dressed only in a shift to prove she was removing no assets of the indebted and deceased husband and thus not defrauding any creditors.

While Susannah was surrounded by the women, James was the center of attention among the more serious adults. Lars Kock began asking James what plans he and Susannah had made for the future. James replied that he had sold the Tacony property and for a while they would reside with Ella and Hans. Within a short time, he said, he hoped to acquire property at the eastern end of Gloucester County.

Olaf pressed the matter further, asking, "Just where do you expect to buy ground?" James answered, "I have been looking over the lands about the Great Egg Harbor and hope to purchase a large enough acreage on that river." Ella interposed herself, "My son, James, is plumb loco. Imagine moving to such a faraway place, loaded with mosquitoes and no neighbors about for many miles." Ella had been through this with James earlier and probably hoped the group would join with her to sway James's decision.

But James had an answer. "From the monies I get for Tacony, I can buy a much larger spread there than I can about here. Actually, there is no desirable waterfront property available here." But Ella, unsatisfied and with her maternal feelings fully exposed, countered with, "Suppose you are sick; how can I help you? Suppose you and Susannah need help; how will we know? We will be so far separated that we will become as strangers."

Lars was in agreement. "We are all well situated in our present locations. From Cinnaminson, you are convenient to the Philadelphia markets. You need ship your cattle and other stock only across the river to Dock Creek [later known as Dock Street after the stream was covered]. Transportation is no factor. With your flatboat, you can ride the current to Dock Creek. But how will you market your produce and your livestock way down on the Great Egg Harbor River? Are you going to sail all the way around Cape May and up the Delaware to Philadelphia, or are you going to drive your cattle overland to Manhattan? The cost of land is secondary when you consider the disadvantages of the location such as you describe."

Talk veered inevitably to farm operations. Prices were holding firm. Wheat was bringing four shillings; rye and barley sold at three shillings; oats were at two shillings; and Indian corn brought three shillings sixpence. Mutton and veal were retailing for five cents per pound, and butter was being retailed for twelve cents. Turkeys were in plentiful supply. In the city, they sold for two shillings each.

Prices were in proper ratio to wages. The average worker was paid up to two dollars per week. A doctor charged fifty cents for a house call, which, in many cases, involved a drive of many miles. A house suitable for a working person could be had at the equivalent of $1,000.

The Jersey shore was opening to settlers. Thomas Budd landed at Burlington in 1678. In England, he had become a member of the years wou[illegible]e required to bring his plans to fruition. His experiences in building, planting and supervising had prepared him for this, his great opportunity, and gave him a self-confidence and self-assurance that success would be his. He had arranged with drovers to walk his herd of cattle to his new ranch, and Captain James Clark would carry his crated geese and ducks, hogs, and equipment down from the Tacony plantation aboard his ship and land his shipment at James's place. The raising of a house and the necessary barns would follow in due course of time. The house would be the first major project. James knew that it was his primary task to make the plans for his home, fell the trees, and cut the lumber needed. Once these basic tasks were completed, the men of his family and any neighbors would help him raise the house. The house-raising went swiftly. The men did come, with their families, laden with foods cooked according to the recipes of the particular woman. When served, the men, women, and children would eat hearty lunches. While the framing of the house was under way, the women socialized and the children played, fought, screamed, made up, and played.

During the spring of 1696, James noted the great coveys of ducks and geese wheeling about overhead, the muskrat homes at the edge of the swamp, the tracks of deer and shy May pinks hiding their tiny white-and-pink sweet-scented flowers under the damp oak leaves. Occasionally he had come upon some whippoorwill's-shoes raising their delicately veined pink bloom to the heavens. At the swamp's edge he saw cranberry bushes growing in great clumps, promising a good harvest when frost came in the fall. Here grew, too, tall bushes which would bear rich purple clumps of swamp huckleberries, while on the upland, the lower-growing, stocky plant of upland huckleberries were greening. In the trees roosted the stupid turkeys, breeding prolifically while awaiting the hunter. Pheasant, grouse, rabbit, and deer were plentiful. Gray squirrels leaped and raced about, and the tracks of wolves, red fox and panthers were to be seen. Along the river, raccoon, muskrat, and beaver were in evidence. One crop, not available at Aronomink or at Tacony were the clams and oysters. Gathered by raking, digging, or picking, they could when gathered be barreled for shipment, constituting a ready cash crop. For future use on the plantation, the clams could be dried, while the oysters could be stored in the cellar and kept fat by sprinkling them in brine and cornmeal. In 1696, James Steelman was appointed New Jersey's first inspector of oysters.

As the operation of the plantation became a productiv[illegible]terprise, the routine was entirely similar to that on the other plantations. In a generation, little had changed. By the onset of the winter, James's house would need some fifty cords of wood cut to fit the fireplaces. In the fall, too, at least twenty-five hogs would be butchered. From them came the bacon, sugar-cured smoked hams and the pork sides salted down in vats. Cattle were killed, the rounds dried, and the rest cornered. Mincemeat and sausage was made.

The larger the number of livestock, the greater the number of cattle to be driven to market, the greater the number of barrels of meat to be shipped, and the greater the annual profits. With the passage of time, orchards of apple, pear, and cherry trees would be developed. Grapevines would be planted. Cider, apple butter, jellies, jams, brandies, and wines would be made. Apples, grapes, huckleberries, and plums would be dried in the sun for future use in pies and dumplings. Apples would be stored in the cellars along with potatoes. The salt hay would be mown. From the beach plums picked from the native bushes jellies would be made.

Many of these were duties falling upon the women. The speed with which a widow or widower sought to acquire a new mate is indicative of the close interdependence which existed between the two sexes. While the men followed their seasonal tasks, James's wife, Susannah, supervised the women in their never-ending tasks. In addition to the accepted household chores, the need to do the family laundry using the rough board, boiling the clothes, and finally pressing them with the heavy irons heated in the fireplace; the mending of clothes, the knitting of hose; the baking of pies, breads, and tarts sufficient to feed the large retinue of workers; and the everlasting chores of washing, carding, combing, spinning, and weaving the wool and flax, followed by sewing the materials into clothes and household items, the women were expected to plant and reap the gardens about the house, from which came household vegetables and herbs.

Susannah was expected to be prepared to entertain any guests who might drop in. Such guests, if nearby folks, might call in the evening or on Sunday; but others might ride up and stay for an indefinite period. But whether guests were making a social call, passing through, or spending several days, the household was ever ready to accomodate itself to such incursions. Such visitors might be itinerants—a tailor who would spend such time as an order of the household member might require to complete, a cabinet maker who would remain in similar circumstances, or a clergyman. Each had to be made welcome and provided with sleeping quarters. Such callers did more than provide an expertise in their respective fields; they brought news from other places and often amusing, if not scandalous, accounts of families they had served during their various sojourns.

The arrival of the Swedish pastor enlivened the entire plantation. By reason of his distinguished status, he received unusually cordial and gracious attentions. Generally, he arrived accompanied by a retinue of fellow Swedes, all of whom were to be housed for as long as the visit lasted. With the arrival of the pastor, riders were sent out to advise neighbors of his arrival and the plans for religious services. That such expeditions by the clergy did occur is evidenced in the journal kept by the Reverend Andreas Sandel, Pastor of Gloria Dei, Philadelphia, in which he noted that on September 27, 1704, he went to "a place called Egg Harbor, as some Swedes lived there. In crossing the river I met Elias Tay's wife and accompanied her home. September 28th: In the morning Matz and Eric Keen came to Tay's to accompany me on a part of my journey and when they learned . . . I did not know the way to Little Egg Harbor, a messenger was sent in the night to Mollicka,[12] over the river . . . and requested them to stop for us. About noon they arrived and our party consisted of Matz Keen, Eric Keen, Elias Tay, Carl Stellman,[13] Olaf Mollicka, Lars Kock, and an Englishman named Abraham Finnie. Towards evening, the horses of the party became tired but still we ventured on further and at sunset reached Little Egg Harbor. September 29: I preached a short sermon for those living there, viz. Mollicka's mother, a widow, her daughter, and two unmarried sons and a married son, And. Mollicka. We left . . . and went to Big Egg Harbor . . . We had to cross numerous inlets, there was no beaten track, there was plenty of brushwood, besides swarms of misquitoes that molested us . . . I was the guest of Jonas Steelman,[14] Elias Tay's brother-in-law; the others were Peter Steelman's. . . .[15]

With all these responsibilities, Susannah, as with all women who headed up a plantation, one additonal task was assumed, that of educating the children. While the boys learned the various tasks about the farm by demonstration and by doing, the girls learned the many tasks which would fall upon them when they entered the adult world. In addition, regular times had to be set aside for teaching the children to read, write, and cipher. All the children on the plantation were gathered up for such classes. Many of the larger plantations engaged tutors, who lived with the family all year and for extended periods. When available, the smaller plantations engaged a tutor on a rotating basis; the tutor lived and taught for three months on one plantation and then moved to the next home, thus serving four plantations.

By the time of the Reverend Sandel's visit in 1704, the James Steelman plantation was thriving. James was using not only the services of drovers to drive his cattle to market in Philadelphia, but the facilities of Captain James Clark and of Captain John Stubbs to transport the produce of the plantation to market. Cedar was being taken from the swamp and shipped to New York, which had an almost insatiable demand for such wood, whether shipped as cut and trimmed logs or as shakes, posts, or clapboards. Captain Stubbs died in 1704, and his executor disclosed that shipping charges were due his estate from James Steelman of Absecon, John Scull, William Simpkins, Ephraim Carman, Samuel Foster, Peter Scull, John Somers of Somers Point, and Richard Jones of Maurice River. Stubbs docked at the piers of the various pantations along his route along the coast, around Cape May to Philadelphia, then the largest city in the New World. He was well aware that each plantation was a complex unit involving a number of people.

A plantation consisted of not only the home of the owner with the necessary barns, sties, corrals, springhouses and haymows, but of homes for slaves and farm help. Each plantation was a small settlement, owned, planned, and supervised by the owner. Through death, inheritance, or sale, the plantation became a series of farms. Despite the rigors of travel, these plantation owners visited one another for weekends or longer stays, socialized, cooperated and counseled one another on mutual problems. Consequently, any study of family trees in West Jersey indicates frequent intermarriages between such families. One result, noticeable until 1915, was that in any of these small communities, a substrata of people recognized one another as "cousins" without having but a tenuous concept of the basis for such relationship.

THE JAMES AND SUSANNA TAY STEELMAN FAMILY

James amassed some 2500 acres of land, served as common pleas judge, 1704, 1705, 1709, 1723, 1727, 1731; highway overseer, 1696; New Jersey's first oyster inspector. After the death of Susanna, James married Katherine Ouster, by whom he had one son, known as "Little Peter," born 1732. James died 1734. His children were:

Andrew, born 1690, died 1736; married Judith Alison. Willed 520 acres between South River and Stephens Creek to son, Frederick; to James, 450 acres on west side of Great Egg Harbor River; to Peter, 250 acres with homestead; to Andrew, 250 acres adjoining James Sommers; Andrew and Peter to share equally in the 130 acres at Seader (sic) Swamp Bridge; and all sons to share equally in the Absecon Beach and all cedar swamps (Calendar of Wills, 1732, p. 453). Widowed, Judith married Charles Dingee. John, a posthumous child, was not mentioned in the Will.

Susannah, born 1691, married John Keen (born 1695), son of Matthias and Henrietta Classen Keen.

Hance, who married Alice Jones in Trinity Church, Raccoon.

John, born Jan. 7, 1692; married first, N. S. Adams, and second, Mary Risley.

James, who married Katherine Keen; died, 1734; willed her a life estate in the realty, and provided plantations for Andrew and Hance; certain lands, marsh, and mill to John; 200 acres on Patconk Creek as well as the 200 acres purchased of James Adams and all swamps, beaches, and lands purchased of Peter Scull. He provided Elias with a plantation, and his daughters were given their shares (Calendar of Wills, Aug. 2, 1734, p. 453).

Elias, who married first, Sarah Lake of William Lake, Aug. 10, 1730, and second, Comfort Cruisey (Cresse). Widowed, Comfort married Peter Macklus (McClees) on Jan. 16, 1740. Elias died Dec. 16, 1736, intestate. Had one daughter, Sarah.

Mary, who married Dan Allen, Dec. 25, 1728, and then Andrew Blackman on July 25, 1733. Andrew and Mary had, Andrew, David, John, and Susannah, who married Edmund Mapes.

Andrew and Judith Alison Steelman had:

Andrew, born 1719; died Feb. 9, 1772; married Hannah Ingersoll.

Peter, born May 1, 1723; married Hannah Leeds.

James.

Frederick, who married Sarah, of James and Abigail Adams Somers, on Mar. 15, 1740.

Mary, born May 15, 1714; married Edmond Somers, and second, on March 6, 1746, married Joseph Mapes. She died March 21, 1797.

Judith, who married Joseph Collins, March 5, 1799.
Susannah, who married Benjamin Ingersoll, June 23, 1738.
John, born posthumously; married Sarah of Joost and E. Sooy by license, June 23, 1738; purchased lands on Gibson Creek of Return Babcock, July 17, 1762, adjoining stepbrother's lands (Christopher Dingee); established Gibson Creek Branch of Steelman Family. Had Joseph, Luke, John, Jemima.

John and Susannah Steelman Keen had:
James, who married Mary Ashton.
Mary, who married Toby Leach.
Susannah, who married, first, John Martin, and second, Edward Milner.
Matthias, born Dec. 21, 1721; married, first, Mary Swift, and second, Margaret Thomas.
John, born May 22, 1723; married Esther Foster.
Elias, born May 15, 1725; married Hannah Thomas.
Rebecca, who married first, Benjamin Engle and second, Jacob Hall.
Peter.
Jacob, who married Hannah Holmes.
George, who married Margaret Bristol.

"Little Peter" married Sarah. Intestate at his death, Sarah was named administratrix, Dec. 13, 1775. She may have then married a Doughty. Under law of primogeniture, Richard, the eldest, inherited the land; but in conformance to his father's known wishes, Richard divided the land between the sons, who were:
Richard.
Zephaniah who married Mary Parker, and had a son, Peter.
James.
Peter, who willed his estate to his mother, Sarah Doughty, for life, thence to his brother, Thomas.
Thomas.

John and N. S. Adams Steelman (A question exists here: Did John marry Sarah, daughter of Peter Peterson?) had:
John, who married Abigail Adams, Jan. 25, 1755. By his will, John left Abigail one-half of dwelling and personal assets; son John, one-third of upland, the plantation of son Jeremiah, plus three-quarters of the bay meadows, and one-third of the cedar swamps, as well as 25 acres on the north side of Ingersoll's Branch. Jonathan was given one-third of uplands and one-half of the meadows belonging to Jeremiah. Absalom and Daniel were treated similarly. Provisions were made for his daughters, Abagail Higbee, Hannah Conklin, Rosanna Smith and Mary Sooy. Will proved Dec. 12, 1796.
Zephaniah, who married Rebecca Ireland, of Edmund Ireland. He died 1790.
Jeremiah, who married Rebecca Risley.

Catherine.
Susannah, who married Daniel Leeds III, Jan. 1, 1751. He was son of Japhet Leeds.
Rebecca, who, on death of sister Susannah, married Daniel Leeds III; widowed, she married John Smith, son of Robert and Belanguy Smith.
Rachel, who married Higbee.
Esther, who married Richard Higbee.
Mary, who married Thomas Chamberlain (a moot assumption). She died after 1792.

John and Mary Smith Steelman had:
Elizabeth, born Dec. 16, 1720; married Joseph Sooy.
Jesse, born Oct. 13, 1722; died Oct. 15, 1802.
Noah, born Nov. 27, 1725; died Nov. 30, 1790.
James, born Feb. 2, 1730.
Felix, born Oct. 27, 1732.
John, born Dec. 21, 1735.

Hance Steelman, of James and Susannah, married Alice Jones and had:
James.
Hance.
John.
Daniel.
Charles.

James had:
John.
James.
Susannah.
Catherine, who married Covenhoven.
Rebecca, who married Somers.
MaryAnn, who married Somers.
Sarah, who married Joseph Covenhoven, Oct. 14, 1771, at the Swedesboro Trinity Church.

Hance, son of Hance and Alice, married Sarah and had sons, John, Andrews, and three daughters. Hance's will of Nov. 4, 1761, Greenwich Township, named his wife, Sarah, and three daughters married to Dan Sutherland, James Cade, and Isaac Layman, respectively. John was a minor son, born Dec. 3, 1751. Witnesses to the will were William Harrison, Charles Steelman, and Alexander Randall.

John Steelman, son of John and N. S. Adams Steelman, married Abigail Somers and lived on Absecon Creek, Galloway Township. Born 1748; died 1796. They had:
John Steelman (Major), born Mar. 2, 1757; married Margaret Leeds, of Nehemiah Leeds.
Daniel, born Apr. 25, 1765; married Katherine Read, of Obadiah Read.

Jonathan, born Dec. 9, 1763; married Sarah Cordery (born Sept. 9, 1765), and second, a widow, Hannah Hendrickson, on Jan. 8, 1803. He died 1822.
Ansalom, who married Sarah Sprong.
Hannah, who married Conklin.
Abigail, born July 17, 1756.
Mary, who married Nicholas Sooy. The daughter, Elizabeth, married Daniel Ross, Jan. 14, 1832.
Rebecca, who married Davis.

Absalom, of John and N. S. Steelman, married Sarah Sprong and had:
John, who married Susanna Scull of James and Susannah Scull.
Absalom, who married Deborah Corvode, Nov. 27, 1820.
Elizabeth, who married Arthur Westcoat of Thomas and Chloe Westcoat.
Charlotte, who married John Westcoat, brother of Arthur.

Jonathan, of John and N. S. Steelman, married Sarah Cordery Jan. 8, 1783 and had:
Jonathan, born Oct. 10, 1793; married Catherine (born Apr. 17, 1785) and had:
- Mark
- Reed
- Elisha Ashton
- William
- Jonathan
- Rachel
- Charles
- John Wesley
- Phoebe
- Katherine

Elizabeth, born Oct. 6, 1783.
Isaac, born May 6, 1785.
Joseph, born April 4, 1786.

Major John and Margaret Leeds Steelman had:
Nehemiah, born Sept. 3, 1780.
Zephaniah, born Sept. 30, 1785.
Julia Ann, born Sept. 9, 1788; married, first, Absalom Higbee, and second Carter.
Abigail, born April 1, 1791; married, first Higbee.
Jonas, born Sept. 1, 1793; married Ann McCullough, whose grandfather recast the famed Liberty Bell after it first cracked.
Leeds, born Sept. 21, 1796; married Abigail Risley, first, and second, Ann Steelman, widow of Reed Steelman.
Phannel, born Sept. 25, 1799; married Elizabeth Myers.

In this branch of the Steelman family, one of the first land purchases was made in 1695, consisting of 500 acres from Thomas Budd in the Revel Survey, Aug. 4, 1682.

Zephaniah, of John and Margaret Steelman, had:
John, born Sept. 8, 1825; married Ruth Wilson.
Rueben, who married Lavinia Houston.
Ann Margaret, who married Hardesty.
Margaret, who married Daniel Brown.

Jonas, of John and Margaret Steelman, had, by his second wife, Ann:
Mary, who married Henry Disston, inventor and industrialist. Both engaged in widespread philanthropy. The Disston Memorial Presbyterian Church, Tacony, was built and furnished as a memorial to their daughter, Mary, who died in her teens. Land in Tacony was given to the Presbyterian, Methodist, and Roman Catholic churches. Disston Hall of Beacon Presbyterian Church, Kensington, was given as a memorial for Albert Disston. This couple had: Hamilton, Albert, Frank, Mary, Horace, William, Jacob, and a daughter who died in infancy.
Julia Ann, who married Thomas Morse, of Joab and Mary Ann Morse.
Beulah, who married Small.
John.
Jacob.
James, who married Celia and had:
- Sarah, who married McFadden.
- Charles, who married Martha.
- William, who married Rebecca Moffett, Oct, 23, 1834.
- Samuel C.
- Andrew.
- Mary, who married Joseph Luck on Mar. 3, 1839.

Andrew, of Andrew and Judith Steelman, born 1719, died Feb. 9, 1772, married Hannah Ingersoll, June 6, 1747; farmed at Steelmanville, Atlantic County. He died intestate and his widow was named administratix on March 11, 1772. Inventory was made by Noah Smith and Joseph Edwards on Feb. 24, 1772. His children were:
James, the eldest, who inherited the realty under the law of primogeniture, born Mar. 27, 1748; married, first Temperance Sayre, and second, Susannah Smith.
Daniel, born Apr. 15, 1750; married Eleanor Edwards in 1773.
Frederick, born Mar. 21, 1753; married Naomi Edwards by license, Oct. 19, 1773. He died 1778.
Hannah.

* In the various Steelman wills no evidence exists to indicate any entailment of the real estate. Lands were divided among the sons. By law, in New Jersey, any provision in a will entailing realty more than 21 years after the death of an heir was null and void. The legend that the extensive Steelman land holdings could not be sold until the 7th generation by explicit conditions set forth in the wills was without basis in fact and without force in law.

EARLY SWEDES AND FINNS OF NEW JERSEY IN PUBLIC OFFICE

By Lewis D. Cook

Corresponding Member of the Genealogical Society of New Jersey; Life Member of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania

PETER MATSON alias DALBO

Peter Matson alias Dalbo (1647-1701) was one of the two Representatives from the Fourth Tenth (present Gloucester County) at the General Assembly of the Province of West New Jersey at Burlington, 12th of 3rd month (May) 1685, having been "chosen by the free people of the said Province" in accordance with the Act of November 25, 1681, erecting the said General Assembly. He was the first Swede so elected. He appears in the minutes again in 1697 as a member of the House of Representatives at Burlington, May 20th.

He was residing at "Schorekill," Penna., on April 10, 1684, the date of a Deed conveying to him 200 acres in West New Jersey, 100 of which were surveyed to him at the head of Little Mantua Creek, in the Fourth Tenth, now Gloucester County, and he soon removed thereon. Peter Matson Dalbo married, March 16, 1674, in Penna., Catharine Rambo, daughter of the eminent Swedish emigrant, Peter Gunnarsson Rambo of Philadelphia County who was a Justice 1654, Commissary 1660, Councillor under the government of the Duke of York 1667, member of Deputy Governor Carr's Council 1668, and Justice from 1674 to 1680.

Peter Matson alias Dalbo, of Little Mantua Creek, died between October 3, 1699, and September 1, 1701, the dates of signing and of proving his will.

Children of Peter Matson Dalbo and Catharine Rambo:
1. Elizabeth, b. Feb. 7, 1678; md. Rev. Andreas Rudman, rector of the Swedish Lutheran Church at Wicacoa (i. e. Gloria Dei Church, Philadelphia).
2. Catharine, b. Dec. 29, 1679; md. John Cock.
3. Maria, b. May 11, 1682; md. Feb. 22, 1702, Rev. Andreas Sandel, successor to Rudman at Wicacoa.
4. Peter, b. May 27, 1685.
5. Mathias, b. Aug. 12, 1688.

6. Margaret, b. Feb. 1, 1692; md. Peter Cock of Philadelphia Co.
7. John, b. June 14, 1694.
8. Jacob, b. May 25, 1697.
9. Bridget, b. after 1697; md. John Hendrickson.

ISRAEL HELM

Israel Helm (1627-1702) appeared with Woola Dalbo and Anthony Nealson as the three Swedes among the ten Representatives from the Fourth Tenth at the General Assembly of the Province of West New Jersey, at Burlington, the session of 25th of 9th month (Nov.) 1685. Previously, he had served as one of the bench of Justices of the Court of Upland (Chester, Pa.), 1674-1680, and as a member of the Governor's Council, 1667-1673.

Israel Ackesson alias Helm came perhaps from Skeppsholmen, if his alias was derived from that place-name, and arrived with Governor Printz in New Sweden in 1643 as companion to the latter's son. Evidently he made two return voyages to his native land in some official capacity as in 1655 he was at Skeppsholmen, and in 1663 he arrived at New Castle on December 3rd in the ship "de Purmerlander Kerck" with the Dutchmen, Alexander D'Hinayossa, who was Vice Director of the Colony, and Pieter Alrichs as "Members of the High Council," he having accompanied Armgoet Printz the former Swedish Governor's daughter, to Europe. In 1659 he was appointed Collector of Customs at Passyunk, Captain in 1677 or earlier, Member of the Deputy Governor's Council 1667-1673, a Justice in the Court of Upland (Chester, Pa.) 1670-1680, Interpreter at the conference of Governor Andros and the Indians 1675, and at that of the Commissioners of the Proprietors of West New Jersey with the Indians for the purchase of the lands between Oldman's and Timber Creeks 1677. Israel Helm on March 10, 1679/80, recorded at Upland Court the conveyance of his houses and land and plantation at Upland to James Sanderlin dated the previous day, and shortly afterwards removed to his plantation called "Helmstatt," at the present Thompson's Point in Gloucester County, N. J. He died there between June 17, 1701, and March 2, 1701/2, the dates of signing and of probate of his will.

Children of Israel Helm and ———:

1. Harmanus, d. 1740 in Greenwich Twp., Gloucester Co.
2. "Capt." Israel, disappeared before the date of his father's will and did not return.
3. Ocke, d. 1750 in Greenwich Twp.
4. Helene, md. Peter Cock, Jr., of Passyunk, Philadelphia Co., Pa.
5. Ingabor, md. as 2nd wife of Erick Palsson Mollicka, of Mullica River, N. J.
6. (apparently) Elizabeth, md. George Laurance of Lower Hook, Gloucester Co., whose will dated May 5, 1721, names his "brother Harmanus Helme" as Executor.

WOOLA DALBO

Woola Dalbo appeared with Israel Helm and Anthony Nealson as the three Swedish Representatives among the ten from the Fourth Tenth (present Gloucester Co.) at the General Assembly of the Province of West New Jersey at its Session of 29th of 9th month (Nov.) 1685, and again in 1686. He was one of several Proprietors of undivided shares of West New Jersey in 1687; one of the original four Wardens of the Swedish Lutheran Church at Raccoon (now Trinity Episcopal Church, Swedesboro); one of the Surveyors within the lower Division of Gloucester County to lay out the highway through that section from Salem to Burlington in 1687; as also one of the two Overseers of Highways in that County in the same year. In 1677 Oele, or Woola, Dalbo, and Lace Dalbo, were residents of Taokamink,* the region along the western bank of the Delaware above Carkoens Hook; but by 1685 Woola Dalbo had removed to Little Mantua Creek, Gloucester Co., N. J., next to the plantation of his brother Peter Matson Dalbo. He is said to have been a descendant of Anders Larsen Dalbo who came from Sweden with Minuit or with Hollandare. His mother, Elizabeth Dalbo, was living with him in 1697.

Woola Dalbo, his name anglicised as William Dalboe, died at Little Mantua Creek aforesaid shortly before Feb. 19, 1711/2, the date of Inventory of his personal estate, leaving a widow

Catharine, who was possibly a daughter of Nils Larssen Friend of Upland (Chester, Pa.), and the following children:

Children of William Dalboe and Catharine (Friend ?):

1. Andrew.
2. Laurence.
3. Gabriel.
4. Charles.
5. Peter, b. 1690.
6. John.

JOHN RAMBO

John Rambo (1661-1741) was a Representative from the "Fourth Tenth," (present Gloucester County) to the General Assembly of the Province of West New Jersey, 1697-1701 inclusive; a Justice in Gloucester County Court, 1695-1697; one of the Proprietors of several undivided shares in West New Jersey in 1687.

John Rambo, youngest of the four sons of Peter Gunnarsson Rambo of Moyamensing, Philadelphia County, Penn., (who was a Justice "for the River" 1654; Commissary 1660-1; a Councillor under the government of the Duke of York in Penna. 1667; a Justice in the Court of Upland 1674-1680), was born in Moyamensing in 1661; removed to the region of Repaupo Creek in Gloucester County, N. J., in 1681, and died there in 1741 leaving a Will dated April 12, 1740; proved Nov. 21, 1741; which devised legacies to his sons John and Gabriel and daughter Deborah, and to his son Peter the plantations and all Proprietary Rights. By his wife Brigitta Cock, daughter of Peter Larsson Cock of Schuylkill Island, Penna., (A Magistrate 1657; Collector of Customs 1663; member of Capt. Carr's Council 1668; Presiding Justice of Upland Court 1674-1680).

Children of John Rambo and Brigitta Cock:

1. Brigitta, b. Nov. 15, 1685.
2. Catharine, b. Oct. 4, 1689.
3. Margret, b. Jan. 23, 1691.
4. John, b. July 6, 1692.
5. Peter, b. Jan. 6, 1694; md. Dec. 2, 1724, Christina, dau. of Mans Kyn, in Raccoon Church.
6. Maria, b. May 5, 1695.
7. Deborah.

ANTHONY NEALSON alias LONG

Anthony Nealson alias Long, appeared with Israel Helm and Woola Dalbo, as the three Swedish among the ten Representatives from the Fourth Tenth, present Gloucester County, N. J., at the General Assembly of the Province of West New Jersey, Session of 25th of 9th month (Nov.) 1685 at Burlington; and was then appointed one of two Commissioners for regulating lands in that Tenth. On the 12th of 3rd month (May) in same year, he was chosen Constable of the said Fourth Tenth.

Anthony Nealson alias Long, born in Sweden, owned and occupied a 200 acres tract extending from Crum Creek to Ridley Creek, about a mile from the western bank of the Delaware, in 1677. By a Deed of Apr. 1, 1684, a hundred acres of land fronting on the Delaware River and southwest side of Great Mantua Creek, in Gloucester County, N. J., was conveyed to him as "Anthony Nealson of Crump Kill," Penna., and he removed thence to the plantation in New Jersey before Nov. 25, 1685 as above stated. He was living in 1693 as head of a family of three persons. In 1707 his cattle mark was registered in Gloucester County. Final account of him does not appear.

HANS HOPMAN

Hans Hopman, a resident of New Sweden as early 1656; was one of the six Swedes and Finns who obtained the Patent dated March 28, 1676, from Governor Andros for the thousand acre tract of Marreties Hook, which they already possessed, on the western bank of the Delaware. On Novr. 15th, of that year, he with Peter Junsen and Juns Justassen purchased from the Indians the tract of land on the eastern shore of the River, between Oldman's and Timber Creek, comprising the present Gloucester County, N. J., and all three settled there before the end of 1677, as also his sons Frederick Hopman who was one of the original four Wardens of the Swedish Lutheran Church at Raccoon in 1703, and John Hopman. Hans Hopman, the father, died between 1687 and 1693. He was chosen Constable of the Fourth Tenth on May 20, 1684.

ANDERS ANDERSON alias HOMMAN

Anders Andersson alias Homman, a Finn, born in December 1626, came from Saltuna Socken in the ship "Swan" in 1643 as a soldier in Governor Printz's guard, in which capacity he served until 1648; thence as the Trumpeter until 1653. In 1677-1683 he appears as a resident of Carkoens Hook,* on the western shore of the Delaware. In 1678, et seq., he was appointed Constable in the Court of Upland (Chester, Pa.). By a deed of March 26, 1684, fifty acres in "the Six Lower Tenths" of West New Jersey were conveyed to him as "Andreas Anderson of Carkas Hooke", Pa., but by 1687 he had removed across the River and settled in the creek which then became known as Homman's or Trumpeter's Creek (now Purgey), a branch of the Repaupo Creek,†, in Gloucester Co., N. J. Anders Homman died there in September 1700, and was buried across the River in Upland. By his wife Catharine, who was born in Finland, he had the following children who were living with their parents in 1697:

Children of Anders Andersson Homman and Catharine ——:

1. Olave Andersson.
2. Andrew Andersson.
4. Michael Andersson; sole heir of his father.
5. Brigitta.

LASSE ANDRIESEN alias COLMAN

Lasse Andriesen alias Colman was one of the Justices of the Court of Upland (Chester, Pa.) from 1674 to 1680 inclusive. By a Deed of Sept. 19, 1678, Juns Justassen of Upland conveyed land on the northeast side of Raccoon Creek, which was his one third share of the tract between Oldman's and Timber Creeks and the Delaware, as purchased from the Indians in 1676, to Lasse Andriessen Colman, who was apparently then already seated thereon by 1677 as per poll tax list,‡ but who appears as a resident of Moyamensing, Penn., in 1678, and at Carkoens Hook, Pa., in 1680. But on June 15, 1687, he was assessed for 200 acres and 23 cattle in "Stockhom Township",† a tract on the River and just above Raccoon Creek, in Gloucester County, N. J. He was born in Finland, as the description of him as "Lasse the Finn" in Court records of Upland indicates, as also was his brother Henry Colman. Administration upon the estate of Lasse Colman alias Anderson, of Gloucester County was graduatel on April 3, 1693, to his said brother Henry Colman alias Anderson. Record of his family has not been traced.

WOOLLA PETERSSON

Woolla Petersson was one of the original four Wardens of the Swedish Lutheran Church at Raccoon Creek (now Trinity Church, Swedesboro) in 1703. In 1740, his name anglicised as William Peterson, of New Jersey, farmer, aged 92 years, he testified in Court in the Boundary Dispute between Pennsylvania and Maryland, that he had come to America in 1658 when the Dutch were in possession of the Delaware and some Swedes were settled on the site of Philadelphia; that he lived for the twenty years following on Christina Creek, when he removed to New Jersey. On June 15, 1687, he was assessed for 250 acres and 4 cattle on the lower side of Stockholm River (Raccoon Creek) in Gloucester Co., N. J.* In 1693 he was listed as head of a family of six persons, and himself as having been born in Sweden. The will of William Peterson of Greenwich Township, Gloucester Co., N. J., dated May 9, 1740, proved Sept. 26, 1743, names the following children:

Children of William Peterson and ——:

1. Andrew.
2. Zachariah.
3. Laurence.
4. Moses.
5, 6 and 7. Three daughters, not named.

ERIC PALSSON alias MOLLICKA

Eric Palsson alias Mollicka was born in the parish of Mora, in the "Lan" or State of Helsingland, Sweden, in 1636.

He appears in 1677 as a resident of Taokamink, the Taconey section of what became Philadelphia County, where he had a 950 acre tract.* He served as the Overseer of Highways between Taconey and Poquessink Creeks there in 1682. By 1672 he had married, apparently as a second wife, Ingabor Helm, daughter of Israel Ackessen Helm of Upland, Pa., and of Thompson's Point, Gloucester County, N. J. In 1693, Eric Molica was listed as having been born in Sweden, head of a family of eight residing on the Delaware in Pennsylvania. By 1698 he had removed from Taconey and migrated across New Jersey to "Takakan, near Little Egg Harbor", and settled there on the upper side of the Little Egg Harbor River, at the place now known as Lower Bank, his surname being given to that River. With him in that year were his wife Ingabor, sons

He appears in 1677 as a resident of Taokamink, the Taconey section of what became Philadelphia County, where he had a 950 acre tract.* He served as the Overseer of Highways between Taconey and Poquessink Creeks there in 1682. By 1672 he had married, apparently as a second wife, Ingabor Helm, daughter of Israel Ackessen Helm of Upland, Pa., and of Thompson's Point, Gloucester County, N. J. In 1693, Eric Molica was listed as having been born in Sweden, head of a family of eight residing on the Delaware in Pennsylvania. By 1698 he had removed from Taconey and migrated across New Jersey to "Takakan, near Little Egg Harbor", and settled there on the upper side of the Little Egg Harbor River, at the place now known as Lower Bank, his surname being given to that River. With him in that year were his wife Ingabor, sons

COMBINED REGISTER OF THE MORAVIAN MISSIONARIES IN WEST NEW JERSEY, 1742-1762

Compiled and Contributed by Lewis D. Cook

"About 1743, two acres of land were purchased, most probably from John Hoffman, a short distance above Spring Garden Ferry, and a Swedish church was erected for the use of the Brethren and dedicated to the worship of God by (the Revds.) Abraham Reincke, Owen Rice, Matthew Reutz, and Pastor Lawrence T. Nyberg, on December 18, 1746. ...The only stones left standing in the yard were those to mark the graves of Hezekiah Lore and his wife Elizabeth. The one died June 19, 1770 (ae. 73 yrs.) and the other, January 2, 1761 (ae. 60 yrs.). These stones were removed in 1881 to the M. E. Churchyard (at Port Elizabeth)." (From F. W. Bowen, History of Port Elizabeth, Cumberland County, N. J., 1885; repr. 1936; pp. 9-10). In 1937-8, The N. J. Swedish-Finnish Tercentenary Commission sought without success to have this river-eroded churchyard preserved as public property. These Moravian missionaries officiated also in the Swedish Lutheran congregations in Penn's Neck and in Raccoon as well as in their own church on Oldman's Creek.

The following register is compiled from three contemporary records, viz:

(1) The register of The Swedish-Moravian Church of Maurice River, 1748-1798, the first seven leaves of which are missing, published in "History of Port Elizabeth, Cumberland Co., N. J.," by F. W. Bowen (1885), p. 84; reprinted 1936. Some of the missing items are supplied by (3).

(2) The Rev. Abraham Reincke's "Private Record of official acts performed among his countrymen and others in New Jersey, on Delaware, during his occasional ministry in the Brethren's mission of that Province," 1744-1752, published as an appendix by the editor in the English edition of Acrelius' "History of New Sweden" (1874). The Rev. Mr. Reincke died April 7, 1760, at Bethlehem, Pa. Dates in New Style.

(3) Moravian Register of Births, Baptisms, Marriages and Deaths in West Jersey, 1742-1794, the original of which is in the Archives at Bethlehem, Pa. Dates in Old Style.

John aged 20, and Stephen aged 13, and daughter Catharine 15; the elder sons Olave and Eric and daughters Anna and Helena having been left at the former home in Taconey. Eric Palsson Mollicka was deceased by September 29, 1704, on which date the Revd. Andreas Sandel, Rector of the Swedish Lutheran Church at Philadelphia, notes in his diary that having journeyed to Little Egg Harbor, he "Preached a short sermon for those living here viz. Olof Mollicka's mother, a widow, and her daughter and two unmarried sons, and a married son. Andrew Mollicka. No more Swedes were known to live there." Probate of his estate does not appear on record.

Children of Eric Palsson Mollicka and ——:

1. Andrew, apparently the eldest, and born of a first wife in Sweden; d. between 1717 and 1720 in Gloucester Co.
2. Olof (William), b. 1673.
3. Eric, Jr., b. 1675.
4. John, b. 1678.
5. Catharine, b. 1683.
6. Stephen, b. April 30, 1685.
7. Anna.
8. Helena.

Of the sons, William, Eric and John purchased considerable tracts of land on Raccoon Creek, part of which were the site of the town named in their honor, Mullica Hill, in Gloucester County.

JONAS STILLMAN

Jonas Stillman appears as the head of a family of four persons living in New Sweden on the Delaware, then called Pennsylvania in a census made in 1693. He migrated thence across New Jersey and was settled on Patconck Creek, a tributary into the upper shore of the Great Egg Harbor, by 1695. On March 23, 1695/6, a Deed from John Somers of Great Egg Harbor conveyed to "James Steelman" of the same place, yeoman, 100 acres on the northeast of grantee's lands. At the June 1696 Session of Gloucester County Court, "James Steelman (was) elected overseer of ye Highways, to mark and make the Road from Egg Harbor towards Gloucester, and that he have power to summon together ye inhabitants of Egg Harbor to ye purpose." He was commissioned one of the Justices of the Peace for the County of Gloucester in 1704, 1705, 1709, 1723, 1727, and 1731, and in the last year, also as an Assistant Judge of the Court of Common Pleas. His estate included a considerable portion of the southwest end of what was then known as Absequam Beach, site of present Atlantic City.

James Steelman's first wife was Susannah Toy who died before 1730. She was a sister of Elias Toy of Chester Township on the Delaware, in Burlington County, N. J., where he himself may have resided before migrating to the Great Egg Harbor region as described. He married secondly, by N. J. license dated June 13, 1730, Katharine Ouster of Gloucester County. Jonas Stillman, his name anglicised as James Steelman, died between August 2, 1734, and January 10, 1734/5, the dates of signing and proving his Will, in which he is described as of Egg Harbor, Gloucester County, "Gentlemen".

Children of James Steelman and Susannah Toy:

1. Andrew, b. 1691; d. 1736.
2. Susannah, b. 1693, md. Nov. 1713, John Keen, b. in Oxford Twp., Philadelphia Co., Pa.
3. Hance, b. after 1697, d. 1760.
4. John, b. Jan. 7, 1692 (?); d. 1752.
5. James, md. Katherine Keen.
6. Elias, d. 1739.
7. Mary, md. a Mr. Blackman.

Children of James Steelman and Katharine Ouster:

8. Peter, d. 1762.

MARKUS LORENS alias HALLING

Markus Lorens alias Halling, (d. 1689), appears in a list of inhabitants fined in 1689 by the Court of New Castle for being confederates of the "Long Finn" in rebellion. On 15 June 1675 Gov. Andros confirmed by Patent a tract of 700 acres in the "Bought," about two miles above Verdrieties Hook on the west side of the Delaware, to Olle Fransson, Marcus Lawrenson, and Neels Neilson, which had been laid out to them by Warrant. He is listed as "Markus Lourense ye holsteynder" among ten residents of Verdrietige Hook fined 9 Nov. 1677, for failure to repair the dykes, from which appellation his origin in Holstein, Denmark, is obvious; and as "Markus Lourens" is on the Tax List of same year.* In 1680, he applied to the Court of New Castle for grant of the marsh lying before his land; and on 24 Oct. 1685, as "Marcus Lawranson," he acknowledged the conveyance of his 700 acres in the "Bought" near to Verdretys Hooke "to Stoffel Myers, before the same Court. By a Deed of 7 Aug. 1682, Anna Salter of Tacony, Penn., widow, had conveyed to Marcus Lawrence 100 acres at "Putshack in the Third Tenth" of West New Jersey, and by Return of Survey, 4 April 1684, 200 acres on the Delaware River, bounded northeast by a small creek and southwest by Casper Fish were laid out to him. A memorandum of a Deed, 8 Sept. 1685, from said Anna Salter to "Marcus Lawrence of Putshack," West Jersey, conveyed to him the other 100 acres.

At the Session of the General Assembly of the Province of West New Jersey, 12 to 14 of 3rd month, 1684, at Burlington, Marcus Lawrence appears with six Englishmen as the Members from the Third Tenth, and again at the Session of 3rd of 9th month in same year.

The nuncupative Will of Marcus Lawrence of Putshack, Gloucester Co., taken 4 May 1689, as attested by Casper Fisk and Rice Jones that "they then heard him say that . . . feeling that he should speedilly die, he asked his wife whether she would stay with his children, and she desiring to consult with her own son, he appointed Samuel Spicer, Henry Wood, and John Taylor to manage his whole estate and divide it between his wife and two sons." Administration was granted to them on 1 June 1689. By a receipt of 30 March 1700, Lawrence "Hullings" of Gloucester Co., N. J., acknowledged to the said John Taylor his share of the estate left by his "father, Markus Hullings." The surname became "Hulings" in the next generation.

Children of Markus Lorens alias Halling and ———:

1. Lorens Hulings of Gloucester Co., N. J., listed as "Lars Halling - 1" in Springer's Census of Swedish families on the Delaware, 1693. Will dated 21 Aug. 1700, probated 1 March 1700/01, named wife Katherine sole heiress and executrix of all property. In the census of parishioners of Wiccaco Church, 1697, this couple is listed with a son Lawrence. The wife was a daughter of Michael Laican of Gloucester Co., whose will is dated 17 Aug. 1703.
2. Another son, mentioned in father's will 1689, but not by name.

FOOT NOTES

Extracts from The Journal of the Rev. Abraham Reincke* among the Swedes of West Jersey, 1745. (Pub. in Pennsylvania Magazine of History and Biography, Vol. 33).

Racoon, Mar. 31:—Visited Matthew Gill, an awakened Irishman.

April 1:—Gerred van Nimmen, one of the principal men among the Swedes in Penn's Neck. John van Nimmen and his son went with us seven miles to the church at Penn's Neck. Van Nimmen's family is very numerous and lives in the neighborhood, the emigrant was from Holland; the Gracebergs, an Irish family, also live nearby.

April 3-4:—Set out early this morning with Andreas Holstein for Morris River, 40 miles from Racoon. ...In the evening came to old George Keen's who has one son Eric, who with his family lives with him. Old George, a widower, desires to marry a widow of about 50 years... (See marriage record above).

April 5:—Visited in the neighborhood, Nicholas Hoffman and wife Catharine...Crossed the creek to the church begun some years ago by the Moravians...thence to old John Hopman's who looks like an Indian, and met his wife and the wife of William Cobb; thence to Joseph and Abraham Johnson's.

April 8:—. . . came to Samuel Cobb's, who married a daughter of George Keen...I found in this country scarcely one genuine Swede left, the most of them are either in part or in whole on one side or other descended from English or Dutch parents, some of them have had a Dutch, German, or English father, others a Swedish mother, and others a Dutch, or English mother and a Swedish father. Many of them can just recollect that their grand-fathers or mothers were Swedish...The English are evidently swallowing up the people, and the Swedish language is so corrupted that if I did not know the English, it would be impossible to understand the language of my dear Sweden.

*He was born at Stockholm in 1712, educated at the University of Jéna, entered the Moravian ministry, and came to Pennsylvania in 1744.

GLOUCESTER COUNTY GRAVESTONES

Trinity Church Yard, Swedesboro

Copied July 16, 1938, by Lewis D. Cook; Checked Nov. 8, 1938, by Isaac M. Philhower and Russell B. Rankin
Members of the Genealogical Society of New Jersey

Previous to 1702 the Swedish settlers on the New Jersey side of the Delaware were compelled to cross that River to attend church services. Those above Raccoon Creek were members of Gloria Dei Church (founded 1677) at Wicacoa* (now in the City of Philadelphia), and the inhabitants below that Creek belonged to the church at Christina (Wilmington, Del).

The Swedish Lutheran Church at Raccoon (now Trinity Church, Swedesboro) was founded with Lars Tolstadius as preacher in 1702. It ministered to all the Swedish settlements in New Jersey until the organization in 1714 of the Swedish Church (now St. George's Episcopal Church) at present Churchtown, in Lower Penns Neck Township, Salem Co. The registers of these two churches are now (1938) published by the New Jersey Commission to Commemorate the 300th Anniversary of the Settlement of the Swedes and the Finns on the Delaware.

By a deed of Sept. 1st, 1703, John Hugg, Junr., of Gloucester River in the County of Gloucester and Province of New Jersey, Gent., conveyed to

> "Woolla Dalbo, William Cobb, Woolla Peterson, and Frederick Hopman, all of Raccoon Creek within the County and Province aforesaid, Church Wardens elected and appointed of the Swedish Church called (blank space) and late erected at Raccoon Creek in the County aforesaid, and to their successors in office forever, in Trust and confidence and to no other intent or purpose whatsoever, that is, to and for the only accommodation and service of the said Church and the proper use and advantage of the present incumbent or minister thereof, towards his better support and maintenance for so long a time and during the whole term and time that he shall continue to be and then afterwards unto all and every such other Minister, preacher, or teacher, successively who shall be admitted to exercise the ministerial function in the said church from time to time and at all times forever hereafter" for twelve pounds, silver money, a tract of twenty acres "on the Southerly side of Raccoon Creek and fronteth upon the same, being the parcel of land where the said church is erected," and also a tract of eighty acres.

*The register of that church, compiled to 1697-1698, is published in the Pennsylvania Magazine of History and Biography, Vol. 2, pp. 224-228.

The following abstract of the Charter of Incorporation of 1765 is of interest because of the names of Wardens, Vestrymen, et al., included therein.

> GEORGE THE THIRD, by the Grace of God, of Great Britain, France, and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, etc., etc.... WHEREAS by petition of the Reverend John Wiksen, Thomas Denny, John Denny, Lawrence Lock, John Lock, John Rambo, James Steelman, John Helm, Benjamin Rambo, Jonas Keen, Eric Cox, Jacob Archer, Isaac Justion, Gilbert Rinelde, Gabriel Strang, William Homan, Peter Matson, Peter Keen, Andrew Jones, Hans Urian, John Hoffman, Lawrence Strang, John Derrickson, Charles Lock, Erick Ranels, Jacob Jones, William Watson, James Halton, Andrew Lock, Moses Hoffman, Charles Fullor, Andrew Vanneman, in behalf of themselves and others inhabiting near Raccoon Creek in Gloucester County, presented to William Franklin, Esq., Governor &c that some pious and well disposed persons have heretofore appropriated lands and given them in trust for the use and benefit of a Swedish Reformed Church to be erected near Raccoon Creek aforesaid, in order thereby to raise a fund for keeping the said Church in repair and decency, but as the said lands could not be leased out, managed, improved, nor the rents collected, or other services done with convenience for want of being incorporated and made a body politick &c.... NOW KNOW YE that we of our especial grace &c have made ordained constituted granted and declared, and do make, ordain, &c that the said John Wicksen, Thomas Denny, John Denny (present churchwardens), and Lawrence Lock, John Lock, John Rambo, James Steelman, John Helm, and Benjamin Rambo, (present Vestrymen), and the rest of the Communicants of the said Church be and they and their successors shall be from time to time &c. a body corporate, and by the name and style of the Rector, Church Wardens, and Vestrymen of the Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Church in the town of Swedesborough near Raccoon Creek. &c.... 25th day of October 1765.
> (ex Penna. Magazine of Hist. & Biogr., 24, p. 521.)

The present church building was erected as a result of the efforts of the Rev. Nicholas Collin, last of the Swedish rectors, in 1784, and two years later the parish, as Trinity Church, Swedesboro, came under the jurisdiction of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

In addition to the churchyard from which the following inscriptions were taken, there is a brick-walled burial ground two blocks further on Church Street, with interments of the last century. Both are maintained in excellent order.

250-acre tract called Swanwick, adjoining the City of New Castle, Del., "if recovered." (NJW:477H.) Swanwick was the name of a Dutch settlement just north of New Castle, but search of Delaware records by competent genealogists has failed to discover any interest of the Anderson family in lands there. It may be that James or his wife inherited some claim through his or her mother, whose parentage is unknown. The allusion in the will certainly points to a Delaware origin for this family, but there were a number of contemporary James Andersons in New Castle County, and search of probate and deed records there has been fruitless.

Co., before 1748, and served as Constable in 1768, Township Committeeman 1771-81, Tax Collector in 1780 and Overseer of Highways in 1781. He wrote his name "Andreson," and in 1748 added a "Ju'r" to it. This may indicate a Dutch or Swedish ancestry or education, and possibly that his father had a brother Andrew, but no earlier Andrew is found in West Jersey. In the Chester tax list for 1774 he was taxed on 200 acres, Andrew, Jr., on 182 and Isaac on 68 acres. (NJW-Adm. Bonds 1714/56; WHBM:253-55; NJPRO.) His will, Mar. 28, 1786-Apr. 22, 1786, n. wf. and nine ch'n. His widow's will, Apr. 22, 1786-Feb. 7, 1789, n. only her own two ch'n, John and Elizabeth Williamson, the latter of whom md. Aaron Anderson as below. (NJA 36:11.)

EARLY SWEDES AND FINNS OF NEW JERSEY IN PUBLIC OFFICE

By Lewis D. Cook
Corresponding Member of the Genealogical Society of New Jersey; Life Member of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania

ERIC PALSSON alias MOLLICKA

Eric Palsson alias Mollicka was born in the parish of Mora, in the "Lan" or State of Helsingland, Sweden, in 1636.

He appears in 1677 as a resident of Taokamink, the Taconey section of what became Philadelphia County, where he had a 950 acre tract.* He served as the Overseer of Highways between Taconey and Poquessink Creeks there in 1682. By 1672 he had married, apparently as a second wife, Ingabor Helm, daughter of Israel Ackessen Helm of Upland, Pa., and of Thompson's Point, Gloucester County, N. J. In 1693, Eric Molica was listed as having been born in Sweden, head of a family of eight residing on the Delaware in Pennsylvania. By 1698 he had removed from Taconey and migrated across New Jersey to "Takakan, near Little Egg Harbor", and settled there on the upper side of the Little Egg Harbor River, at the place now known as Lower Bank, his surname being given to that River. With him in that year were his wife Ingabor, sons John aged 20, and Stephen aged 13, and daughter Catharine 15; the elder sons Olave and Eric and daughters Anna and Helena having been left at the former home in Taconey. Eric Palsson Mollicka was deceased by September 29, 1704, on which date the Revd. Andreas Sandel, Rector of the Swedish Lutheran Church at Philadelphia, notes in his diary that having journeyed to Little Egg Harbor, he "Preached a short sermon for those living here viz. Olof Mollicka's mother, a widow, and her daughter and two unmarried sons, and a married son. Andrew Mollicka. No more Swedes were known to live there." Probate of his estate does not appear on record.

Children of Eric Palsson Mollicka and ———:

1. Andrew, apparently the eldest, and born of a first wife in Sweden; d. between 1717 and 1720 in Gloucester Co.
2. Olof (William), b. 1673.
3. Eric, Jr., b. 1675.
4. John, b. 1678.
5. Catharine, b. 1683.
6. Stephen, b. April 30, 1685.
7. Anna.
8. Helena.

Of the sons, William, Eric and John purchased considerable tracts of land on Raccoon Creek, part of which were the site of the town named in their honor, Mullica Hill, in Gloucester County.

JONAS STILLMAN

Jonas Stillman appears as the head of a family of four persons living in New Sweden on the Delaware, then called Pennsylvania in a census made in 1693. He migrated thence across New Jersey and was settled on Patconck Creek, a tributary into the upper shore of the Great Egg Harbor, by 1695. On March 23, 1695/6, a Deed from John Somers of Great Egg Harbor conveyed to "James Steelman" of the same place, yeoman, 100 acres on the northeast of grantee's lands. At the June 1696 Session of Gloucester County Court, "James Steelman (was) elected overseer of ye Highways, to mark and make the Road from Egg Harbor towards Gloucester, and that he have power to summon together ye inhabitants of Egg Harbor to ye purpose." He was commissioned one of the Justices of the Peace for the County of Gloucester in 1704, 1705, 1709, 1723, 1727, and 1731, and in the last year, also as an Assistant Judge of the Court of Common Pleas. His estate included a considerable portion of the southwest end of what was then known as Absequam Beach, site of present Atlantic City.

James Steelman's first wife was Susannah Toy who died before 1730. She was a sister of Elias Toy of Chester Township on the Delaware, in Burlington County, N. J., where he himself may have resided before migrating to the Great Egg Harbor region as described. He married secondly, by N. J. license dated June 13, 1730, Katharine Ouster of Gloucester County. Jonas Stillman, his name anglicised as James Steelman, died between August 2, 1734, and January 10, 1734/5, the dates of signing and proving his Will, in which he is described as of Egg Harbor, Gloucester County, "Gentlemen".

Children of James Steelman and Susannah Toy:

1. Andrew, b. 1691; d. 1736.
2. Susannah, b. 1693, md. Nov. 1713, John Keen, b. in Oxford Twp., Philadelphia Co., Pa.
3. Hance, b. after 1697, d. 1760.
4. John, b. Jan. 7, 1692 (?); d. 1752.
5. James, md. Katherine Keen.
6. Elias, d. 1739.
7. Mary, md. a Mr. Blackman.

Children of James Steelman and Katharine Ouster:

8. Peter, d. 1762.

MARKUS LORENS alias HALLING

Markus Lorens alias Halling, (d. 1689), appears in a list of inhabitants fined in 1689 by the Court of New Castle for being confederates of the "Long Finn" in rebellion. On 15 June 1675 Gov. Andros confirmed by Patent a tract of 700 acres in the "Bought," about two miles above Verdrieties Hook on the west side of the Delaware, to Olle Fransson, Marcus Lawrenson, and Neels Neilson, which had been laid out to them by Warrant. He is listed as "Markus Lourense ye holsteynder" among ten residents of Verdrietige Hook fined 9 Nov. 1677, for failure to repair the dykes, from which appellation his origin in Holstein, Denmark, is obvious; and as "Markus Lourens" is on the Tax List of same year.* In 1680, he applied to the Court of New Castle for grant of the marsh lying before his land; and on 24 Oct. 1685, as "Marcus Lawranson," he acknowledged the conveyance of his 700 acres in the "Bought" near to Verdretys Hooke "to Stoffel Myers, before the same Court. By a Deed of 7 Aug. 1682, Anna Salter of Tacony, Penn., widow, had conveyed to Marcus Lawrence 100 acres at "Putshack in the Third Tenth" of West New Jersey, and by Return of Survey, 4 April 1684, 200 acres on the Delaware River, bounded northeast by a small creek and southwest by Casper Fish were laid out to him. A memorandum of a Deed, 8 Sept. 1685, from said Anna Salter to "Marcus Lawrence of Putshack," West Jersey, conveyed to him the other 100 acres.

At the Session of the General Assembly of the Province of West New Jersey, 12 to 14 of 3rd month, 1684, at Burlington, Marcus Lawrence appears with six Englishmen as the Members from the Third Tenth, and again at the Session of 3rd of 9th month in same year.

The nuncupative Will of Marcus Lawrence of Putshack, Gloucester Co., taken 4 May 1689, as attested by Casper Fisk and Rice Jones that "they then heard him say that . . . feeling that he should speedilly die, he asked his wife whether she would stay with his children, and she desiring to consult with her own son, he appointed Samuel Spicer, Henry Wood, and John Taylor to manage his whole estate and divide it between his wife and two sons." Administration was granted to them on 1 June 1689. By a receipt of 30 March 1700, Lawrence "Hullings" of Gloucester Co., N. J., acknowledged to the said John Taylor his share of the estate left by his "father, Markus Hullings." The surname became "Hulings" in the next generation.

Children of Markus Lorens alias Halling and ————:

1. Lorens Hulings of Gloucester Co., N. J., listed as "Lars Halling - 1" in Springer's Census of Swedish families on the Delaware, 1693. Will dated 21 Aug. 1700, probated 1 March 1700/01, named wife Katherine sole heiress and executrix of all property. In the census of parishioners of Wiccaco Church, 1697, this couple is listed with a son Lawrence. The wife was a daughter of Michael Laican of Gloucester Co., whose will is dated 17 Aug. 1703.
2. Another son, mentioned in father's will 1689, but not by name.

Jack, Free Negroman, 1788

DOROTHY A. STRATFORD

IN THE New Jersey Archives, volume 34, page 592, appears the will of Jacob Winocker, millwright, of Middlebrook, Somerset County. The will, proved March 2, 1779, left the estate to Hannah, a negress and servant, who was freed by this same will. Among the papers of Jacob Ten Eyck, of North Branch, who was a Justice of the Peace for Bridgewater Township, are two documents, relative to this estate, along with a copy of the original will. One clue to Jacob Winocker's identity may be the mention of his "good friend" Thomas Favill. The name of Thomas Favill appears in the account books of Van Nest & Van Liew, who kept store in the Millstone area of Somerset County prior to the Revolutionary War. This store supplied the copper mine in operation on the mountain behind Bound Brook and Thomas Favill is frequently mentioned in purchases for the miners. Jacob Winocker may have been one of these miners. John Goldtrap, Jr., one of the witnesses to the will, was a tavernkeeper in Middlebrook during the same period. These three documents are part of the Ten Eyck papers, holdings of the Special Collections Department, Alexander Library, Rutgers University.

BE IT REMEMBERED, that on the twenty eighth Day of Jan'y in the Year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred & eighty six Personally appeared before me William Woodhull one of the Judges of the inferior Court of Common Pleas, in and for the County of Morris in the State of New-Jersey, Benjamin Hart who being duly sworn, on the Holy Evangeliss of Allmighty God, deposeth & saith, that some Years past, he was at the House of one Jacob Winocker, in the County of Somerset, in the place called Middlebrook, & in the State aforesaid, who then had a black Woman Servant, & the said black Woman whose name was said to be Hannah . . . told this deponent, that she then had a Son named Jack, who lived with William Larrison in the Township of Roxbury, County of Morris, & in the State aforesaid; & this Deponent further saith, that the same Negro Man Jack, does now live with James Larrison of the same Township, County & State, & further saith not . . . .

he named the tributary creek on which he lived Trumpeter's Creek. Records of 1684 also show that land in the Repaupo region was owned by Peter Erickson and Anthony Neilson, on whose property now stands the Nothnagle Log House. The region continued to grow in importance until shortly after 1700, when the construction of the Kings Highway made nearby Racoon a genuine center, to the disadvantage of Repaupo.

North of Repaupo Creek was the smaller stream known now as Woodbury Creek. When English colonists came there in 1683 they found a few Swedish families already dwelling along the shore. The Dalbo family owned land in this region, and Walla Swanson, who lived across the Delaware River, also possessed 200 acres in the Woodbury section in 1683.

Swedes had come even earlier to Pensauken Creek, farther up the Delaware. In 1682 Markus Lawrence (or Hallings) bought 100 acres of land in the region and below him Casper Fisk owned another 100 acres along the river in present Camden County. In 1684 John Hance and Frederick King, members of the Swedish Church of Wicacoa (Philadelphia), had land surveyed on the northeast side of Pensauken Creek. This was in the Cinnaminson region, where Elias Toy bought more than 100 acres in 1689 and established the seat of his well-known family.

The extent rather than the actual size of these communities led to increased Swedish participation in the administration and upbuilding of the colony of West Jersey. Large Swedish landholders lost little time in purchasing fractions of shares in the proprietorship of the colony. Peter Rambo, for example, bought one-eighth of a share from an Englishman as early as 1682. This was inherited by his son, John Rambo of Gloucester County.

The first Swede to sit at Burlington in the predominantly English legislature was Peter Dalbo of Little Mantoes (Mantua), who attended the first session of 1685. He represented the Fourth Tenth, present-day Gloucester County, or the section from Oldmans Creek to Big Timber Creek. The Third Tenth, between Pensauken and Swedes who had crossed the Delaware earlier continued to move eastward through Salem County. In 1690 Germans who came to the headwaters of the Cohansey River and Alloways Creek, virtually nothing more than a clearing in the wilderness, found there a small settlement of Swedes. They in turn had been preceded by the Dutch. In the next century this mixture formed the Friesburg Church.

At about the same time Gabriel Thomas, an English historian, mentioned Swedes several miles southeast of Friesburg in the Maurice River Valley. In his account of West Jersey, published 1698, he attested their hunting ability in a reference to "Prince Morise's River where the Swedes used to kill the Geese in great number for their Feathers only leaving their Carcasses behind them." Thomas also mentioned Cohansey River, "by which they send great store of Cedar to Philadelphia-City."

The first Swede known to have settled on the Atlantic Coast was James Steelman, who founded the Swedish settlement at Great Egg Harbor. He had dwelt on the Delaware River, probably at Tacony, until 1693, when he crossed New Jersey and made his way to the ocean front. In 1696 he was elected overseer of highways to lay out the road "from Egg Harbor toward Gloucester." He also owned land at Absequam Beach, now the site of Atlantic City. An instance of how the New Jersey Swedes spread over the State occurs in the fact that Steelman's first wife was Susannah Toy, sister of Elias Toy, who lived at Pensauken Creek on the Delaware.

The most adventurous of all the early Swedes, however, was Eric Mullica Sr. In 1673, 10 years after he had arrived from Sweden and settled in the Tacony section on the west bank, he married Ingeborg, the daughter of Captain Israel Helm, who already owned considerable land in New Jersey. After spending more than 30 years in Pennsylvania, Mullica at 61 moved into the New Jersey interior. Far down east in Burlington County in 1697 he bought a 100-acre tract of land which he cultivated in plantation style. Here he lived until at least 1704, when records refer to his

Re: Toy

Dear Mrs. Hodge,

I was delighted to receive your letter of 21 July and its documentation on Elias Toy's second marriage.

In drafting my 1693 census series, I was troubled on how to place Nicholas, James and Daniel in the Toy family tree, but with only Eric Gästenberg's will reference to Nils' daughter Mary Toy and an undocumented claim in the Rev. Carl T. Smith papers at HSP that Elias Toy married Maria Gästenberg (b. 1690), I was reluctant to do so. I had not checked the New Jersey deeds, as you have done. It also seemed a bit strange for Elias Toy to be marrying a woman 26 years younger than he was.

I will include this addition and correction with others that will appear in SAG in 1992. In addition, I presently plan to publish the entire series (with text and footnotes corrected) as a book.

Rev. Smith was of the opinion that Maria Gästenberg married, after Elias Toy's death in 1720, Turlagh Sullivan. It seems to me more likely to me (and I see you agree) that Maria Toy, born 4 Sept. 1693 by Elias' first marriage, was the wife of Turlagh/Turlass Sullivan. He was still a minor on 26 Jan. 1705/6 when he was bound as an apprentice to James Wild of Burlington, wheelright, with consent of his stepfather Thomas Wakefield. (NJA, 23:449) He also died a pauper, which seems an unlikely fate if he had married the widow of Elias Toy. Mary (Toy) Sullivan was still living on 22 Jan. 1744 when she declined administration of the estate of her son, Benjamin Sullivan of Trenton, in favor of his creditors. (NJA, 30:466)

Andrew Toy, born 1699, was married twice. His first wife was Annika Keen, daughter of George Keen and Anna Gästenberg (see Keen genealogy, 35). They had one son -- Elias Toy, who married Barbara Clair 1 March 1750/1 at Oxford; Elias was buried at Gloria Dei 15 April 1770. His second wife was Mary Boon, daughter of Nils Boon and Mary (surname not discovered), by whom he had at least nine children: Nicholas, Eleanor, Sarah, John, Jacob, Susannah, James, Margaret and Isaiah. Andrew Toy of Lower Dublin township, Philadelphia County, died intestate before 28 Sept. 1752 when letters of administration were issued to his widow, Mary Toy. (Phila. Adm. F:457) Mary Toy's will of 24 Jan. 1753, proved 5 Feb. 1753 names her surviving children. (Phila. wills, K:37 #25). At her death, Elias Toy (her stepson) became administrator of his father's estate. (Phila. Adm. F:479).

Thank you again for nailing down Elias' second marriage, to Maria Gästenberg.

Re: Tay/Toy family

Dear Froberg,

John Johnson, apparent father of Elias Toy, was said to be Dutch or Finnish in colonial times. If Dutch, his actual name was Jan Janszen; if Finnish, his actual name was Johan Johansson. In either case, his father had the first name of Jan or Johan. Johnson/Janszen/-Johansson were patronymics, not surnames.

Elias was first called Elias Johnson, also his patronymic. The question is was it Dutch (Janszen) or Finnish (Johansson). He later adopted the surname Toy (as heard and written by the English) or Tay (as heard and written by the Swedes).

According to my Berlitz Dutch-English dictionary, the Dutch word “thee” (pronounced “tay”) means “tea” in English. The Dutch word “taai” (pronounced “taa-ee” means “tough” in English.

According to my Berlitz Finnish-English dictionary, the Finnish word “te” (pronounced “tay”) means “you” in English. The Finnish word “tee” (pronounced “tay” with a stronger emphasis on the vowel) means “tea” in English.

Perhaps there are (or were) other words in Dutch or Finnish close to the sound of Tay or Toy. Absent a record of what Elias himself intended, we can only guess.

Sincerely yours,

Peter

The Swedish Hulings
The Colonial Descendants of Marcus Laurensen of Holstein and the Delaware River

By Dr. Peter Stebbins Craig, F.A.S.G.*

Introduction

Marcus Laurensen of the Duchy of Holstein, progenitor of the "Swedish" Hulings in the colonial provinces of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Virginia, never used any surname in his lifetime. That task was assumed by his three children, Laurens, Regina and Marcus. Undoubtedly of peasant birth, nothing is known of Marcus' early life or how he reached the Delaware. The only certain conclusion that can be made is that, in the patronymic naming system then in vogue, his father's first name was Laurens. Marcus, a very able farmer, was unable to write his own name. He signed documents with his mark M_.

On the Delaware River, in the 1660s, Marcus Laurensen entered a society that, in terms of potential marriage partners, was predominantly Swedish and Finnish — holdover residents of New Sweden, vanquished by the Dutch in 1655 but granted liberal terms of self-government by Stuyvesant and his successors.[1] Like several other fellow Holsteiners, Marcus found his mates and his livelihood among the Swedes and Finns.[2] His children, who bore the surname of Hulings, were considered Swedish and used Swedish as their primary language.

The Marquis de Hulingues Myth

Marcus Laurensen, generally known as Marcus Lawrence in English records, died in old Gloucester County in 1689. By the time of the Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia in 1876, his name had been forgotten, even by his descendants. But the names and accomplishments of his grandsons and great grandsons, as ship builders, boatmen, frontiersmen, Revolutionary patriots were well known. It became necessary, at least in the eyes of some of the Hulings, to recreate their immigrant ancestor. This was accomplished through the collaboration of a descendant in Wilkes Barre, Pa., and a school headmaster in Fitchburg, Massachusetts, and reached print in 1881 and 1882.

The story, as thoroughly researched by my friend and colleague, Dr. Richard H. Hulan of Arlington, Virginia, unfolded in a weekly column on local history and genealogy entitled "Notes and Queries" by William H. Egle, which appeared in the Saturday supplements of the Harrisburg Daily Telegraph. Column #23, published 6 August 1881, carried a sketch by Egle on "Marcus Hulings and his family" (relating to the person designated MLH-21 in this paper) in which he wrote that the name Hulings was Swedish. This evoked an angry response from a Wilkes-Barre descendant. That letter, quoted in column #44 (31 December 1881) stated:

> The name Hulings is not Swedish, as Watson states, but French. The first of the name to which the family can trace was the Marquis de Hulingues, a nobleman of the South of France, who with his wife and other Huguenots fled to London. They had one son, whose descendant emigrated to America. In the religious wars of Gustavus Adolphus, a prominent participant was the Duke de Hulingues.
> The family of Hulings came to America about 1700. In the cemetery at Lewes, Delaware, a number of the family are buried. Marcus Hook was originally named for the head of the family, it being corrupted from "Marquis Hook."

This report supplied no references or documentation whatsoever to these remarkable claims. It, in turn, prompted two replies, which were printed in column #50 (11 February 1882). The first, by Isaac Craig of Pittsburgh, supplied documentation to rebut the claim that Hulings was French, not Swedish, pointing to the 1693 census of the Swedes on the Delaware and Rudman's 1697 census of members of the Swedish church at Wicaco, both of which had appeared in print. He also supplied documentation to show that Marcus Hook was derived from the Indian name of Marities Hook and was never Marquis Hook. The second, by Ray Greene Huling (1847-1915), headmaster of a school in Fitchburg, Massachusetts, supplied names for the presumed Marquis de Hulingues and his wife:

> In an old book (name and owner unknown, but once seen in Wilkes-Barre, Pa.) was the following biographical sketch:
> Thomas Paul Frederic, Marquis de Hullingues, a distinguished Bearnese nobleman who followed the fortunes of his Prince and kinsman, Henry of Navarre.
> He was one of those heroic men who defended La Rochelle, and finally in April, 1572, accompanied Henry to Paris, to be present at the nuptials of that Prince with Marguerite de Valois, daughter of the cruel Catharine de Medici. (18th Aug.)
> He witnessed the horrible massacre of St. Bartholomew (24th Aug.) and was one of the young nobleman who waited in the ante-chamber of the Prince and his bride on that fatal eve, and alone of all their personal attendants, escaped alive from the Louvre as by a miracle, through the gratitude of one of the Catholic soldiers. After various perils he succeeded in reaching Dieppe. Here he was soon joined by his betrothed wife, Isabella de Portal, who, although a protege and maid of honor of Queen Catharine, was a member of one of those rare old French families of Languedoc descended from the Albigois, whose war cry and armorial device "Armet nos ultio regun" was renowned through Southern France, whose name is inscribed in the "book of Capitouls" which like the "golden book" of Venice contained the names of all the patrician families of the ancient nobility. She was a native of Toulouse, and was rescued by a caprice of Catharine's from the fate of her once powerful but now persecuted family, and though carefully educated in the Catholic tenets was secretly faithful to the religion of the family.

> The Marquis and the Lady Isabella were privately married at Dieppe and sailed for England, but, fearful of pursuit, and the weather growing stormy, they were landed on the Danish coast, whence they afterwards proceeded to Gothenburg, Sweden, where they lived but a few years and left an only son, whose descendants emigrated to American about the year 1700.

Ray Greene Huling, a descendant of an early Rhode Island family by that name, also proceeded to show that he had considerable familiarity with the Pennsylvania Hulings. Among his other comments was the following, which (as published) contained a significant typographical error:

> In 1720, a Marcus Hulings was active in getting a Swedish clergyman settled over a church on the Schuylkill about four miles from Pottsgrove. . .. I conjecture that the Marcus of 1720 was father of the Marcus of the Juniata. Probably also, the Marcus of 1720 was son of Lars Halling or Haling, mentioned in Clay's Annals of the Old Swedes Church in Philadelphia, as a contributor to that church in 1699. This Lars had in 1657 [sic][1] a wife Catharine, and son Lawrence, and lived in Cinnamensing Township; now, I think, in New Jersey.

Dr. Hulan, after diligent search at the Library of Congress, has found no book containing the language which Ray Greene Huling purportedly quoted from the "old book once seen in Wilkes-Barre." Either Ray Greene Huling was the inventor of the story or he had copied it from a correspondent in Wilkes-Barre. Dr. Hulan also found proof that the story was a recent invention. The name given the supposed Marquis de Hulingues, Thomas Paul Frederic, was virtually the same as Pierre Paul Frederic, Baron de Portal, author of Les Descendants des Albigeois et les Huguenots, published in Paris in 1860. The language about the de Portal family and its background was lifted from that book, with one exception: the book shows there was no Isabella de Portal. The de Portal book also says nothing about Marquis de Hulingues; indeed, such a person exists only in Hulings genealogies.

A fair inference from these columns is that the fictitious Thomas Paul Fredric, Marquis de Hulingues, was created by or for one of the granddaughters of Thomas Hulings [MLH-215].[2] According to the first Egle article (#23), Thomas Hulings' son David Watts Hulings had two daughters who married Wilkes-Barre men: Ellen, wife of Charles Denison, and Elizabeth, widow of Chauncey Reynolds. The latter was then living in Baltimore, close to a library (the Peabody Library) which would have had the du Portal book. After all, if one is creating a distinguished Huguenot ancestry, it seemed preferable to use the name of one's grandfather, rather than Pierre, as the ancestor's first name.

[1] The date was 1697.

[2] Such genealogical fictions were commonplace in the late 19th century. With the 1876 Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia, interest in genealogy became very widespread. Little family historical data was then available, however, making it easy for charlatans to concoct wild stories of noble descent for eager and willing clients.

Little family historical data was then available, however, making it easy for charlatans to concoct wild stories of noble descent for eager and willing clients.

Later versions of this hoax changed the name of the fictitious Marquis de Hulingues and added new fabrications in an attempt to rationalize the fiction with emerging facts. According to Dr. Hulan, the most quoted is the following by Rev. Ammon Stapleton, Memorials of the Huguenots in America (1901), page 44, note 4:

> All accounts agree that the ancestor of this family was the Marquis Jean Paul Frederick de Hulingues, a young Huguenot nobleman of the old French Province of Bearn, who was a companion of Henry of Navarre and attached to his court.
> During the sojourn of Navarre at the court at Paris the young Marquis became betrothed to Isabella du Portal, a lady in waiting to Catherine de Medici. It was at this period that the awful massacre of St. Bartholomew took place. By a reference to the chapter covering this event the reader will learn that the King of Navarre saved his life by renouncing the Protestant faith. Many of his friends, however, were put to death. The Marquis de Hulingues and his affianced wife, however, made their escape to Dieppe where they were married. Here they took a vessel and put to sea. Adverse winds, however, drove them far beyond their original destination, and they landed in Sweden where they were taken under the protection of the court. The Marquis had but one son whose name is not known. A grandson was Lars (Laurence) Huling who came with the Swedish immigrants to the Delaware sometime prior to 1640. Only two sons of the immigrant are definitely known. They were Laurans and Marcus (1st), both of whom resided in Gloucester County, New Jersey. In the records of this county is (1) the will of Lourentz Hulings dated Aug. 27, 1700. His wife Katherine was the sole legatee. (2) Will of Laurens Hulings, proved June 4th, 1748.

The author of the above did not offer any source citations for his claims. It is interesting to speculate how he might have changed his conclusions if he had consulted page 677 of volume 21 of New Jersey Archives, published in 1899, which showed that on 30 March 1700 — just five months before his will — Lawrence Hullings of Gloucester County, New Jersey, who presumably immigrated before 1640, signed a receipt for 100 acres, "his share of the estate left by his father Markus Hullings" and leased another adjoining 100 acres from the "guardian of Markus Hullings," his own presumed son.

One would think that the yarn invented in Wilkes-Barre around 1880 would have been finally put to rest with the publication in 1938 by Lewis D. Cook of his sketch, "Markus Lorens alias Halling," which summarized the salient known facts of the life of Marcus Laurens and identified Lorens Hulings (died 1700/01) as one of his two sons.[1] However, the myth of the 1880s, as amended by Rev. Stapleton, continues to be published.[2] It is hoped that this present effort will help put the Marquies de Hulingues myth to its final rest with the myriad other fictitious claims of noble ancestry invented in the 19th century.

The Lars Markusson Myth

A second myth, which accepts the fact that Marcus Laurens was the father of the first two Swedish Hulings (Lawrence and Marcus Hulings), suggests that Marcus Laurens was the son of Lars Markusson, who arrived in New Sweden in 1641.[1] Dr. Amandus Johnson in his classic book, Swedish Settlements on the Delaware (1911), page 153, reports that among the passengers on board the Charitas, 3 May 1641, when it departed Stockholm for Gothenburg and thence to New Sweden was "Lars Markusson, hired as a servant to work on the tobacco plantation. He shall have a salary of 20 R.D., and a suit, but he received nothing on departing."

If this were true, it would be a very valid theory. It would be quite natural for Lars Markusson (Lars, son of Markus), once married, to name his eldest son Markus Larsson (Markus, son of Lars). There are, however, two fatal flaws. First and foremost, Dr. Johnson misread the original document. In the spring of 1991, I personally examined all of the New Sweden records in Sweden's national archives (Riksarkivet, Stockholm), which Dr. Johnson used in writing his book. The name of this passenger was Carl (not Lars) Markusson. Furthermore, he never married and died at Fort Elfsborg on 10 July 1643, as Johnson correctly reports on page 708 of his work.

The Örn Theory

Another theory which cannot be classified as a myth and, indeed, may be true, is that Marcus Laurensen, progenitor of the Swedish Hulings, came from Sweden to the Delaware on the Örn [Eagle] in 1654. Amandus Johnson in Swedish Settlements, page 720, claims that Markus Larsson was a New Sweden colonist, 1654-1655, who came as a passenger on the Örn in 1654.

In this case, Johnson may be correct. There was no passenger list for the Örn. However, there is a list of "new freemen" as of 9 June 1654 and detailed accounts of purchases from the company store in both 1654 and 1655. Markus Larsson was not listed among the new freemen. However, there is one accounting entry, on 2 June 1654, when he was debited for a pair of shoes. The name does not appear again in Swedish, Dutch or English records (in any variant spelling) until 1669.

Several conclusions might be drawn from this single reference: (1) He was among the many sick passengers arriving on the Örn who died soon after their arrival. (The list of new freemen 9 June listed many sick males and some recently-widowed women.) (2) He was a crew member on the Örn and left with the ship in June. (There is no list of crew members for the Örn.) (3) He did survive and

A second myth, which accepts the fact that Marcus Laurens was the father of the first two Swedish Hulings (Lawrence and Marcus Hulings), suggests that Marcus Laurens was the son of Lars Markusson, who arrived in New Sweden in 1641.[1] Dr. Amandus Johnson in his classic book, Swedish Settlements on the Delaware (1911), page 153, reports that among the passengers on board the Charitas, 3 May 1641, when it departed Stockholm for Gothenborg and thence to New Sweden was "Lars Markusson, hired as a servant to work on the tobacco plantation. He shall have a salary of 20 R.D., and a suit, but he received nothing on departing."

If this were true, it would be a very valid theory. It would be quite natural for Lars Markusson (Lars, son of Markus), once married, to name his eldest son Markus Larsson (Markus, son of Lars). There are, however, two fatal flaws. First and foremost, Dr. Johnson misread the original document. In the spring of 1991, I personally examined all of the New Sweden records in Sweden's national archives (Riksarkivet, Stockholm), which Dr. Johnson used in writing his book. The name of this passenger was Carl (not Lars) Markusson. Furthermore, he never married and died at Fort Elfsborg on 10 July 1643 as Johnson correctly reports on page 708 of his work.

The Örn Theory

Another theory which cannot be classified as a myth and, indeed, may be true, is that Marcus Laurensen, progenitor of the Swedish Hulings, came from Sweden to the Delaware on the Örn [Eagle] in 1654. Amandus Johnson in Swedish Settlements, page 720 claims that Markus Larsson was a New Swedish colonist, 1654-1655, who came as a passenger on the Örn in 1654.

(There is no list of crew members for the Örn.) (3) He did survive and remained in the colony, but had no later need to buy anything from the company store and somehow escaped any attention in later Dutch and English records for the next fifteen years. Only the third inference would support the thesis that he is the same person who was later known as Marcus Laurensen or Lawrence.

[1] See Zimmerman, Hulings of Pennsylvania, 1-2.

My own conclusion is that the shoe purchaser at Fort Christina on 2 June 1654 was not the same person who reappears as Marcus Laurensen in 1669. The absence of his name (in any variant spelling) in Swedish, Dutch or English records, either on the Delaware or in adjoining jurisdictions (New Netherland/New York or Maryland), in any surviving record for the 15-year period 1654-1669 makes it difficult for me to believe that the two were the same person. If he was part of the Swedish community in 1654, it also seems to me unlikely that he would still be called a "Holsteiner" in 1675. None of the other settlers described as Holsteiners in the 1670s appeared on the New Sweden rolls. Finally, it seems to me unlikely that his second wife, born c. 1660, would marry a widower about 30 years older than she was. In short, I think the connection between Markus Larsson and Marcus Laurensen is too tenuous and implausible to be accepted.

The Origin of the "Swedish" Hulings

Recorded history tells us nothing directly about the origin of the "Swedish" Hulings, other than the facts that the immigrant ancestor, Marcus Laurensen, was described as a Holsteiner in 1675 and that the surname was first applied to his eldest son, Laurens, in the 1693 Swedish church census, when Charles Springer, a Swede, wrote the son's name as "Loretz Hollingz."[1] It took another half century for the surname to become standardized as Hulings or Huling. However, based on my research, I feel quite confident that the progenitor of this family, as well as the other contemporary Holsteiners on the Delaware, immigrated under the auspices of the City of Amsterdam when that city was recruiting farmers for its New Amstel colony, 1663-1664.

After the surrender of New Sweden to Petrus Stuyvesant, governor of the Dutch West India Company, in 1655, the Swedes and Finns were allowed to retain their lands north of the Christina River with liberal terms of self-government. The area south of the Christina River was ceded in 1656 to the City of Amsterdam, which named its new colony New Amstel. In 1663, however, the entire river was transferred to the City, thus extending its New Amstel colony northward into areas that had been exclusively Swedish and Finnish before that time.[2] From its brief experience in colonization, the City of Amsterdam concluded that "people only must be sent there who are laborious and skilled in farming." This meant, "No Hollanders but foreign nations must be employed and attracted for this purpose," such as the Swedes and Finns who were already there and had proved themselves "particularly fitted" as farmers.[1]

The first such contingent arrived on the St. Jacob, which discharged a group of 41 Mennonites at the Whorekill (Lewes, Delaware), and fifty farm laborers and six or seven women servants at Fort Amstel (New Castle, Delaware) in August 1663. The farm laborers and women servants were hired out "quite similar to the way in which the English handle their servants," i.e., as indentured servants.[2] This was followed by the Purmerlanderkirck, which left Holland 13 Sept. 1663, arriving at Fort Amstel, 3 Dec. 1663, with about 150 people;[3] the Vergulde Arent [Golden Eagle], which left Holland in December 1663, arriving in the spring of 1664 with about 100 people,[4] the St. Jacob [again], which left Holland in April 1664, arriving in the summer of 1664 with about 100 passengers,[5] and the Waghen [Wagon], which was scheduled to leave Holland in June 1664.[6]

No passenger lists survive for these ships. However, surviving notarial abstracts do indicate the names and origins of a number of the young farmers aboard. There is a heavy sprinkling of Holsteiners in such abstracts.[7] It is also worth noting that there are communities in both northern Ditmarschen and adjoining Schleswig named Hollingstedt.[8] In choosing a surname might young Loretz Hollingz (as he was known in 1693) have recalled his father say that this was where he came from? Another Holsteiner, Matthias Claesen, had already pre-empted the surname of Holstein.[9] Perhaps it was thought necessary to be a little more specific.

Scope of This Report

Since 1982 I have been researching what William Penn called "the antient Sweeds" — the Swedish and Finnish colonists who settled on the Delaware River in the 17th century. Since my retirement as a lawyer in 1989, this has become a full-time job. My target has been to carry each line down to the end of the colonial period, the American Revolution, and beyond to 1800. Necessarily, this has included families resulting from the intermarriage of Swedes and Finns with other settlers, be they Dutch, English, Holsteiners, Germans or others, such as 18th century immigrants from Sweden. In my book, The 1693 Census of the Swedes on the Delaware (1993), at page 64, I summarize the facts regarding Marcus Lawrence, his wives and his three children. The book also gives details on the various other Swedish families that intermarried with the Hulings — Laican, Lom, Danielsson, Toy, Helm, Jones, Månsson (Mounce), Justis, Yocum. Also, in 1990, I prepared a three generation outline, "The Colonial Hulings Descendants of Marcus Laurens, Holsteiner," which was presented at a Hulings Researcher Reunion near Pittsburgh. Recently, one of the attenders, Jon Van Winkle of Durham, N.C., asked me to expand on this outline, adding documentary references. The following paper is the result of this request.

The paper restricts itself to the descendants of Marcus Laurensen, named Hulings only posthumously. It attempts to restrict itself to facts that are documented in contemporary records and to avoid secondary sources, wherever possible. Inevitably, in a paper of this nature, there will be significant errors of omission or commission. Readers are invited to bring these to my attention.

No effort has been made to include unrelated Huling or Heuling families. Two in particular should be noted, because both are sometimes confused with descendants of Marcus Laurensen: (1) Two brothers, William and Abraham Heulings of Cirencester County, Gloucester, England, in 1678 acquired rights to land in what became Burlington County, New Jersey, and immigrated by 1682 when their lands were surveyed.[1] They died in 1713 and 1725 in Burlington County leaving sons who carried on the name.[2] (2) A branch of the family of James and Margaret Huling of Newport, Rhode Island, moved to Lewes, Delaware, and perpetuated the family name there in Sussex County.[3]

Numbering System

In my research into the early settlers on the Delaware, I have found it convenient to assign a distinctive three-letter code to each immigrant and then to follow a modified Henry System to designate each descendant.

Thus, in the following paper I have used the initials MLH [Marcus Laurensen, whose descendants adopted the surname of Hulings] for Marcus, the immigrant. His two sons are designated MLH-1 [Lawrence Hulings] and MLH-2 [Marcus Hulings]. His one known daughter is designated MLH-a [Regina Hulings]. In subsequent generations, the sons are numbered 1, 2, 3, etc., and daughters are lettered a, b, c, etc., so that MLH-252 is the second son [James] of the fifth son [Andrew] of Marcus Hulings [MLH-2], the second son of Marcus Laurensen [MLH]. This helps me (and, I hope, the reader) keep track of who was who.

The Swedish Hulings

First Generation

MLH: Marcus Laurensen [later Lawrence], born c. 1640-45 in Holstein, immigrated to the Dutch-controlled Delaware River valley, probably in 1663-64. He married three times: first, (name unknown) c. 1670; second, Brigitta, daughter of Gustaf Danielsson of Upland (Chester), c. 1680; third, the widow Christina Toy in West New Jersey, c. 1685. He died 4 May 1689 at his "Putshack" plantation on the south side of Pennsauken Creek, Gloucester County NJ.

3RD wife

The first confirmed record of his presence in the Delaware River valley was the 50 guilder fine levied against "Marcus Laurson" for his involvement in the 1669 "Long Finn Rebellion."[1] His name does not appear among the heads of household in the 1671 English census of the Delaware.[2] As "Marcus Lourense the Holsteynder", living near Verdrietige Hook, he was fined 60 gilders in 1675 for his refusal to work on dikes ordered by New Castle Court.[3]

By 1675, Marcus Laurensen had become the owner of 1/3 of 700 acres at the Bought above Verdrietige Hook (west shore of Delaware River in upper New Castle County) with two Swedes, Olof Fransson[4] and Nils Nilsson.[5] The original English patent had been issued to Olof Fransson, Nils Nilsson and Peter Månsson,[6] 7 April

1673. By the time this tract was surveyed by Walter Wharton, 4 July 1675, "Marcus Lawrenson" had replaced Peter Månsson and the tract was found to contain 700 acres.[1] A new patent, dated 5 June 1676, was issued to Olle Fransson, Marcus Lourenson and Nils Nilsson showing ownership of 700 acres at the Bought, two miles above Verdrietige Hook.[2] The New Castle County tax list of November 1677 showed "Markus Lourens" among the tydables at this location.[3] On 3 November 1680, the New Castle Court minutes report: "Upon the request of Oele Franson, Markus Lourensen & Neels Neelsen, the Court do grant them to take up the marsh lying before their land which hitherto hath been by them improved for hay, it not to exceed 30 acres.":[4]

Around 1682, Marcus Laurensen sold his one-third interest in this land at the Bought to Stoffel Michel Meyer [Dutch] and moved to "Putshack" on the east side of the Delaware River, south of Pennsauken Creek, New Jersey. Although Marcus Lawrenson did not acknowledge his sale until 24 October 1685,[5] Stoffel Meyer was shown as tydable at the Bought on the 1683/4 tax list.[6] Meanwhile, on 7 August 1682, Marcus Lawrence had purchased 100 acres at Putshack from Anna Salter.[7] He also acquired another 100 acres there from Anna Salter, although the deed was not executed until 8 Sept. 1685.[8] On 4 April 1684, a return of survey was filed for Marcus Lawrence's 200 acres on the Delaware River, bounded on the northeast by a small creek (Pennsauken Creek), on the southwest by Casper Fish, including the meadow at the head of the small creek.[9]

At the time, Marcus Lawrence and Casper Fish were both married to daughters of Gustaf Danielsson and his wife Anna Lom. Gustaf Danielsson, a soldier and a

On 30 Nov. 1681, Casper Fish (who had married his eldest daughter Margaret[2]) was granted letters of administration on his estate.[3] On 13 June 1682, Marcus Lawrence complained to the Upland court about Casper Fish's administration of the estate.[4] The court agreed. On 12 September 1682, the minutes report:

> Casper Fisk appeared at this Court to have his discharge about the administration of the goods of Eusta Daniels deceased: And it was ordered at this Court that the said Casper shall appear at the next court or the next court ensuing after that, and bring into the court the bills of the creditors, or other satisfaction, signifying to the court the justness of such particular debts and also to produce his receipts for what he hath paid.[5]

The dispute between Marcus Lawrence and Casper Fish/Fisk had its fallout across the river. Marcus Lawrence sued Casper Fish for battery in the Burlington County court. This suit was withdrawn in June 1683.[6] On 12-13 May 1684 and again on 3 November 1684 Marcus Lawrence was one of the representatives from the Third Tenth attending the West Jersey General Assembly.[7] Shortly thereafter, after 1684 Gloucester County was formed out of Burlington County. Putshack was located in the new county, where Marcus Lawrence twice appeared as a grand juror, on 1 April 1687 and 1 Dec. 1687.[8] On 2 Feb. 1689, Marcus Lawrence was one of the members of the Swedish log church at Wicaco (south of Philadelphia), witnessing an agreement between Pastor Jacob Fabritius and the church wardens. His name was entered as "Marcus Lorensson" by the scribe and he signed by his mark, "ML", combined into a single letter, an M with a tail on it.[1]

Marcus Lawrence died 4 May 1689 at his home plantation at Putshack, Gloucester County. On his deathbed, he expressed his nuncupative (oral) will, which was witnessed by Casper Fish and Rice Jones, "who did hear the said Marcus Lawrence say as followeth: Having sent for John Taylor to make his will, who being come, the said Marcus Lawrence said he was sensible that he should speedily die and asked his wife whether she would be willing to abide with his children so long as she lived; his wife answered that she would not promise that until such time as she had spoke with her own son; he said that would be too late, and then asked whether or not she would condescend to and be willing that he should put the management of his estate and whole concerns to three persons, namely Samuel Spicer, Henry Wood and John Taylor; she expressing her willingness thereto, the said Marcus Lawrence then said I do appoint and order, after my decease, Samuel Spicer, Henry Wood and John Taylor to manage and dispose of my whole estate as they shall ----- and do what they will in the disposal thereof betwixt my wife and two sons." The witnesses swore to this description on 1 June 1689, when administration of his estate was granted to Spicer, Wood and Taylor.[2] On 7 May 1689, the inventory of his estate was made. His 200 acre farm with the house and crops on it was valued at £80; his personal property at £79.7.6, including £12 in silver money, "which his widow refused to give up." Other personalty included four cattle and three calves (£12), two oxen, four steers and a bull (£26), four yearlings (£2), six ewes and lambs (£6), sixteen swine (£8), two guns (£2), gunpowder (£2), wooden --- and a dutch wheel (£1), two iron pots (£2), bed and furniture (£2) and wearing apparel (£1).[3]

The widow, unnamed in the above record, undoubtedly was Christina, widow of John Johnson and the mother of Elias Johnson Toy.[4] She appears to have been the [4] Elias Johnson Toy, born in October 1664, lived nearby and had a sister Susannah and a mother named Christina, a widow. See 1693 Census, 62. At the Burlington County court in 1682, Elias Johnson and John Hance [John Hansson Steelman] collected £4.4 from Joseph Stubbs, servant for Governor Markham of newly created Pennsylvania, for boards that had been cut and delivered. At the same court, Daniel Brenson sued John Johnson for a debt of £2. John Johnson not appearing, Brenson won a judgment by default, to be collected from defendant's property under court attachment. BCR, 10. This is the last discovered reference to John Johnson, who apparently died soon thereafter. 1682 Elias adopted the surname of Toy and married Gertrude Nilsson in February 1690. After her death, he married Maria Gästenberg, daughter of Nils Gästenberg and Maria Danielson. 1693 Census, 62. Elias' sister Susannah was married, about 1690, to Jöns [James] Hansson Steelman, younger brother of John Hansson Steelman. In 1693, the twice-widowed Christina was living with her daughter Susannah Steelman. 1693 Census, 62.

third wife of Marcus Lawrence and not the mother of any of his children. The name of his first wife, mother of Lawrence Huling, is unknown. The first name of his second wife, Brigitta Danielsson, is inferred from the names given by her two children (Regina and Marcus) to their eldest daughters.

The names of the three known children of Marcus Lawrence were as follows:

+ 1. Lawrence Hulings, born by 1672 [of age in 1693] ✓
+ a. Regina Hulings, born c. 1682 [married 1702] ✓
+ 2. Marcus Hulings, born c. 1684 [aged 13 in 1697] ✓

The son Lawrence was old enough to be listed separately in the 1693 census of the Swedes on the Delaware.[1] The 1697 church census showed Marcus, then 13, living with his uncle Nils Gästenberg in Pennypack, Dublin township, Philadelphia County, and Regina living in the household of Nils' brother Eric Gästenberg.[2] On 30 March 1700, the estate of Marcus Lawrence was effectively closed. On that date, Lawrence Hulings of Gloucester County gave John Taylor, the surviving trustee, a receipt for his share of the estate left by Markus "Hullings," 100 acres. On the same day, John Taylor of West Jersey, trustee and guardian of Markus Hullings, entered into an agreement with Lawrence Hullings for the lease of 100 acres belonging to Markus Hullings, adjoining Lawrence's own land.[3] The first of these two 1700 references was the first public record giving Marcus Laurenson alias Lawrence a surname.

Second Generation

MLH-1: Lawrence Hulings, was born by 1672, probably at the Bought near Verdrietige Hook, New Castle County. After the death of his father, he carried on his father's farm at Putshack, Waterford township, Gloucester County, farming his own 100 acres and 100 acres leased from the guardian of his younger brother Marcus Hulings. He was of age by May 1693, when he was listed, as "Loretz Hollinz," a bachelor, in the church census.[4] He married Catharine Laican/Lycon, daughter of Michael Laican and Helena Lom,[5] c. 1695. Catharine is identified by the will of Michael Laycon of Gloucester County, dated 17 August 1703, naming Catharine third wife of Marcus Lawrence and not the mother of any of his children. The name of his first wife, mother of Lawrence Hulings, is unknown. The first name of his second wife (Regina Gästenberg), is inferred from the names given by her two children (Regina and Marcus) to their eldest daughters.

[5] Michael Nilsson and his brother Peter Nilsson, both born in Sweden, adopted the surname Laican [also Lycon, Lycan, Lykins, etc.]. He lived in Shackamaxon until moving to Gloucester County in 1699. 1693 Census, 35. Helena Lom, born c. 1650, married Michael Laican in 1670. 1693 Census, 35. She was a younger sister of Anna Lom, mother of Marcus Laurensen's second wife, Brigitta.

The names of the three known children of Marcus Lawrence were as follows:

- + 1. Lawrence Hulings, born by 1672 [of age in 1693]
- + 2. Regina Hulings, born c. 1682 [married 1702]
- + 3. Marcus Hulings, born c. 1684 [aged 13 in 1697]

"Halings" as the eldest of his several daughters.[1] As Michael and Helena had been married in 1670 and their second daughter Anna (who married John Rambo) was born 21 August 1673,[2] the birth year of Catharine may be estimated as 1671.

Andreas Rudman arrived to assume the pastorate of Gloria Dei church in 1697 and undertook a census of his congregation that summer. Among the families belonging to the church from across the river in New Jersey was young Lorentz Haling, his wife Catharine and their infant son Lorentz.[3] Rudman's church accounts show that Lorentz Haling of the Senamensing [Cinaminson] ward in West Jersey pledged £1 annually toward Rudman's salary and pledged £6 for construction of the new Gloria Dei church. However, he died after only £2 of the latter pledge had been paid.[4] Nevertheless, he was awarded a pew in Gloria Dei, consecrated in 1700, in the second quarter, 4th row, a pew that would later be inherited by his eldest son.[5]

On 1 June 1700, Lawrence Hollins served as a grand juror on the Gloucester County court.[6] He became ill that summer and on 21 August 1700 signed the will that had been drafted for him, under the name of Lorens Hollins of Gloucester County. The will, witnessed by Pastor Andreas Rudman, Anthony Dawson, Michael Laican [his father-in-law] and Casper Fish [his uncle], named his wife Catherine sole heiress and executrix of his real and personal estate in West New Jersey or elsewhere. The will was proved 1 March 1700/1, when his widow Catherine Hollins was named administratrix, with Michael Laican and Casper Fish her bondsmen. The inventory of his estate was filed 26 March 1701, showing land appraised at £20 and a personal estate of £71.2.0, including two Bibles and another book.[7]

Lawrence Hulings died in Waterford Township, Gloucester County, survived by his wife Catharine and two sons. Their children were:

+ 1. Lawrence Hulings, born c. 1697.
+ 2. Michael Hulings, born c. 1699 [named brother in Lawrence Jr.'s will].

MLH-a: Regina Hulings, was born c. 1682, probably at Putshack, Waterford Township, Gloucester County NJ. In 1693 she was living with her uncle, Caspar Fish (who married Margaret Danielsson, her mother's sister).[1] In 1697, she was living with Eric Gästenberg (whose brother Nils Gästenberg married Maria Danielsson, her mother's other sister).[2] Regina was married on 21 October 1702 to Garret Garretson,[3] son of Mårten Garretson and Christina Lom.[4] They lived in Blockley Township, Philadelphia County, on the southwest side of the Schuylkill River, near the Falls of the Schuylkill.

Regina's husband, variously known as Garret or Gert Mårtensson, Gertsson, Garretsson and finally as Garrett, was named a church warden of Gloria Dei in 1703 and was serving as a church warden as late as 1731, when he signed letters to the King of Sweden and Archbishop at Uppsala.[5] The will of Garrett Garretts was dated 19 Oct. 1732 and proved the same year.[6] His widow Regina Garretsson was still living in 1753. The church census for that year showed that she could understand, speak and read Swedish; she could speak, but not read, English.[7] Their children (from the Garrett family Bible) were:

a. Brigitta Garrett, born 1703, married Anders Hansson Boon.[8]
b. Maria Garrett, born 1705, married Anders Svensson Boon.[9]
1. Marcus Garrett, born 1707, married Anna Hansdotter Boon, 6 Nov. 1728, at Christ Church, Philadelphia; he died in 1785.[10]

MLH-2: Marcus Hulings: Born 1684 (not 1687 as claimed by his tombstone) at Putshack, Gloucester County NJ; Marcus Hulings was living with Caspar Fish in 1693;[3] and in the household of his uncle Nils Gästenberg in 1697.[4] About 1709 he married Margaret, born 1691, daughter of Måns Jonasson (Mouns Jones) and Ingeborg Laican/Lycon, daughter of Peter Laican/Lycon.[5]

On 7 April 1709, desiring to settle on lands near Manatawny, Marcus was granted a license to purchase land there by the Pennsylvania Board of Property.[6] Between 29-31 October 1710, Marcus Huling went on a trip to Manatawny with Pastor Andreas Sandel.[7] He probably settled there around this time, perhaps on land originally patented to Justa Justasson. On 16 Nov. 1717 Justa Justasson Sr., his wife Anna and their son Justa Justasson, Jr., conveyed 200 acres at this location, in Amity Township [present Berks County], to Marcus Huling for £97.10.[8] On 27 March 1720, Marcus Huling and others persuaded Samuel Hesselius, a new minister from Sweden, to become their pastor at Manatany.[9] This resulted in the founding of St. Gabriels Church, now located at Douglassville in Berks County.

In 1734 Marcus Huling was taxed on 200 acres in Amity Township.[1] Later, he seems to have acquired land in adjoining Douglass Township, originally patented to Pastor Andreas Rudman, as he sold 150 acres from Rudman's lower patent to his son Mounce Huling, 10 Sept. 1746,[2] and another 147½ acres from Rudman's lower patent to John Potts, 15 Sept. 1747.[3] Of the 200-acre Justason tract, he sold 120 acres to Philip Polsar Cressman, 29 March 1750.[4] In 1762, the remaining 80 acres of the Justason tract was occupied by his son John Huling.[5] In addition, he bought 700 acres (originally part of a 1,000-acre grant to Peter Boon) on 4 June 1746 and sold the same 14 June 1746 to Andrew Caldwell.[6] Finally, he also acquired a house and lot on Society Hill in Philadelphia, which is mentioned in his will.

On 15 May 1728, after a skirmish between the Shawnees and residents of the Manatawny area, Marcus Huling, John Paulin and Mordecai Lincoln were commissioned by the Governor to gather residents of the area for defense against feared Indian attacks.[7] On 12 March 1732 [1732/3] Marcus Huling signed a deposition, filed with the Governor, which complained that fish dams in the Schuylkill River greatly interfered with his canoe trips hauling wheat to Philadelphia.[8] On 17 April 1740, Philadelphia newspapers carried an item that Marcus Huling at Manatawney was accepting enlistments by those desiring to join a military expedition against the Spanish West Indies.[9] On 1 August 1740 and again on 21 August 1744 Marcus Hewlings was present as an interpreter at conferences held with Indian representatives in Philadelphia.[10] On 18 April 1745, the press reported that two servants had run away from Marcus Huling and [his son-in-law] William Bird of Amity Township.[11] And, on 12 June 1746, Andrew Sadowski of Amity Township offered a reward for the recovery of £30 gold coin if it was delivered to Marcus Hulings.[12] Marcus Huling was listed as a member of the vestry of St. Gabriels

Church in Amity Township, 23 April 1753,[1] and signed a letter of the Gloria Dei church members to the Archbishop of Sweden, 28 Aug. 1752.[2]

On 31 March 1757, Marcus Hulings signed his will, witnessed by Peter Yocum, John Kerlin and James Mallard, which left one shilling apiece to his sons Marcus and John and his daughters Bridget [Bird} and Maudlin [Magdalena Holstein]. He bequeathed to his son Andrew his house and lot on Society Hill, Philadelphia, plus "my young sorrel riding horse." His wife Margaret was to receive all of the remainder of his estate. His wife and son Andrew were named executors.[3] Three other children, Margaret, Peter and Mounce, had died before him. Marcus Hulings died 2 April 1757 and was buried at St. Gabriels Church in Douglassville, 4 April 1757.[4]

The children of Marcus and Margaret [Jones] Hulings were:

+ 1. Marcus Hulings, born c. 1712; married Rebecca Godfrey 23 Jan. 1741.
+ 2. Mounce Hulings, born c. 1714; married Helena --- c. 1738.

Third Generation

MLH-11: Lawrence Hulings was born by estimation in 1697 in Waterford Township, Gloucester County. His name first appeared in civil records on 21 June 1720 when he served as a grand juror at the Gloucester County court under the name of Lawrence Hollin.[1] As Lawrence Hollins, he also served as a juror on 21 May 1725/6, and as a grand juror on 14 August 1727 and 23 Dec. 1735.[2] He served again as grand juror on 19 Sept. 1738, this time as Lawrence Hollings.[3] He crossed the Delaware to attend church, usually at Gloria Dei where his name (Lorentz Huling) appeared in the church census of 20 Nov. 1743.[4] Unfortunately, marriage and baptism records of that church prior to 1750 were lost in the 1830s. When no pastor was available at Gloria Dei, Lawrence Hulings attended Christ Church in Philadelphia, where two of his children were baptized: Joseph Hulins (17 May 1734 at the age of ten weeks) and Michael Hollings (5 Jan. 1743 at the age of two months and three days)[5] In both cases the mother was reported as Diana. The evidence suggests that she was the daughter of Hermanus and Catharina Helm of Greenwich Township, Gloucester County. Hermanus Helm, son of Captain Israel Helm,[6] wrote his will on 3 November 1740, making a bequest to his married daughter Dinah.[7]

On 2 October 1742, Lawrence Hollings of Waterford Township acquired 342 acres on Repaupo Creek from John, Thomas and Richard Penn for £85.10. Such land was acquired for himself, James Steelman and John Helm [son of Hermanus Helm].[8]

Lorence Hollings of Waterford Township, Gloucester County, yeoman, wrote his will on 6 May 1748, witnessed by Israel Fish, Thomas Spicer and Samuel Spicer. The will made no mention of Diana/Dinah, who had predeceased him. The will granted his sons Lorence and Michael all of his real and personal property, they paying legacies to his sons Abraham, Israel, Joseph and Marcus when each reached the age of 26 and also a legacy to his daughter Dinah when she became 21. Marcus was to be put to a trade. Named as executors were his brother Michael Hulings of the City of Philadelphia, shipwright, and his son Abraham Hulings. The will was proved on

MLH-11: Lawrence Hollings was born by estimation in 1697 in Waterford Township, Gloucester County. His name first appeared in civil records on 21 June 1720 when he served as a grand juror at the Gloucester County court under the name of Lawrence Hollins.[1] As Lawrence Hollins, he also served as a juror on 21 May 1725/6, and as a grand juror on 14 August 1727 and 23 Dec. 1735.[2] He served again as grand juror on 19 Sept. 1738, this time as Lawrence Hollings.[3] He crossed the Delaware to attend church, usually at Gloria Dei where his name (Lorentz Holling) appeared in the church census of 29 Nov. 1743.[4] Unfortunately, marriage and baptism records of that church prior to 1750 were lost in the 1830s. When no pastor was available at Gloria Dei, Lawrence Hollings attended Christ Church in Philadelphia, where two of his children were baptized: Joseph Hollins (17 May 1734 at the age of ten weeks) and Michael Hollings (5 Jan. 1743 at the age of two months and three days).[5] In both cases the mother was reported as Diana. The evidence suggests that she was the daughter of Hermanus and Catharina Helm of Greenwich Township, Gloucester County. Hermanus Helm, son of Captain Israel Helm,[6] wrote his will on 2 November 1740, making a bequest to his married daughter Dinah.[7]

On 2 October 1742, Lawrence Hollings of Waterford Township acquired 342 acres on Repaupo Creek from John, Thomas and Richard Penn for £85.10. Such land was acquired for himself, James Steelman and John Helm [son of Hermanus Helm].[8]

Lorence Hollings of Waterford Township, Gloucester County, yeoman, wrote his will on 6 May 1746, witnessed by Israel Helm, Thomas Spicer and Samuel Spicer. The will made no mention of Diana/Dinah, who had predeceased him. The will granted his sons Lorence and Michael all of his real and personal property, they paying legacies to his sons Abraham, Israel, Joseph and Marcus when each reached the age of 26 and also a legacy to his daughter Dinah when she became 21. 4 June 1748. On the preceding day, appraisers Alexander Morgan and Samuel Spicer filed the inventory of his estate, totaling £266.16.6 in personal property, including cattle, horses, a Negro woman (£10½), a float (£12) and a boat (£3).[1]

Children:

1. Lawrence Hulings, born by 1722 in Waterford Township, Gloucester County, married Abigail Wallace, 9 Aug. 1749, at Christ Church, Philadelphia.[2] She was the daughter of Philip Wallis (Wallace) of Gloucester County.[3] Lawrence Hollings/Hulings of Waterford Township, Gloucester County, wrote his will, proved 21 Oct. 1758,[4] naming his wife Abigail and four minor children Jacob (who died unmarried in the Revolution before 24 March 1777 when an inventory of his estate was filed in Newton Township, Gloucester County[5]), Lorence (who died in his minority before 1773[6]); Abigail and Sarah. The will named his wife and his brother-in-law John Wallace co-executors. The inventory, filed 11 October 1758, appraised his personal estate at £239.11.6, including purse and apparel (£77.2.6), a looking glass (£1½) and a boat and sail (£5).[7] His widow Abigail Hullings married Isaac Burrough, 8 April 1761, at St. Michaels & Zion Church in Philadelphia.[8]
2. Abraham Hulings, born c. 1725 in Waterford Township, Gloucester County, married Hesther Prath, 8 July 1755, at Gloria Dei Church in Philadelphia.[9] The 1753 Gloria Dei church census showed that he was then a carpenter, living in Wicaco (Philadelphia). He was also reported living in Philadelphia on 7 March 1764 when, as eldest surviving brother of "Israel Hullins", Abraham Hullings of Philadelphia renounced as administrator in favor of his brother Michael Hullins of Waterford Township.[1] Abraham Hulings was buried at Gloria Dei Church, 25 July 1773.[2] The names of his children, if any, have not yet been identified. However, they probably included Abraham Hulings, shipwright, who married Priscilla Brown at St. Michaels & Zion Church, Philadelphia, 8 July 1784.[3]

3. Israel Hulings, born c. 1730 in Waterford Township, Gloucester County, married Jane Sharp, 11 April 1759, at Gloria Dei Church in Philadelphia.[4] On 30 May 1761, he was named guardian of his younger brother Michael Hulings.[5] Both he and his wife died in Waterford Township, Gloucester County, before 7 March 1764 when Abraham Hullings of Philadelphia declined to serve as administrator of Israel Hullins' estate (Israel's wife also being dead) in favor of Michael Hullins of Waterford Township.[6] The inventory of Israel Hollings' estate, filed 9 March 1764, appraised his personal property at £163.7.8¾.[7] Michael Hollings was named administrator on 13 March 1764 and filed his accounting on 20 Dec. 1766.[8] Israel may have been the father of William Hulings, whose named appeared on the 1778-1780 tax list for Waterford Township.[9]
4. Joseph Hulings, born about 1 March 1734,[10] married Elizabeth Valleygate, 31 Dec. 1755, at Gloria Dei Church in Philadelphia.[11] He made his home in Southwark [south Philadelphia] and remained an active member of Gloria Dei Church throughout his life. On 19 Feb. 1756, Joseph Hulings advertized in the Pennsylvania Gazette that his wife Elizabeth "hath eloped from her husband and has refused to live with him any longer." She later returned, however, and bore him ten children. These children, as identified by Gloria Dei records, and the parents' wills were: Mary (m. William Turner, 15 Aug.

5. Marcus Hulings, born c. 1738 in Waterford Township, Gloucester County, married Wilhelmina Skilling, 28 Dec. 1763, at St. Michaels & Zion Church, Philadelphia.[2] According to Gloria Dei records, their son David, born c. 1772, married Abia Legg, 19 May 1794, at Gloria Dei. At the time of David's marriage, his father Marcus Hulings of Cape May NJ was deceased. There may, of course, have been other children.
6. Michael Hulings, born 2 Nov. 1742 in Waterford Township, Gloucester County, married widow Rachel Shirrel, 19 Nov. 1769, at St. Michaels & Zion Church in Philadelphia.[3] On 21 June 1766, Michael Hollings, late of Waterford Township, sold his great grandfather's 200-acre plantation in Waterford Township to George Browneg for £500. The deed recited that the land had been held in joint tenancy with his brother Lawrence Hollings, who died without acting to sever the joint tenancy, whereupon the entire premises descended to Michael in fee. The deed was acknowledged by Michael Hollings on 16 Jan. 1767.[4] On 25 June 1766, Michael Hulings of Northern Liberties, Philadelphia County, shipwright [Michael's uncle] and Abraham Hollings of Northern Liberties, boat builder (both acting as executors of Lourance Hollings, deceased) and Michael Hulings Jr. of Southwark, taylor (as legatee) conveyed to James Steelman and James, John and Hans Helm (sons of John Helm of Greenwich Township, deceased) Lourance Hollings' former one-third share in 342 acres above Repaupo Creek, acquired by Lorance Hollings from the Penns 2 October 1742. The deed recited that the will of Lorance Hollings of 6 May 1748 authorized the sale of his interest for the benefit of creditors and his two sons Lorance and Michael, that the son Lorance Hollings and his wife Abigail had deeded the one-third belonging to him and Michael to James Steelman and John Helm for £40. For an additional 5 shillings, Michael Hulings now conveys his half of his father's one-third of this land to James Steelman and John Helms's sons James, John

a. Diana or Dinah Hulings, born c. 1745 in Waterford Township, Gloucester County, died at the age of 7 on 18 Sept. 1752 in Waterford Township.[3]

MLH-12: Michael Hulings was born c. 1699 in Waterford Township, Gloucester County. He was married twice: first, by 1724, to Mary Robeson, daughter of Andrew Robeson and Maria Helm (daughter of Israel Helm).[4] After the death of his first wife (buried 27 Apr. 1736),[5] Michael married Susannah Cock, daughter of Peter Petersson Cock and Helena Helm (also a daughter of Israel Helm).[6]

The Robeson genealogy estimates that Mary Robeson was born in 1705.[7] The will of Andrew Robeson of Manatawney (Amity Township), proved 7 March 1719/20 provided his daughter Mary, then unmarried and under 21, with an annual income of £8.[8] She married Michael Hulings before 21 May 1724 when Michael Hulings signed a deed along with other heirs of Andrew Robeson.[9] This is the earliest discovered reference to Michael Hulings. It is presumed that he had sold his interest in the Waterford Township homestead to his brother Lawrence and moved to Philadelphia County, which thereafter was his home. After the burial of his first wife, Michael Hulings married Susannah Cock at Christ Church, Philadelphia, 3 May 1737.[10] On 12 May 1737 the Pennsylvania Gazette carried an item reporting that Michael Hulings, shipwright, living at the upper end of Front Street, Philadelphia, offered a reward for the return of his lost mare. On 15 October 1745 Michael Hullings of the City of Philadelphia, shipwright, mortgaged his lot, described as 45.91 perches of improved land in the City of Philadelphia, for £90. The loan was marked satisfied, 9 July 1756.[11]

At some uncertain date, Michael Hurling was recognized as the owner of the pew at Gloria Dei originally assigned to Michael Laican.[1] His name appeared, as Michael Hulings of Philadelphia, on the 1743 census of Gloria Dei church. The 1753 Gloria Dei census listed him as Michael Hullings, master ship-builder and a trustee of the church, living in Philadelphia. The pastor noted that both Michael Hullings and his wife Susanna could understand, speak and read Swedish, as well as English. Both children, Jonathan and Susanna Hulings, were learning English and knew nothing of the Swedish language.[2]

On 31 January 1766 Michael Hulings was named a warden for the Port of Philadelphia, a position he held for several years.[3] On 31 July 1775, the Pennsylvania Council of Safety thanked Mr. Hulings for the model of a boat he had sent to them.[4]

The will of Michael Hulings of Northern Liberties, Philadelphia, shipwright, dated 9 July 1774 and proved 1 October 1781, named his wife Susannah and his son-in-law Joseph Copperthwaite executors. His wife was to inherit his Negro slave Nancy and various silver and to enjoy the income from his estate as long as she was a widow. His eight-day clock went to his son-in-law. Bequests were also made to his grandchildren Susanna Hulings and William Empson Hulings, children of his son Jonathan Hulings, deceased.[5] His wife Susannah, however, also predeceased him. She was buried at Gloria Dei Church, 7 Nov. 1774.[6] It is uncertain when Michael died. His death is not recorded in Gloria Dei records - perhaps because of the Revolution.

Michael Hulings had at least nine children, only two of which grew to adulthood:

1. Peter Hulings, buried 10 Jan. 1733/34, Christ Church, Philadelphia.[7]
a. Mary Hulings, buried 11 Aug. 1734, Christ Church, Philadelphia.[8]
b. Sarah Hulings, born 12 Jan. 1736, buried 8 Dec. 1736, Christ Church, Phila.[9]

colonel in Pennsylvania during the Revolution and died 12 Sept. 1809.[1] They had children Hulings Cowperthwaite and others named in the 1839 will of her nephew William Empson Hulings.[2]

MLH-21: Marcus Hulings was born c. 1712, in Amity Township, Philadelphia (now Berks) County. He married Rebecca Godfrey 23 Jan. 1741 at St. Gabriels Church, Berks County.[3] He did not remain there long. On 16 August 1751 the German language Pennsylvania Berichte, published in Germantown, carried an item from Marcus Hulings of Bucks County, near the Durham iron furnace, reporting that a German servant named Jacob Bender and wife had run away on 10 November 1750, and offering a reward for their return. On 10 May 1753, the Pennsylvania Gazette carried a notice from Marcus Huling, Jr., living at Easton, Pa., asking that his lost mare, if found, be returned to Michael Huling, shipwright, at the upper end of Philadelphia. In May 1762, he wrote a letter from Fort Pitt, asking his brother-in-law Matthias Holstein to obtain warrants for the tracts he occupied at the junction of the Juniata and the Susquehanna.[4] On 5 October 1773, 157 acres were surveyed for Markus Huling in Newberry Township, York County.[5] During the Revolution, the Pennsylvania Council of Safety reimbursed him £26, 10 Jan. 1777, for damage to his boat used to transport Colonel Cook's battalion from Shamokin to Harris' ferry [Harrisburg].[6] In 1782, a statute was enacted authorizing Marcus Hulings to build a mill dam near the mouth of Sheerman's Creek in Cumberland County.[7] Also owning land at the Forks of the Ohio, he sold the latter and returned to the Juniata where he died in September 1788.[8] His will of 26 Feb. 1788, proved 22 Sept. 1788, named five surviving children, and described his residence as Greenwood Township, Cumberland County.[9] His wife allegedly died before the Revolution. Both are buried at Losh's Run.[10] On 26 October 1787 the Pennsylvania Packet carried an item that Huling's Ferry on the Susquehanna opposite the mouth of the Juniata, was for sale, the property including 50 acres, a good stone house, storehouse and stable. A year later, on 17 October 1788, the same newspaper again advertised the sale of Huling's Ferry, noting that it had been rented before the [Revolutionary] War for £50 and that the house and store cost nearly £400.

Children:

1. Marcus Hulings, born 22 Oct. 1742 in Amity Township, Berks County,[1] married Mercy ("Massey") Dougherty 24 Dec. 1764 and died 17 November 1804. Both are buried at Pioneer Cemetery, Franklin, Venango County, Pa. Their children were: Marcus (born 1765, died 1813, unmarried); John (born 14 Feb. 1767, married Agnes Bell 16 Feb. 1790, died 23 Dec. 1800, Venango County); Michael (born 1770, drowned 4 Aug. 1797, Venango County, unmarried); Rebecca (born 25 Aug. 1776, died 20 July 1815, married Abraham Selders); Samuel (born 30 April 1780, died 1854, married Elizabeth Hicks and Isabel Lee); Susanna (born 1 August 1782); Thomas (born 11 August 1784, married Jane S. Martin); James (born 1787-9, died 21 April 1860 in Kentucky, married Christina McGaffey).[2]
2. Michael Hulings, born Nov. 1744 in Amity Township, Berks County,[3] apparently died in his minority without issue. He was not mentioned in his father's will.

a. Mary Hulings, born 13 March 1747, was baptized by the minister of Gloria Dei on 10 May 1752.[4] She married, first, Thomas Simpson; secondly, on 18 June 1780, William Stewart. She had four children and died 22 Feb. 1790.[5]

3. Samuel Hulings, born 6 Apr. 1752, was baptized by the minister of Gloria Dei on 10 May 1752.[6] He appeared on the tax list for Greenwood Township, Cumberland County 1778-1785. On 27 November 1788 Samuel Hulings of Allegheny County petitioned for the grant of a 40-acre island in the Allegheny River, which he then occupied, located 15 miles from Pittsburgh. The request was granted 29 November 1788 on condition that he pay 7 shillings 6 pence per acre within six months.[7] Not having met the 1788 terms for "Hulings Island," Samuel Hulings was granted on 20 Feb. 1790 a four month extension of time to pay, the price being increased to 18 shillings 9 pence per acre.[1] He apparently did so, as a patent was issued for the island 20 Feb. 1791. Samuel Hulings and his wife Keziah sold the same on 13 June 1802.[2] In the meantime they had acquired land in Deer Township, Allegheny County, where they were shown with five apparent daughters and one son in the 1810 Federal census. On 26 May 1817, Samuel Hulings purchased land in Montgomery County, Ohio. He died there 17 January 1825. His will, proved 28 April 1825, named his wife Keziah and son-in-law Alexander Stuart executors. Among his children were Rebecca (married Alexander Stuart), Esther (married Alexander McBride), Sarah (married John Ainsworth) and Mary (married John Kensinger).[3]

4. James Hulings, was born c. 1753, died in 1837 in Louisiana.[4]
5. Thomas Hulings, was born 3 March 1755, and died in Buffalo Township, Perry County, Pa., March 1808.[5] In 1789-1790, he was appointed one of three Commissioners to review the Susquehanna and Juniata rivers for the purpose of recommending navigation improvements.[6] By his first wife, Elizabeth Watts, he had children Rebecca (born 25 March 1789), Marcus (11 Feb. 1791), Frederick (9 March 1792), David (1793), Mary (8 May 1798). By his second wife, Rebecca Berryhill, he had children Eleanor (born 1803), Elizabeth (1805) and Julia (1808).[7]

MLH-22: Mounce Hulings, was born c. 1714 in Amity Township. His wife Elena has not been further identified and the date of their marriage is unknown. On 10 Sept. 1746, Marcus and Margaret Hulings, conveyed to their son Mounce. Hulings 150 acres on the Schuylkill in Douglass Township.[8] On 10 February 1746 [1746/7] Mounce Hulings of Amity Township mortgaged these 150 acres of improved land in MLH-23: John Hulings, born c. 1719 in Amity Township,[1] was first married, about 1742, to Ann Rambo, mother of his first child, Dinah, born 11 May 1743 and baptized at St. Gabriels.[2] Ann was the daughter of Måns (Mounce) Rambo of Upper Merion Township, Philadelphia (now Montgomery) County, as shown by the will of Mounce Rambo dated 30 September 1781 which made a bequest to his granddaughter Dinah, daughter of Ann Hewlings, deceased.[3] After Ann's death, John married 2d, at the Lutheran Church in New Hanover, Sarah Bacon (born 6 July 1730[4] died 25 Sept. 1792[5]).

In 1762 John Hulings was identified as the owner of 80 acres in Amity Township which had formerly been part of his father's 200-acre plantation (originally patented to Justa Justasson).[6] This may the same land, described as 100 acres in Amity Township, which John Hulings, yeoman, mortgaged to the General Loan Office for £70 on 7 March 1748/9.[7] On 15 May 1751, John Hulings also acquired 193 acres in Amity Township from Adam Wartman; this was sold by John Hulings and his wife Sarah to Mounce Jones, 16 May 1768.[8]

Around 1765, John Hulings and his family moved to Woolwich Township, Gloucester County NJ,[9] where the 1778 tax list showed him owning 208 acres with two horses and six cows, plus another 109 acres then taxed to his son Samuel.[10] He died in the autumn of 1783 in Woolwich Township after suffering from an intestinal illness for the last 7-8 years of his life.[11] His widow Sarah died 25 Sept. 1792.[12] The Benjamin Angelo, was born 28 June 1793.[1] Two infant children were buried at Trinity Church on 21 Dec. 1804 and 1 July 1806.[2] Soon thereafter, the family moved to Crawford County, Pa., where Mary died about 1815. James Angelo married 2d Lucy McDowell in 1817 and had seven sons by his second marriage. In March 1832, James Angelo and his family moved to Morgan County, Illinois.[3]

MLH-25: Andrew Hulings was born c. 1726 in Amity Township.[4] He married Catharine Månsson 12 Oct. 1752 at Gloria Dei (Old Swedes) Church in Philadelphia.[5] She was born in 1730 in New Castle County, the only child of Hendrick Månsson alias Mounce and Judith Swansdotter Justis.[6] The will of Marcus Hulings, dated 31 March 1757, named Andrew Hulings co-executor with his widow and devised to Andrew his house and lot on Society Hill in Philadelphia.[7] On 3 July 1760 Andrew Hulings of Berks County[8] advertised the fact that he had a house and lot for sale on Society Hill in the Pennsylvania Gazette. In June 1762, Pastor Carl Wrangel of Gloria Dei Church visited Manatawney. In addition to visiting Andrew's sisters, widow Brigitta Bird and Mrs. Magdalena Holstein, Wrangel and Andrew Hulings rode horseback to see the new town of Reading, the county seat of the newly created Berks County.[9]

In 1765, Andrew Hulings moved to Rockingham County, Virginia, where he acquired 186 acres near Smiths Creek from his cousin Andrew Bird.[10] In January

[10] Information from Dr. Richard Hulan of Arlington, VA. The date of this transaction is unknown to the writer. Andrew Bird, Sr. [unrelated to William Bird] had married Måns Jones' daughter Magdalena. Their son Andrew Bird, Jr., made the conveyance to Andrew Hullings. The move to

1766 Joseph Gore, a schoolmaster, entered into an agreement with Andrew Huling and others to teach reading and writing for their children for twelve months at the rate of 23 shillings per child. Andrew Huling contracted to pay for such education for five children.[1] On 17 May 1768, John and Ruth Blizard conveyed to Andrew Hulings, for £20, 30 acres (part of 400 acres patented to Swan Rambo) located between Andrew Bird's land and Smith's Creek.[2]

In October 1767 Andrew and Catharine Hulings traveled back to New Castle County to sell Catharine's inheritance. Their deed, dated 26 October 1767, conveyed to Robert Taylor, a Wilmington shopkeeper, for £300, 100 acres on Drawyers Creek in St. Georges Hundred, land which Catharine's father Henry Mounce [Månsson] had devised to his unborn child by his will of 3 Sept. 1729. The deed described Andrew Hulings as "late of Berks County, Pennsylvania, yeoman" and was signed by his signature. Catharine signed the deed with her mark and appeared before Justice John Stapler the next day to acknowledge her consent to the sale.[3]

Andrew Huling died before 28 April 1778 when administration of his estate was granted to his widow Catharine Huling and his eldest surviving son, James Huling.[4] On 16 July 1790, a marriage license was issued to Jacob Rambo (son of Swan Rambo) and Catharine Huling, widow of Andrew Huling.[5] Shortly thereafter, in 1792, Catharine Rambo and James Huling granted a power of attorney to Moses Coates to file suit for recovery of the land in New Castle County which Catharine had inherited from her father, Henry Mounce.[6]

The known children of Andrew Huling and his wife Catharine were:

1. George Hulings, born in Berks County, 11 August 1753,[7] apparently died in his minority.
2. James Hulings, born in Berks County, 4 Feb. 1755[8] The eldest surviving son;

Måns Svensson Lom, Forgotten Forefather, and his Seven Daughters

by Dr. Peter Stebbins Craig
Fellow, American Society of Genealogists
Fellow, Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania
Historian, Swedish Colonial Society

originally published in Swedish Colonial News,
Volume 1, Number 12 (Fall 1995)

Although the surname of Lom died out by 1685, it is probable that Måns Svensson Lorn had more descendants than any other settler of New Sweden. He had nine children, fifty or more grandchildren and at least 250 great-grandchildren. When Andreas Rudman took his census of the Wicaco congregation in 1697, thirty percent (165) of them were Lom's descendants.

Nothing is yet known about Lom's personal history prior to 1641. As he came to America with the Stille brothers (Olof and Axel) it is probable that he was also from Roslagen. That was the reported birthplace of his eldest daughter. The name of his wife is not found in any surviving record. Based on Swedish naming patterns, her name was probably Anna Petersdotter and it seems likely that she was the sister of Olof and Axel Stille, sons of Peter Stille of Roslagen.

Måns Svensson (the son of Sven) used the surname of Lom, pronounced "Loom" in Swedish and sometimes spelled that way. It means "loon" or "diver" and is typical of the kind of name assigned to a Swedish seaman.

Lom's name first appeared in New Sweden records on the passenger list of the Charitas, 3 May 1641, on the eve of that ship's departure from Stockholm on the first leg of its voyage to America. Listed right above the family of Olof Stille and the bachelor Axel Stifle was "Måns Svensson Lom, a tailor and formerly a lieutenant, who intends to begin agriculture in New Sweden. He has received 5 Riksdaler but otherwise no salary; he goes with his wife, two almost grown-up daughters and a little son."

In New Sweden, he became one of the first settlers of present Delaware County, where he settled with the Stille brothers on a tract called "Techoherassi" by the Indians. This was at present Eddystone, located on the Delaware River between Olof Stille's Creek (now Ridley Creek) and Crum Creek.

On 6 October 1646, during the war of words between Governor Johan Printz and the Dutch, Olof Stille and Måns Svensson Lom delivered one of the Governor's ultimatums to Andries Hudde, the Dutch commander at Fort Nassau. The account book of Hendrick Huygen, New Sweden's commissary, dated I March 1648, showed that Måns Svensson owed the New Sweden Company 274.17 guilders for his purchases from the company store.

Måns Svensson Lom probably died in 1653. On 27 July 1653, his two sons-in-law Peter Larsson Cock and John Wheeler and Olof and Axel Stille were among the 22 freemen submitting a petition of grievances to Governor Printz. Lom's name was conspicuous in its absence. On 9 June 1654, after the arrival of Governor Johan Risinor "Måns Lom's widow" was listed among the "old freemen" pledging allegiance to the new governor.

Arriving on the Eagle with Governor Rising, was Lars Andersson Collinus, a "münster" (minister's) scribe, who soon married Måns Lom's widow. In 1664, Olof Stille's family and the Lom family (with its new father-in-law) moved to Moyamensing on the Delaware River in present South Philadelphia. "Lasse" Andersson later became a justice on the Upland Court. After the creation of Pennsylvania, Lasse Andersson was "naturalized" by William Penn and joined other "antient Sweeds" in signing a deposition (for use against Lord Baltimore) establishing that the Swedes were the first permanent settlers in Delaware, which Baltimore claimed belonged to Maryland. The will of Lars Andersson Collinus, dated 17 July 1689, left his Moyamensing plantation to Michael Nilsson Laican and Andrew Wheeler, who were, respectively, a son-in-law and grandson of Måns Lom.

It is unknown when Lom's wife died. However, she was the mother of nine children:

1. Margaret Lom, born in 1626 in Roslagen, was buried by pastor Andreas Sandel 13 Feb. 1703 at the age of 76. She married Peter Larsson Cock and lived at Peter Cock's (later Province) Island. They had 13 children:

> Lars ("Lasse") Cock, born 21 March 1646, died October 1699 at Passyunk; married Lydia Ashman; 13 children.
> child (Måns?), born 1648, died young.
> Erick Cock, born c. 1650, died 1701 in Gloucester County; married Elisabeth Olofsdotter Philipson, 9 children.
> Anna Cock, born c. 1652, died in Upper Merion Township; married Gunnar Rambo, 9 children.
> Måns Cock, born c. 1654, died c. 1721, Gloucester County; married Gunilla Jonasdotter Nilsson, 7 children.
> John Cock, born 1656, died 1716, St. Georges Creek, New Castle County; married Brigitta Nilsdotter Friend, 9 children.
> Peter Cock, born 1658, died 1708, Passyunk; married Helena Israelsdotter Helm, 9 children.

2003

> Magdalena Cock, born 1659, died after 1723 in Kingsessing; married Anders Petersson Longacre. 10 children.
> Maria Cock. born 1661, died after 1717 in Passyunk; married Anders Rambo, 6 children.
> Gabriel Cock, born 1663, died after 1714 in New Castle County; married Maria Nilsdotter Friend, 7 or more children.
> Brigitta Cock. born 1665, died 1726 in Gloucester County; married John Rambo, 11 children.
> Margaret Cock, born 1667, died 1701 in Kingsessing; married Robert Longshore and Thomas Jenner, 3 children.
> Catharine Cock, born 1669, died 1748 in Moyamensing; married Bengt Bengtsson, 4 or more children.

2. Catharine Lom, born in Roslagen c. 1628, married John Wheeler, an Englishman, who lived in the New Sweden colony. After the 1653 protest to Printz, they moved to Swanwyck, near the Dutch Fort Casimir (New Castle), and by 1658 had moved to the Sassafras River in Cecil County, Maryland. Catharine died before 1674 when John Wheeler's second wife Mary renounced any interest in his property. Catharine had four known children:

> Samuel Wheeler, born c. 1650, who remained in Cecil County on his father's "Roundstone" plantation; never married.
> John Wheeler, born c. 1654, sold his father's 'Wheelers Point' plantation in Cecil County to his brother-in-law Nicholas Allum in 1677, intending to move to land acquired by his "grandfather" Lars Andersson in Blockley Township, Philadelphia County. However, he returned to Cecil County to live at "Roundstone," married Elizabeth and died in 1698, survived by 3 daughters.
> Anna Wheeler, born c. 1656, married Nicholas Allum; 1 daughter.
> Anders Wheeler, born c. 1660, moved as a young man to the Blockley Township land acquired by Lars Andersson. After inheriting part of Moyamensing from Andersson, he sold the Blockley Township lands to his cousins, the Gertsson brothers. Married Catharine Andersdotter Svensson and Anna Maria Georgen (Urian), 7 children.

3. Peter Månsson, born in Roslagen c. 1638, never used his father's surname. He married a daughter (name unknown) of Sven Gunnarsson and in 1673 was shown as a one-third owner of the Bought on the Delaware in Brandywine Hundred, New Castle County. He surrendered this interest to Marcus Laurens and moved to Cecil County, where he died in 1677, survived by one child:

> Anders Petersson. Sven Svensson, Peter Månsson's brother-in-law, attempted, without success, to be his guardian. Anders appears to have died in his minority in Cecil County, without issue.

4. Anna Lorn, born at sea in 1641, married Giösta Danielsson, who arrived, in New Sweden in 1654 as a tailor and soldier. They lived at Upland (Chester), where Danielsson died intestate in 1681, survived by three daughters:

> Margaret Danielsson, baptized in 1658 at the Dutch Church in New Amsterdam (New York), died in 1697 in Gloucester County; married Casper Fish in 1675, 8 children.

> Brigitta Danielsson, born c. 1660, died c. 1685 in Gloucester County; became 2d wife of Marcus Laurens, a Holsteiner [progenitor of the Swedish Hulings], 2 children.
> Maria Danielsson, born 1663, died 1699 at Tacony, Philadelphia County; married Nils Ollesson Gdstenberg, 8 children.

5. Beata Lom, born 1643, reported to be the first girl born in New Sweden, died at Upland in the spring of 1689. In January 1662 she became the second wife of Pastor Lars Carlsson Lock, who came to New Sweden in 1648. Their children:

> Anders Lock, born c. 1663, died 1716 in Gloucester County; married Christina Fish, sister of Casper Fish and widow of Hans Petersson, 6 children.
> Måns, Lock, born c. 1665, died c. 1698 in Gloucester County; unmarried.
> Catharine Lock, born c. 1668, died 1720 in Gloucester County; married John Jonasson [Nilsson], 5 daughters.
> John Lock, born c. 1670, died 1720 in Gloucester County; married Catharine Hoffman, 4 children.
> Peter Lock, born c. 1673, died 1731 in Gloucester County; married Maria, 9 children.
> Maria Lock, born c. 1675, had illegitimate child by Hermanus Helm; not further traced.
> Gustaf Lock, born c. 1680, died 1742 in Gloucester County; married Magdalena Hoffman, 8 children.
> Another daughter (not identified) who told Peter Kalm in 1748 that her mother Beata Lom was thc first girl born in New Sweden.

6. Christina Lom, born c. 1645, married Mårten Gertsson of Christina Creek c. 1663. She died after 1678. After her husband drowned out of his canoe in 1680, Lars Andersson Collinus and Sven Månsson Lom were named administrators of his estate. Her children:

> Gertrude Gertsson, born 1664, died 1744 in Moyamensing; married John Stille, son of Olof Stille, 12 children.
> Armegot Gertsson, born 1664, died 1755 in Blockley Township, married Johan Skute, son of Captain Sven Skute, 3 children.
> Gerrit Gertsson [later Garrett], born c. 1672, died 1732 in Blockley Township, married (1st) Magdalena, (2nd) his cousin Regina Huling, daughter of Marcus Laurens, 8 children.
> Mårten Gertsson [later Garrett], born 1675, died 1751 in Blockley Township; married Brita Jonasdotter Nilsson, 5 children.

7. Sven Månsson Lom, born c. 1648, died c. 1685 in Blockley Township; name of wife unknown, one child named in step-father's will:

> Utro (Gertrude?) Lom; no further record.

8. Helena Lom, born 1650, died 1720 in Gloucester County. She married Michael Nilsson Laican in 1670. Initially they lived at the Bought on land later occupied by her brother Peter Månsson. Then they moved to Shackamaxon to share land with her nephew, Lasse Cock. Michael Laican stayed in Shackamaxon after inheriting land at Moyamensing from. Lars Andersson Collinus. He moved in 1699 to Gloucester County, where he died in 1704. They had 10 children:

> Catharine Laican, born 1671, who married Lawrence Huling, eldest son of Marcus Laurens, 2 sons.
> Anna Laican, born 1673, died in Upper Merion Township; married her cousin John Gunnarsson Rambo, 7 children.
> Gertrude Laican, born 1675, died c. 1721 in Gloucester County; married her cousin Peter Ericksson Cock, 8 children.
> Nils Laican, born 1677, died 1733 in Gloucester County; married cousin Susannah Fish, no children.
> Måns Laican, born 1679, died 1728 in Gloucester County; married Maria, 2 children.
> Anders Laican, born 1682, died 1733 in Gloucester County; never married.
> Christina Laican, born 1684, died in Gloucester County; married cousin Elias Fish, 6 children.
> Michael Laican, born 1686, died after 1740 in Gloucester County; married Anna Hoffman, 10 children.
> Helena Laican, born 1689, died in Gloucester County; married cousin Casper Fish, Jr., 7 children.
> Zacharias Laican, born 1696, died 1733 in Gloucester County; never married.

9. Maria Lom, born c. 1652, married John Mattsson, son of Matthias Hanson c. 1672. After living at Moyamensing for 12 years, they moved to Gloucester County where Mattsson died in 1701. Aside from caring for the younger children of Lars and Beata Lock after their deaths, John and Maria Mattsson had at least seven children of their own:

> Matthias Mattsson, born c. 1673, died 1700 in Gloucester County; unmarried.
> Anna Mattsson, born c. 1674, died 1721 in Gloucester County; married Stephen Jones, son of Anders Jonsson Ekoren, 6 children.
> Måns Mattsson, born c. 1670, died c. 1705 in Gloucester County; married Elisabeth, I child.
> Gertrude Mattsson, born c. 1678; husband and children (if any) unknown.
> Anders Mattsson, born c. 1680, died 1734 in Gloucester County; married Maria Van Culen, 5 children.
> Maria Mattsson, married in 1717 William Philpot of Salem County, 7 children.
> One or two other daughters not identified.

therefore, make a friendly request to each individual by our agent, Jacob Yongh, that they discharge their just debts to him without refusal, so that we may not be obliged to employ other means, and incur useless expenses, which must fall on those who occasion them. We are also solicitous to procure a further continuance of his service; and, therefore, request all who are desirous of this to subscribe their voluntary contributions for his support, respectively, with their names or marks. Given at Wickakau on the 10th of August, 1684.

GLORIA DEI CHURCH

Early Swedish Records—Extracts from Parish Records of Gloria Dei Church, Philadelphia.—Mr. Rudman, anxious for a speedy and accurate knowledge of his congregation, formed in 1697 and 1698 a list of all the families, and classed them in local districts. This was inserted in the book, still preserved, which also contains the records of baptisms, marriages, burials, etc. It is here translated from the Swedish. Many of the names being somewhat altered by time, they are written in the modern way, as follows: Baptism names—Andrew (Anders), Benedict (Bengt), Isaiah (Esaia), John (Johan), James (Joens). Laurence (Lorenz), Nicholas (Nils), Stephen (Staphan), Swan (Sven), William (Olave). This last name has not, indeed, any corresponding in English, William being called Wilhelm in Swedish; but the offspring of these Olaves substituted William as in some degree similar, and of common use; the former is quite obsolete. The female names are nearly the same in both languages. Brigitta or Bridget for Brita, and Helena for Elanor, may be noticed. Surnames, little altered, are: Johnson (Janson), Morton (Mortenson), Swanson (Sveuson), Wheeler (Wieler), Fish (Fisk), of the same meaning. More changed are: Bancson (Bengtson), Cox (Cock), Lycon (Laiken), Jones (Jonason or Jonson), Toy (Tay and Taw). Much varied from the original are: Culin (Van Coelen), Hewlings (Haling then Huling), King (Cone then Koenig), Boon (Bonde), Justis (Gustafson then Justison), Urian (Joergen), Garret (Gertson). The sons of Arian Johnson, at Tinnicum, took the name of Aretzon, and this was afterwards changed into Archer, which is yet preserved. [Note by Rev. Dr. Collin.]

SWEDES' CHURCH AND THE SWEDES.

In 1700 the present brick church, p. 147.—"1700, July 2. The church was dedicated, being first Sunday after Trinity, by Rev. Mr. Biork; text, 2 Sam. v. 29. It cost about twenty thousand Swedish dollars." (See Clay's Annals Swedes, pp. 80–82.)

The parsonage-house, now standing, was built in 1737, p. 148. —In 1733 the parsonage was built, which was pulled down in 1832, and a new one erected on or near the same spot, and occupied by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Clay of the Episcopal Church, with which Wicaco is now united. He published a small volume entitled Annals of that church.

Four years after the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock, in 1620, the famous Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden conceived the idea of planting a colony on the shores of the Delaware. He did not live to witness the fulfilment of his hopes, but in 1638, during the reign of his daughter, Queen Christina, and nearly fifty years before Penn reached New Castle, a band of Swedish colonists found a home on the Delaware, erecting a block-house at Wicaco (the Indian name for the region) for defence against the Indians. They were a God-fearing, industrious race, and as early as 1646 their first church was consecrated on Tinicum Island. The result, however, was far from agreeable, for it is related that Governor Printz's daughter, living on the island, "did much abuse ye honest Swedes, selling the church-bell, and committing other like outrages."

In 1667 the Swedes erected a church at Crane Hook, about one and a half miles from Fort Christina, on the south side of the creek, in which both the Dutch and Swedes assembled for worship. The church early built in the fort had served them for about twelve years. The church now erected was a wooden one; no vestige of it or the graveyard remains; an orchard occupies their place. About 1669 a block-house with loopholes was erected.

In 1677 a parish was organized, and this block-house on the main land was used as a church until the present edifice was erected. At the time of William Penn's arrival, who is said to have landed near this spot when he came from Chester, the site of the block-house was a beautiful shaded knoll, sloping gradually down to the river. North of it, where Christian street is, was a little inlet, and on the north side of the inlet was another knoll on which was situated the log cabin of three Swedish brothers, Swenson or Swanson, who sold to William Penn the site of Philadelphia, and who were, besides, at one time the owners of Southwark, Moyamensing, and Passyunk.

Old Swedes' Church (Gloria Dei), erected on the site of this block-house, is now one of the oldest landmarks of Philadelphia, and on Sunday, May 27, 1877, within its historic walls was celebrated the two hundredth anniversary of the formation of the parish. The previous year the one hundred and seventy-sixth anniversary of the dedication of the present building was celebrated. At that time the rector, Rev. Snyder B. Simes, said in reference to this anniversary:

"But I cannot stop here, nor can I at this time enlarge on that exceedingly interesting portion of our history embraced between the first arrival of the colonists, in 1636 or 1637, and the dedication of this church in 1700. For, as many of you are aware, venerable as this church is, still it is not the original building which stood on this spot, for as early as Trinity Sunday, 1677, the first sermon was preached by the Rev. Mr. Fabritius in the 'Old Block Church,' as it was called, though as far back as 1646 the Swedes consecrated their first church on Tinicum Island. Its distance from Wicaco rendered it so inconvenient that the block-house was converted into a place of worship, as I have already said, in 1677, and this was afterward used for divine service till this present church was erected. As, therefore, Trinity Sunday, 1877, will mark the two hundredth anniversary of the dedication of this site to the worship of the Almighty and the organization of this parish, I, for my part, do not think it should pass by unnoticed; and, believe me, whoever may be appointed to preach the sermon on that day will find a rich fund of material from which to draw, so interesting and fascinating that it is hard now to pass it all by in a single sentence."

The church records commence abruptly in the year 1750; not a scrap of paper in the shape of parish records is to be found here which was written prior to that year. It is supposed that these early records were taken back to Sweden, and correspondence is now in progress to secure their return if they can be found.* Five years after his first sermon Rev. Mr. Fabritius was stricken with blindness, but continued in the discharge of his duty for a number of years to 1691, when his infirmity compelled him to resign.

From that time up to 1697 the parish was without a pastor. In the year named three missionaries were sent from Sweden by King Charles XI., who appropriated three thousand dollars and a great number of Bibles, primers, catechisms, and other books, which were eagerly received, and the Rev. Andrew Rudman was placed in charge. It is related that the members of the society regarded him "as an angel sent from heaven." It was during the pastorate of Mr. Rudman that the congregation decided to build the present church. A dispute arose as to its location, a number of members being in favor of a site on the Schuylkill. To end the difficulty, the whole matter was given into the hands of the clergy, with the stipulation that there should be a "fine of ten pounds imposed on any who should find fault with what was done therein." This was decisive, and in 1700 the church was completed. The communion service still used in the Old Swedes' Church was presented by Magdalene Robeson, eldest daughter of Rev. Andreas Rudman, the first pastor, and Elizabeth Vanderspiegle, his granddaughter, in 1773. The old bell in use for so many years was cast in 1643, and contained the inscription—

* These records are stated to have been in the possession of the clergy connected with this ancient church as late as 1830, at which time they mysteriously disappeared. Parties have been actively engaged in searching for them, and have worked out every clew or theory which has been advanced as to their disposal, and they now think that they were surreptitiously carried away by parties who may have been interested in their disappearance. The late Joseph J Mickley said that copies might be in Sweden, as he had been informed that there were a number of reports of the churches in America, but that he did not see them.

> "I to the church the living call,
> And to the grave do summons all."

It was recast and enlarged in 1806 by G. Hedderly.

Beneath the chancel lie the remains of the first pastor of the church. A tablet to his memory contains the inscription:

"This monument covers the remains of the Rev. Andreas Rudman; being sent hither from Sweden, he first founded and built this church, was a constant and faithful preacher in the English, Swedish, and Dutch churches; eleven years in this country, where he advanced true piety by sound doctrine and good example. He died September 17, A. D. 1708, aged 40 years."

The building is thirty feet in width by sixty feet in depth, and stands on the west side of Swanson street, near the Delaware. Since 1700 some changes have been made, a vestry added and some supports for strengthening the walls. In 1846 side-galleries were erected inside to accommodate the increasing membership, a new organ purchased, and the old pulpit and pews replaced by those of a more modern style. But the same carved cherubs that gazed down on the Swedes one hundred and seventy-seven years ago still decorate the organ-loft, and the baptismal font at the left of the altar is the original one brought from Sweden. On the walls are two tablets—one to the memory of Rev. John Curtis Clay, and one to the Rev. Nicholas Collin, who was the last missionary sent to this country by the Swedish government. In the chancel, and also in the quaint old graveyard outside, repose the remains of many of the first pastors and their wives and other great-hearted men and women.

The oldest tombstones in the churchyard, being a serpentine stone, have withstood the ravages of time and are in excellent condition, while those of a more recent date, being of soft marble, have so crumbled away that the inscriptions on them have become scarcely legible. One of the oldest—the oldest to be found with a legible epitaph—has this inscription:

"MRS. MARGARET BOONE—1708.

"She lived a widow two and twenty years. Five children had, and by one husband dear. Two of y^e same in y^e ground lies interred here."

About the same date is a tablet to the memory of Pastor Sandel's children. It bears date "April y^e 21st, 1708," and "August y^e 13th, 1711." Mr. Sandel returned to Sweden in 1719. Hanging in the vestry is the naturalization paper of Rev. Andrew Rudman, signed by William Penn and dated 1701, 6th month and 12th day. The first parsonage was erected 1733, mainly through the efforts of one Peter Johnson, who was afterward arrested and thrown in prison for debts contracted during the building.

As far back as the year 1700 and earlier, numerous land-grants were made it, and at one time the society owned nearly all the land in the neighborhood. Portions of the land were occupied by settlers without leave or license, and in one way or another the possessions of the society were frittered away, with the exception of a few lands of but little value. Point Breeze Park, where the parsonage of the first pastor was located, before its sale by the church brought the magnificent rental of three dollars and thirty-three cents yearly! From the organization of the parish to the present time the whole number of pastors has been sixteen, of whom Rudman, Lidman, Dylander, Von Wrangel, Collin, and Clay are the most noted. The tenets of the original worshippers of this church were Lutheran.

Rev. Jonas Lidman was recalled in 1730, and took home some presents of peltry from the congregation to the king and Bishop Swedburg. Rev. J. Ensberg (or Eneberg), pastor of the church at Christina, officiated until the arrival of Rev. Gabriel Falck in 1733, who only remained one year, going to St. Gabriel's at Morlatton. Rev. John Dylander arrived November 2d, 1737, and officiated as pastor for four years with great zeal. He died November 2, 1741; his monument in the church says in 1742. He was succeeded by Rev. Gabriel Nesman, who arrived in 1743, October 20th. He served faithfully until his recall in 1750, when he was succeeded by Rev. Olof Parvin, who arrived on the Speedwell July 5th. Other Swedish ministers about this time were Rev. Petrus Tranberg and Rev. Eric Unander, pastors at Racoon and Pennsneck, N. J.,; Rev. John Ensberg of Christina and Provost Rev. Israel Acrelius of Christina, and who must have occasionally filled the pulpit of Wicaco during vacancies.

In 1733 the parsonage was built. The glebe in Passyunk was rented, and the two lots also at Wicaco.

Previous to 1845 the society was known as the Swedish Episcopal, but in that year it joined itself to a convention of the present diocese and became Protestant Episcopal. Under the management of the present rector, the Rev. Snyder B. Simes, the church has had unwonted prosperity. There is not a single unrented pew, while the Sabbath-school numbers nearly seven hundred scholars.

On Sunday, May 27, 1877, Mr. Simes delivered a sermon on the history of the society anterior to 1700, from which many of the foregoing facts have been extracted. His text was from 1 Kings viii. 57: "The Lord our God be with us, as He was with our fathers; may He never leave us or forsake us." The seating capacity of the cozy little building is only four hundred and eighty, and long before the time service was to commence every available seat and all the standing-room was taken by a cultivated and refined audience. In the afternoon another large audience assembled to listen to a discourse by the Rev. Jesse Y. Burk of Trinity Church, Catharine street. Mr. Burk treated in an extended manner of the times in Sweden previous to the founding of the first colony on the Delaware.

The parish of St. Gabriel at Morlatton in Montgomery co., now Douglassville, was vacated by Rev. Samuel Hesselius in 1731, and occupied by Rev. Gabriel Falck in 1735, and from then until 1745, and after that occasionally by the Lutheran minister at the Trappe, Rev. Henry M. Muhlenberg. The church was erected in 1735, and was replaced by the present one in 1801.

A VENERABLE CHURCH.

ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTEENTH ANNIVERSARY OF OLD SWEDES' (CHRIST'S) CHURCH, UPPER MERION—HISTORICAL SKETCH.

The one hundred and seventeenth anniversary of Old Swedes' (Christ's) Church, Upper Merion, was celebrated June 24, 1877, in the presence of a large congregation. The venerable edifice was decorated with flags sent from Sweden, and the altar and baptismal font were beautifully adorned with flowers. In the year 1700, Gloria Dei Church, Swanson street near Christian, Philadelphia, was organized by the Swedes who settled along the river. Out of this, the mother-church, grew Christ's Church, Upper Merion, and St. James's Church, Kingsessing. These three churches were for some time associated together under one rector, who was stationed at Gloria Dei Church. His assistants, however, were principally from the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Christ's Church, Upper Merion, was erected in 1760, and dedicated June 25th of that year by the Rev. Charles Magnus Wrangel, D. D., a Swedish nobleman sent over by the king of Sweden. Dr. Wrangel remained there eight years, and was much beloved by the people. A number of Swedish missionaries were then sent over; among whom were the Rev. Mr. Goerinsen, Rev. Matthias Hultgren, and Rev. Nicholas Collin. The latter was in charge over forty years, and was held in the highest esteem by his congregation. His remains are interred in Gloria Dei churchyard.

At his death Rev. Jehu C. Clay, D. D., was chosen rector in 1831 of the united parishes; he continued until 1843, and in that year, on application to the Legislature, an act of Assembly was passed dissolving the association, when the three churches became independent. Gloria Dei and St. James's Church, Kingsessing, united with the Protestant Episcopal Convention of the diocese, but Christ Church, Upper Merion, still retains its primitive character.

At the time of the separation Rev. Dr. Clay became rector of Gloria Dei Church, and Rev. Edward N. Lightner of Lancaster took charge of Christ's Church, Upper Merion, where he remained from 1844 to 1855, when failing health compelled him to resign.

He was succeeded by Rev. William Henry Rees, D. D., of Staten Island, who continued there about six years, and was succeeded by Rev. Thomas S. Yocum, of Swedish descent, who remained until 1870. He was followed in July, 1870, by Rev. Octavius Perinchief. He remained until the autumn of 1873, when he resigned, and on his recommendation Rev. E. A. Warriner of Montrose was chosen rector, and continued until the spring of 1875, when he tendered his resignation. The congregation desired to have Mr. Perinchief back, and a call was extended to him, which he accepted. He took charge April 20, 1876, and remained until his death, April 29, 1877. Mr. Perinchief was held in the highest esteem, and the congregation deeply feel his loss, and have erected a granite monument to his memory.

In 1837 an addition was built to Christ Church, Upper Merion, making it cruciform. It is eighty-five feet in length to the chancel-window, and the width of the front is twenty-five feet, of the rear part forty-five feet. The church has a seating capacity for four hundred and fifty persons, and the number of communicants is one hundred. The oldest tombstone in the graveyard bears date 1744, and is that of "Diana Rambo, aged thirty-six years."

On Sunday, June 24, 1877, the morning service was read by Rev. Henry C. Mayer, after which the sermon was preached by him from the text: "And when He was entered into a ship His disciples followed Him. And behold there arose a great tempest in the sea, insomuch that the ship was covered with the waves; but He was asleep, and His disciples came to Him and awoke Him, saying, 'Lord, we perish;' and He saith unto them, 'Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith?' Then He arose and rebuked the winds and the sea, and there was a great calm."—Matt. viii. 23–27.

Here is represented one of the most interesting and impressive miracles. It is one of those which test whether we believe in the miraculous or not. We notice it was the presence of Jesus Christ in that boat which constituted the sole pledge of their safety. As

The map on the endpapers of this volume, America Septentrionalis, is the first English map naming Delaware Bay, although the name is incorrectly placed above the present Chesapeake Bay. It was engraved by R. Elstracke from drawings supplied by Henry Briggs, and first appeared in Hakluytus Posthumus or Purchas His Pilgrims, by Samuel Purchas (1625), accompanying a treatise on the northwest passage written by Briggs. The map is reproduced by courtesy of the Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery.

The English on the Delaware: 1610-1682 aside their differences and pooled their resources to discourage and block the common competitor. The Dutch took the first action against the English unilaterally, although there is no doubt that Ridder, who cooperated fully, was kept informed. On May 15, 1642, the council at Manhattan passed a resolution to the effect that since "some Englishmen have presumed to come into our Southriver obliquely opposite our fort Nassau where they settled down in the Schuylkill without commission from any potentate . . . seriously injuring the trade of the West India Company . . . we have resolved to expel them." [21]

On May 22, 1642, Jan Jansen received orders from Governor Kieft that the company's sloops, the Real and St. Martin, had been sent to reinforce him; that he should move his garrison aboard the vessels to join the soldiers brought from Manhattan, and proceed immediately to the English blockhouse on the Schuylkill. There he was to demand to see the royal commission which gave the English authorization to settle on Dutch territory, and if they had none, he should order them to leave, but should not shed any blood. If the English refused to depart, he should forcibly take them aboard his vessels, without injury to them or their personal effects, and bring them to Manhattan. After their departure he was told to "lay waste the place." [22]

James Waye said of this incident that "the Dutch came in and burnt our houses or Garrison & carried us away prisoner to New Haven in New England from whence this Deponent with the rest of the aforementioned company came from."

A number of years later, Edward Hopkins, describing the incident in a letter to Governor Stuyvesant said that > without any legall protest or warning Monsere Kieft the then Dutch Governor sent armed men in 1642 and by force in a hostile way burnt their trading house seized and for som time detained the goods in it not suffering theire servants soe much as to take a just Inventory of them; hee there allsoe seized theire boate and for a while kept theire men Prisoners for which to this day they can get no satisfaction.[23]

It is known from other contemporary records that the Englishmen seized at the Schuylkill post were first taken to Manhattan Island and imprisoned. Later they were returned to New Haven. This was the end of the English settlement on the Schuylkill. It might be noted in passing that the site of Governor Printz's home on Tinicum Island has been called the location of the first settlement by Europeans within the bounds of the present state of Pennsylvania, which is incorrect. The English from New Haven, as I have shown, were established on the Schuylkill before Governor Printz arrived in America, although their settlement, like the Dutch colony at Swanendael, was short-lived.

The records do not explain why the English farmers on the Varkens Kill—which, incidentally, was probably the first European settlement in the state of New Jersey—were not molested by the Dutch. The names of the English planters at the Varkens Kill "under Swedish jurisdiction" in 1643–1644 were as follows: [24]

Elias Baily
William Braunveil (?)
Robert Coxwell [Cogswell]
John Erie
Thomas Marod
Mr. Spinning [25]
John Wall [Woollen?]

Probably the reason these Englishmen and their families were not disturbed was because they were not a factor in the beaver trade, so important along the Schuylkill. By building acceded to the request, and as they entered the fort, Printz seized Lamberton, Thickpenny, Woollen, and others, and put them under arrest. Printz then interrogated members of the crew concerning the proposed massacre, although nothing incriminating to Lamberton could be discovered. Printz, and his officers, next exposed John Woollen to a continuous grilling, hoping to break him down. Woollen was Lamberton's Indian interpreter, and the Swedes knew that he was present in all of Lamberton's conversation with the Indians. Thickpenny, upon his return to New Haven, deposed that Printz tried to worm a confession out of Woollen by making him drunk and by promising him a house and plantation if he would testify that Lamberton hired the Indians to attack the Swedes. This Woollen flatly refused to do. (See Thickpenny's complete deposition in Appendix.)

Printz then decided to take full advantage of the authority delegated to him in his instructions to administer all controversial matters "according to Swedish law and justice, custom and usage." This meant conducting a court of inquiry, hearing the evidence, rendering a decision, and imposing sentence. He set July 10, 1643, as the date the court would convene at Fort Christina to hear the case of New Sweden vs George Lamberton et al., involving trespass, illicit trading, inciting Indians to commit murder, and the illegal purchase of lands belonging to the Queen of Sweden. In Printz's estimation, the whole subject of Puritan encroachment in New Sweden would then be settled by due process of law, in a test case that would resolve the question for all time.

It was an unusual international tribunal that assembled that hot July day to sit in judgment on Lamberton. The 10 judges selected by Printz acted as both judge and jury. The members were as follows, and I have used the spellings of their names as entered in the court records by the Swedish scribe:

Captain Christiaen Boij, a young Swedish nobleman who accompanied Printz to America, and was appointed commander of the blockhouse Printz built at Upland, present Chester, Penna. He evidently served as the presiding member of the court.

Hendrick Huygen, who was born at Cleef, and was one of Peter Minuit's relatives. He was a member of the first Swedish expedition, and remained for many years in New Sweden as the chief commissary.

Captain Mons Clingh was, of course, the well-known Måns Nilsson Kling (Kling was his adopted name as a soldier). He was also a member of the first Swedish expedition who remained in New Sweden as director of Fort Christina. In the summer of 1644 he was placed in charge of Fort Nya Korsholm on the Schuylkil.

Jan Jansen, whose participation as a judge was, indeed, strange inasmuch as he was the Dutch commissary or commander at Fort Nassau. His interests lay with the West India Company who strongly opposed the Swedish encroachment in New Netherland, yet he was very friendly with Printz.

Wessel Evertsen, a skipper who brought Swedish vessels to New Sweden.

Sander Lenertsen, whose name is also recorded as Alexander Lendertsen or Leendertsen, a former Dutch skipper, who was then one of the planters and traders living on the Delaware.

Oloff Stille, a millwright, who brought his family to New Sweden in 1641, settling at present Chester.

Ivert Sievers, whose name was given elsewhere as Evert Sieversen, one of the early Swedish settlers who came to America in 1641.

Carl Jansen, a bookkeeper, also known as Carl Johannsson, a Finn, who was one of the enforced recruits sent to New Sweden because he had run afoul of the law in Sweden.

David Davidsen, a Dutch freeman and soldier stationed at Fort Nassau.

The first witness introduced by the prosecution (according to the minutes of the court) was none other than "the Governor, noble and courageous Johan Printz." Printz was the chief witness, the plaintiff, as well as attorney for the prosecution! He opened his case by asking Lamberton on what basis, and by what commission he had protested against her Royal Majesty Queen Christina of Sweden. This question probably perplexed the judges, who now learned for the first time that in addition to his trading mission, Lamberton had been sent to register protests on behalf of the Delaware Company of New Haven. Printz was thoroughly familiar with these protests, because Lamberton had handed them to him in writing before the trial.

Lamberton obligingly turned over the protests to the court. In them he cited the Indian purchases of the three plots of land he and Turner had made in 1641–1642, and he protested that Måns Kling (one of the judges) was living on New Haven's lands on the Schuylkill, and that Governor Printz had appropriated territory on the Varkens Kill belonging to the English.

Printz then opened a scorching cross-examination of Lamberton, although the language differences complicated the interrogation. By what right did Lamberton pretend to lands on the Schuylkill? Lamberton's answer was that he bought the land from the Delaware Indians two years before with the consent of Jan Jansen, the Dutch commissary at Fort Nassau.

Printz interrupted the Englishman; didn't Lamberton know that the Queen of Sweden owned the whole west side of the Delaware River, having purchased the territory from Cape Henlopen as far north as the Sankikans (present Trenton), which included the entire Schuylkill drainage system? Yes, Lamberton knew that, but Jan Jansen told him to go ahead and buy the Schuylkill lands and settle on them. Lamberton was subtly suggesting that the Dutch encouraged him to occupy lands that the Swedes bought from the Indians. At this point Jan Jansen (a judge) jumped to his feet and exclaimed, "Mr. Lamberton lies like a wanton rascal." That seemed to settle that point.

Printz then interrogated Lamberton about the land on the Varkens Kill and received the reply that the Englishmen had purchased it from the rightful Indian owners. Printz then cited evidence previously given by John Woollen and Robert Cogswell (both members of the original Lamberton-Turner party) that Peter Hollender Ridder on behalf of the Swedes had bought the identical land three days prior to Lamberton's purchase. In fact, said Printz, he would call Cogswell and Woollen before the honorable court to testify, but the members of the court said that would not be necessary. They were already convinced that the Swedes bought the land on the Varkens Kill before the English.

Printz next opened up the subject of trading for furs in the territory of New Sweden. Why had Lamberton done so? Lamberton replied he didn't know he was forbidden to do so. To this Hendrick Huygen (one of the judges) said that Peter Hollender Ridder had forbade Lamberton to trade a year before, and Måns Kling said that long before this he had personally warned Lamberton to discontinue trading with the Indians in New Sweden. Evert Sieversen (also a judge) then testified that when Lamberton was warned he paid no attention, and besides, the Governor had written him, in an official letter from Fort Christina, that he should not trade on the Delaware and he ignored that communication, too. By now it was probably very clear to Lamberton, if he understood the full import of the testimony given in hand vote, everyone was allowed to speak his mind. The majority of the citizens agreed, after free discussion, that some part of the town should remove for the good of posterity, and that Delaware River was the "fittest place" to remove to.

During the months that followed there were many discussions about the Delaware project, but for one reason or another action did not materialize. But the issue was not laid aside nor forgotten, and in 1654 it loomed as a matter of paramount importance. This time, not only New Haven, but people from other Connecticut towns, as well as Massachusetts, were discussing movement in a body to the Delaware. As the New Englanders planned to remove their families, major political changes were again taking place in their "promised land." Governor Johann Rising, who succeeded Printz as the ranking official in New Sweden, captured the Dutch Fort Casimir on May 21, 1654, renaming it Fort Trinity. The fort, in a bad state of disrepair, was garrisoned by only a handful of Dutch soldiers, and its recapture was easily accomplished. Once more the Swedes were in control of the Delaware.

Scarcely had Rising become acquainted with his subjects and his Indian allies (with whom he had several pow-wows to win their affections) when he was visited, June 18, 1654, by Edward Lloyd of Maryland, who pointed out to him that the English owned the Delaware River on the following counts:

> 1. That they had discovered it; 2. That they had it through a donation from King James and all that which was situated between such and such a degree along the coast; 3. That Sir Edward Ployde [Sir Edmund Plowden] and Earl of Great Albion had a donation of this river from King James.[6]
> Rising refuted these claims by saying that the Spaniards had been in Delaware Bay long before the English (purely a surmise on his part), and that the Swedes had title deeds from the Indians for the territory from Cape May and Cape Henlopen as far north as the river extended. In a letter written back to Sweden, he commented, "The Virginians who were here requested to be allowed to buy land and plant colonies. I said I would not allow it since I had no orders." [7]

Had Rising known upon his arrival in New Sweden of the growing movement afoot in New Haven by his English rivals, whose Indian deeds to Delaware lands were as valid as those in the royal chancery at Stockholm, he probably would have been gravely concerned about the destiny of New Sweden. It didn't take long for the news to reach him, following an item of business recorded by the New Haven Court on July 5, 1654:

> A letter was now by order of this court sent to the Sweeds at Delaware Bay, informing them of the propriety which some in this colony have to large tracts of land on both sides of Delaware Bay and River, and describing a neighborly correspondence with them, both in trading and planting there, and an answer hereof &c.[8]

Rising received the letter mentioned in this citation, signed by Governor Eaton, and dated July 6, 1654. This letter, portions of which are torn and undecipherable, was preserved in the Royal Archives in Stockholm. It is printed for the first time in the Appendix of this volume. Although Eaton stood firm in his position that New Haven owned lands along the Delaware, he expressed a sincere willingness to maintain ties of friendship with the Swedes.

On August 1, Rising replied, in Latin, to Eaton's letter, the delay occasioned by the time required for the communications to be carried by vessel. (The records indicate that

Between the lines of the latter inquiry, one senses that the commissioners had knowledge both of Sir Edmund Plowden's patent and Lord Baltimore's, but, without specific reference to either, they were attempting to ascertain where New Haven stood in this complex of Indian deeds and royal charters for the same lands.

I have been unable to find Winslow's reply to this inquiry, but, if one was written, it did not deter the New Haven people, although things remained quiet for some time. On the 30th of the 11th month 1654, Thomas Munson and John Cooper, representing the committee making plans for the Delaware settlement, petitioned the court again > on behalf of a company of persons intending to remove to Delaware Bay wherein they propounded that for the enlargement of the kingdom of Christ, the spreading of the gospel, and the good of posterity therein, that they may live under the wings of Christ, they would afford some encouragement to help forward so public a work.[22]

The petitioners stated that there were 50 or 60 persons who had already expressed a desire to settle on the Delaware, and they requested that two magistrates, Samuel Eaton and Francis Newman, be given the court's permission to go in person to the Delaware under New Haven's protection. They also requested cannon and powder and financial assistance to purchase a vessel.

The court gave permission for the magistrates to accompany the settlers, but withheld its decision on the other requests pending further study. The court records also contain the following highly significant passage which illustrates that the proposed settlement was being planned on a large scale.

> And for their encouragement they purpose when God shall so enlarge the English plantations in Delaware as that they shall grow the greater part of the jurisdiction, that then due consideration shall be taken for the case and conveniency of both parts, as that the governor may be one year in one part, and the next year in another, and the dept. governor to be in that part where the governor is not, and that the general courts for making laws be ordinarily but once a year, and where the governor resides, and if God much increase plantations in Delaware and diminish them in these parts, then possibly he may see cause that the governor may be constantly there and the deputy governor here.[23]

The significance of the latter words should not be overlooked. What they mean is that the New Haven Puritans seriously considered making the Delaware River the principal seat of their government, a fact that is not generally known.

Discussions were still in progress in 1655, and on April 19 of that year, the court agreed to lend the company two small cannon, along with shot, musket balls, and a barrel of powder to transport to the proposed settlement.[24]

John Cooper went to the Massachusetts Bay colony to enlist settlers, but he did not receive much encouragement, according to the report he made to the New Haven court on March 16, 1655. The records do not clarify the reasons, but the people in Boston may have heard of the impending clash between the Dutch and Swedes as a result of Rising's capture of the Dutch fort. Not long before, a seaman, Thomas Doxey, in the employ of Isaac Allerton, had written a letter from the Delaware to John Winthrop, Jr., in which he said that "heare is a grete difference beetwixte the Swede and the Dutch bouthe of them strivinge for to bee Masters of the River and Soe by that means the trad is mutch hindred and Detes hard for to gette . . ."[25]

After listening to Cooper's report, Stephen Goodyear was quoted as saying of mill arrangements eighty or ninety years ago, that the meal and flour ground on the Wilmington side of the creek, were sent over to that mill in boats to be bolted. The old building was taken down within thirty or forty years.

An old saw mill formerly stood in Wilmington on the south-east side of the road leading over the Brandywine bridge, nearly opposite Hollingsworth & Harvey's machine shop. It was sometimes used for sawing mahogany. It was taken down about fifty years since.

The following "List of the Swedish families residing in New Sweden in 1693, with the number of individuals in each family," has been referred to in the preceding narrative, page 146. Some of the names are evidently Dutch, as Van der Weer, Starke, Meyer, &c. These were probably reckoned as Swedes, on account of their descent from them, on the female side, and from having adopted the language and customs of that people. The Swedish and Dutch names are so very similar that it is perhaps impossible to distinguish them with certainty. Many in the list may be Dutch with Swedish forms, owing to the mode of spelling them.

This list is very interesting and valuable. It leaves nothing to conjecture in relation to the amount of the Swedish population on the Delaware, at a period of fifty-five years after the arrival of the first colony under Minuit. That amount is 945, which of course includes all coming into the country both from emigration and by natural increase. The number appears very small when we consider how many ships arrived in the colonies during the first ten years of their existence, and the time that had elapsed before the list was made. But new countries to new comers are always sickly, and the locations chosen by the Swedes were the most unfavourable to health that could have been selected. They settled along the tide waters, on the banks of rivers and marshy creeks, often in the neighborhood of low swamps, and the means of preventing and curing diseases were probably little understood among them at that day. Under all these unfavourable circumstances, there is little cause to wonder that their number was so small. A great many of the colonists under William Penn, with superior advantages in every respect, suffered severely from sickness during the early periods of their settlement in Philadelphia and its vicinity. Many of their family records which have come down to us, show a dreadful mortality among them, within the space of ten or fifteen years after their arrival.

This list is dated 1693. It was probably made out in the spring of that year, and sent to Sweden with the interesting letter written by Charles Springer, and signed by thirty of the principal men in the colony, giving an account of their situation, and soliciting the means of religious instruction. That letter was dated the 31st of May, 1693. See pp. 151 152 of this work.

INTRODUCTION

Volume One of this series covers a number of church registers and other records discussed below. All births through 31 December 1800 were copied, regardless of the date of the baptism. The order of the records usually reflects the order of the "original" from which the transcriber worked. If the date of the baptism was not recorded one can guess that the event might have occurred sometime between the baptisms appearing before and after the given entry. In the case of most denominations the date of baptism usually indicates an approximate date of birth. This does not apply, of course, to the Baptists who baptized as adults. In addition to the church registers we have added other records which will be useful to genealogists, namely, marriage bonds, certificates of removal/letters of dismission and list of church members.

Volume Two is a reprint of the register of Old Swedes Church, taken from the translation by Horace Burr, published by Historical Society of Delaware in 1890, titled, The Records of Holy Trinity (Old Swedes) Church As Translated By Horace Burr, as amended by Catalogue and Errata of The Records of Holy Trinity (Old Swedes) Church, published by the Society in 1919.

OLD SWEDES CHURCH

Among the original colony of Swedes who settled in Delaware and built Fort Christina in 1638 was Rev. Reorus Torkillus, who established religious worship in the fort, the first meeting-place for Christians on the

Delaware, and there it was continued until the church at Tinicum was erected in 1646. Crane Hook Church is said to have been built in 1667, probably by the united efforts of the Dutch congregation and the Swedes. It was used for public worship until the "Old Swedes' Church" was built in 1698 on the present site. Lutheran in denomination the church was the religious center for not only the Swedes but English and persons of various ethnicity and religious affiliation, as evidenced by the names of those who were baptized, married or buried. Eventually Swedish ministers were replaced by English ministers under cordial circumstances.[1]

In using the records keep in mind the words of the translator, Horace Burr.

> "I have not attempted to render the old Swedish in which these records were written, into modern book English, but have made a very literal translation, following the style of the writer ... It would seem that the names of persons not Swedes have been spelt as they would sound to the Swedish ear, and many of them very differently from their proper English orthography."
> "The Bondê or agricultural population of Sweden has not sirnames at the time of the emigration, nor have they even now. The oldest son takes the father's name, as for instance, Johan the son of Johan, would be Johan Johansson, and all the other sons, Peter, Carl, etc., would be Peter Johansson, in English, Johnsson; and the daughters take dotter, as Brita Johansdotter.
> "After their settlement here among English and other nationalities, who had already adopted sirnames for all classes, the father's name naturally became the family name, but the peculiarity of spelling with two s' continued for a long time, and Paulsson > was the correct spelling until a quite recent date."[1]

He and others cite various derivations of the Swedish names, e.g.,
Didriksson became Derickson or Richardsson and Poulson became Paulsson Justasson became Justis or Justice.

From January, 1773 the records were written in English. Mr. Burr omitted the names of witnesses and sponsors. Burials were also omitted "after the coming of Mr. Acrelius, as they would add to the size of the work, and are of less importance than births, baptisms and marriages." We look forward to the time when these are translated and published.[2]

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS (QUAKERS)

Friends began settling on the east side of the Brandywine in New Castle County around 1682. It was named the Newark Meeting and was continued until 1754. In 1705 a meeting house was built in New Castle which declined in membership until it was finally discontinued in 1758. Its members then attended the meeting at Wilmington. A Monthly Meeting was held in New Castle in 1686. In 1687 this meeting decided that it was "more convenient for the present that the meeting be held twice on the other side of the Brandywine and the third which will be the Quarterly Meeting at New Castle." From 1689 to 1704 the Monthly meeting seems to have been "held at Valentine Hollingsworth's and other Friends' houses," and was called Newark Monthly Meeting. The last monthly meeting held at Newark was in 1707. It was generally held at Centre though sometimes at Kennett, from that date until 1760, when its name was changed to the Kennett Monthly Meeting.

The Wilmington Preparative Meeting was established in 1739. A Wilmington Monthly Meeting was established in 1750 by Chester (Concord) Quarterly Meeting out of Kennett families, and classed them in local districts. This was inserted in the book, still preserved, which also contains the records of baptisms, marriages, burials, etc. It is here translated from the Swedish. Many of the names being somewhat altered by time, they are written in the modern way, as follows: Baptism names—Andrew (Anders), Benedict (Bengt), Isaiah (Esaia), John (Johan), James (Joens), Laurence (Lorenz), Nicholas (Nils), Stephen (Staphan), Swan (Sven), William (Olave). This last name has not, indeed, any corresponding in English, William being called Wilhelm in Swedish; but the offspring of these Olaves substituted William as in some degree similar, and of common use; the former is quite obsolete. The female names are nearly the same in both languages. Brigitta or Bridget for Brita, and Helena for Elanor, may be noticed. Surnames, little altered, are: Johnson (Janson), Morton (Mortenson), Swanson (Svenson), Wheeler (Wieler), Fish (Fisk), of the same meaning. More changed are: Bancson (Bengston), Cox (Cock), Lycon (Laiken), Jones (Jonason or Jonson), Toy (Tay and Taw). Much varied from the original are: Culin (Van Coelen), Hewlings (Haling then Huling), King (Cone then Koenig), Boon (Bonde), Justis (Gustafson then Justison), Urian (Joergen), Garret (Gertson). The sons of Arian Johnson, at Tinnicum, took the name of Aretzon, and this was afterwards changed into Archer, which is yet preserved. [Note by Rev. Dr. Collin.]

About FamilySearch Pedigree Resource File:
The Pedigree Resource File is a new lineage linked database of records available on compact disc containing family history records submitted by individuals through FamilySearch Internet Genealogy Service. Family information is organized in family groups and pedigrees and includes submitted notes and sources. Many charts and reports can be printed from this data. Each disc contains about 1.1 million names. With the publication of every five discs, a master index for those discs will be published and packaged with that set of discs. With the publication of every 25 discs, a master index for those discs will also be published and packaged with that volume of discs. Discs may be purchased as sets or volumes.

Dear Fran:

Thanks for your recent letter. I had looked at some of the same material you have for the Eckart/Eckert family (we have the Pennsylvania German church books here in the Winnetka Library) and came up with the enclosed family group sheet. I suppose that Justus Echard could be John's father, but John did not name a son for him, so it is iffy. I have thought of looking for wills, etc. in Bucks County, PA, but haven't gotten around to that. I seem always to be off on a new tack!

You asked for Cyra's address, for the Sweet and Toy pictures. She is Mrs. Cyra Duff Sanborn, 5810 Cowen Place NE, #209, Seattle, WA 98105. She and Fred Sanborn are divorced, and he's remarried, so I'm told. But I understand they communicate, because they all had Christmas together a couple of years ago. They had four children, but lost the oldest boy as a teen-ager. The other two sons and daughter all are married, with some grandchildren. The pictures she brought to the Sweet reunion looked as though they might have been photographic copies, (as opposed to Xerox copies which she made for me), but the typed names were on them, so I doubt if they were the originals. However, she might be able to come up with a photographic copy of the original. She is not deeply concerned with genealogy, I gather. They gave me the impression that they believe everything is "all looked up" in the genealogy Frederic Sanborn wrote, while, of course, there have been some corrections in recent years. Trella Hall put me on to some of them.

I trust you have good weather there in Florida. Everything here points to an early winter, and I hate to see it coming!

All the best,

Harriet

ELIGIBILITY CLAUSE

"Any woman is eligible for membership in the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution who is not less than eighteen years of age, and who is descended from a man or woman who, with unfailing loyalty to the cause of American Independence, served as a sailor, or as a soldier or civil officer in one of the several Colonies or States, or in the United Colonies or States, or as a recognized patriot, or rendered material aid thereto; provided the applicant is personally acceptable to the Society." (Constitution, Article III, Section 1.)

Marriage in every instance means legal and lawful marriage. Date of marriage may be substituted for dates of birth and death where such date proves the soldier to have been living during the Revolution and of a suitable age for service.

The following form of acknowledgement is required:

Applicant further says that the said Peter Koffel (name of ancestor from whom eligibility is derived) is the ancestor mentioned in the foregoing application, and that the statements hereinbefore set forth are true to the best of her knowledge and belief.

The applicant also pledges allegiance to the United States of America and agrees to support its Constitution. This applies to applicants for membership within the United States of America and its territories.

About FamilySearch Pedigree Resource File:

The Pedigree Resource File is a new lineage linked database of records available on compact disc containing family history records submitted by individuals through FamilySearch Internet Genealogy Service. Family information is organized in family groups and pedigrees and includes submitted notes and sources. Many charts and reports can be printed from this data. Each disc contains about 1.1 million names. With the publication of every five discs, a master index for those discs will be published and packaged with that set of discs. With the publication of every 25 discs, a master index for those discs will also be published and packaged with that volume of discs. Discs may be purchased as sets or volumes.

NEW HOLLAND.

The plat of this village, which is recorded in book B. of Picaway county records, was acknowledged before Alexander Rowen, justice of the peace, on September 2, 1818. The following is the description:

> "Flemingsburgh, situated in Deer Creek township, on the east bank of Hamilton's run, a branch of the north fork of Paint creek, on land of Reese Young, the northerly part of Godrill Levely's survey of two hundred acres, No. 4138; on land of Levin Ross, easterly part of a survey of Codwallader Wallace, No. ——; and on land of Wilkins Ogburn, surveyed for him on a military warrant, No. 3057; on the right hand fork of the north fork of Paint creek."

What induced the changing of the name to the one the village now bears, or the date when it took place, is not now known.

The act of incorporation was passed March 9, 1835, and section one reads:

> * * * * "That so much of the township of Perry, in the county of Pickaway, as is included within the bounds of the town plat of the town of New Holland, in the said county of Pickaway, as the said town plat now stands on record in the office of the recorder of said county, and eighty rods east, west, north and south of said town plat, and such plats of additions to said town as may hereafter be recorded, be, and the same are hereby created into, and constituted a town corporate, by the name of the town of New Holland."

The village records show that early in the year 1836, the following were the village officials: Rev. F. A. Wilson, mayor; D. Blue, Jacob Hosselton, Reuben Lloyd, Alexander Cochran, trustees. The officers for 1879 are: E. W. Timmons, mayor; J. B. Parker, recorder; J. W. Mark, treasurer; Eden Parker, T. M. Withcott, George Meyer, J. D. McCoy, Lewis Benz, and Theodore Mark, council. This village has no public buildings, or fire department, and no natural advantages. It is a shipping point for large quantities of grain.

The business interests here are as follows: dry goods, Charles McCafferty, C. B. Eggleston, and Jones & O'Conner; drugs and notions, J. W. Marks, N. H. Jones; groceries and hardware, H. T. Gooley & Bro.

ncost. This was Cafferty, in the spring of 1878. Its cost, with real estate, was four thousand dollars, and its shelling and loading capacity is four hundred bushels per hour. The shipments for the year 1878 were one hundred and twenty-five thousand bushels; and to August 1, 1879, seventy-five thousand bushels. To show the importance of New Holland as a shipping point, we give the totals: 1878, four hundred and ninety-seven thousand bushels; to August 1, 1879, two hundred and forty-two thousand bushels.

New Holland village did not arrive to the dignity of having a newspaper until 1877, in August of which year, A. M. Vaughn issued the first number of the New Holland Review. This was an eight-page five-column sheet, published on the patent plan, and was independent in politics. The paper ceased publication in May, 1879, and the editor has removed to "other fields and pastures rare," we trust.

BETTLE OF STEPNEY, COUNTY MIDDLESEX, ENGLAND, OF SALEM COUNTY, N. J., AND OF PHILADELPHIA

Compiled by LEWIS D. COOK, F.A.S.G., F.G.S.P.

N. N. BETTLE of Poplar, in the parish of Stepney, on the left bank of the Thames River, in County Middlesex, just eastward of the City of London, whose Christian name has escaped discovery here, died there before the 16th of 11th month (January) 1668. On that date his widow HESTER (WYATT) BETTLE and CHRISTOPHER WHITE of the same parish were married by Friends ceremony.[1] She was a native of that parish, daughter of John Wyatt, and her second husband was born about 1642, son of Thomas White of Comrew, County Cumberland.[2] The said Christopher White, with his wife Hester White, her son John Bettle, and their children Hester and Josiah White,* arrived at Salem, N. J., on the 23rd of 6th month (August) 1677 in the ship Kent, of which Gregory Marley was the master.[2] Christopher White died testate in Alloways Creek Precinct, Salem County, N. J., between the 13th of 7th month (September) and the 28th of 10th month (December) 1693. His widow Hester White also died testate there, between the 11th of 3rd month (May) and the 24th of 4th month 1698.

Exhibits in Evidence:

By Deed of 27 Jan. 1688/9, Christopher White of Munmouth River, alias Allowayes Creek, New Salem, West Jersey, Carpenter, and wife Hester, conveyed to their son-in-law John Bettle, of same place, and his wife Elizabeth, 100 acres on the south side of said Creek and on Back Creek, adjoining Edward Bradway, being part of a 1000 acre tract derived from John Fenwick on 26 May 1675. Recorded in Salem Deed Book no. 5, page 1.—Abstract published in N. J. Archives, XXI, 591.

The Will of Christopher White of Allowayes Creek, Salem Co., N. J., yeoman, dated 13th of 7th mo (Sept.) 1693 and recorded 28 Dec. 1693, names wife Easter and children:—Easter, Josiah, and Joseph White, both sons as underage, and grandchild George Beetle; devises real and personal estate, including 100 acres formerly belonging to John Beetle, 50 acres adjoining the home farm, and other land; and appoints the wife, Richard Darkin, and Andrew Thompson the execrs. Witnesses: Joseph White and Israel Harrison.—Abstract published in N. J. Archives, XXIII, 503.

The Will of Hester White of Munmouth River, Salem County, N. J., widow, dated 11th of 3rd month (May) 1698 and recorded 24 June 1698, devises to daughter Hester Harrison, who has children Joseph and Sarah Harrison, to son John Biddle (sic) and his four children, and to son Josiah White; and appoints the two sons execrs. Witnesses: Samuel Wade and James Daniel.—Abstract published in N. J. Archives, XXIII, 504.

The Will of Josiah White of Alloways Creek alias Monmouth River, Salem Co., N. J., yeoman, dated 19 Feb. 1713/4 and proved 10 May 1714, names wife Hannah sole heiress and execx. of real and personal estate; mentions children, not by names. Witnesses: Esther Hancock, George Bettle, James Butler, John Firth, Will. Clowes.—Abstract published in N. J. Archives, XXIII, 505.

CHILD OF N. N. AND HESTER (WYATT) BETTLE:

2 i. John Bettle b 18-9-1663; d 23-2-1715.

2. JOHN BETTLE, born 18th of 9th month (Nov.) 1663 in Poplar " nigh London ", in the parish of Stepney, County Middlesex, England,[2] came with his mother, his stepfather Christopher White, and their children, to Salem, N. J., on 23rd of 6th month (Aug.) 1677 as abovesaid. John Bettle of Alloways Creek Precinct, Salem County, N. J., and ELIZABETH CURRIER of New Salem, N. J., were married by Friends' ceremony on 23rd of 9th month (Nov.) 1687 at the Alloways Creek Meeting House.[2] By the 1st of 3rd month 1692, they had removed from Salem County, N. J., to the city of Philadelphia, on which date the burial of their daughter Catherine Bettle in Friends' burial ground there is of record.[3] His wife Elizabeth (Currier) Bettle, (who was a sister of Edward Currier of Salem, N. J., as is shown by his Will, postea), was buried likewise on 3rd of 1st month (Mar.) 1696.[3] John Bettle had been assigned the right to rent a certain lot on the north side of Chesnut Street, between 4th and 5th Streets, Philadelphia, by one John Countiss under date of 13th of 3rd month 1692, and his request for a warrant for resurvey of the said lot to be laid out was considered and granted at the 31st of 10th month (Dec.) 1701 meeting of the Board of Property of the Province of Penna., and a Patent issued to said Bettle at the meeting of 18th of 12th month (Feb.) 1701/2.[4] John Bettle married secondly on 9th of 3rd month (May) 1698, at Philadelphia Meeting House, ABIGAIL MATERN,* with Mary Bettle, Barbara Prachin, William and

BETTLE OF STEPNEY, COUNTY MIDDLESEX, ENGLAND, OF SALEM COUNTY, N. J., AND OF PHILADELPHIA

Compiled by Lewis D. Cook, F.A.S.G., F.G.S.P.

N. N. BETTLE of Poplar, in the parish of Stepney, on the left bank of the Thames River in County Middlesex, just eastward of the City of London, whose Christian name has escaped discovery here, died there before the 16th of 11th month (January) 1668. On that date his widow HESTER (WYATT) BETTLE and CHRISTOPHER WHITE of the same parish were married by Friends' ceremony.[1] She was a native of that parish, daughter of John Wyatt, and her second husband was born about 1642, son of Thomas White of Cockermouth, County Cumberland.[2] The said Christopher White, with his wife Hester, her son John Bettle, and their children Hester and Josiah White,[3] arrived at Salem, N. J., on the 23rd of 6th month (August) 1677 in the ship Kent, of which Gregory Marlow was the master.[4] Christopher White died testate at Alloways Creek Precinct, Salem County, N. J., between the 11th of 7th month (September) and the 28th of 10th month (December) 1693. His widow Hester White also died testate there, between the 11th of 3rd month (May) and the 2nd of 4th month 1698.

2. JOHN BETTLE, born 15th of 8th month (Oct.) 1663 at Poplar "High London", in the parish of Stepney, County Middlesex, England,[9] came with his mother, his stepfather Christopher White, and their children, to Salem, N. J., on 23rd of 6th month (Aug.) 1677 as aforesaid. John Bettle of Alloways Creek Precinct, Salem County, N. J., and ELIZABETH CURRIER of New Salem, N. J., were married by Friends' ceremony on 23rd of 9th month (Nov.) 1687 at the Alloways Creek Meeting House.[10] By the 1st of 3rd month 1692, they had removed from Salem County, N. J., to the City of Philadelphia, on which date the burial of their daughter Catharine Bettle in Friends' burial ground there is of record.[11] The wife Elizabeth (Currier) Bettle, (who was a sister of Edward Currier of Salem, N. J., as is shown by his Will, infra) was buried likewise on 3rd of 1st month (Mar.) 1696.[12] John Bettle had been assigned the right to take a certain lot on the north side of Chestnut Street, between 4th and 5th Streets, Philadelphia, by one John Cornish under date of 12th of 3rd month 1692, and his request for a warrant for the survey of the said lot to be laid out was considered and granted at the 11th of 10th month (Dec.) 1701 meeting of the Board of Property of the Province of Pennsylvania, and a Patent issued to said Bettle at the meeting of 15th of 12th month (Feb.) 1701/2.[13] John Bettle married secondly on 4th of 3rd month (May) 1698, at Philadelphia Meeting House, [illegible],[14] with Mary Bettle, [illegible] and his wife's death in May, 1775.[52] Peter was a blacksmith by 1765 when he and Margaret were assigned the following three shares in the partition of her father's estate: a tract in Whitemarsh Township, a lot in the Northern Liberties and a part of the Wilkinson Delaware bank lot in Philadelphia, where they made their home for a time.[53] In debt by 1771, Margaret and Peter granted their three shares to Bryan Wilkinson, Peter Knight and John Knowles for the express purpose of their renting or selling the shares to pay off Barndollar's debts.[54] Issue: 1. ELIZABETH BARNDOLLAR, of full age by 22 June 1785;[55] bur. St. Peter's Church, Philadelphia, 17 September 1808; m. at Christ Church, 29 March 1781, WILLIAM BREWSTER, mariner. In 1779 at least, Elizabeth was living with Peter and Elizabeth Knight.[56] Knight provided for her in his will: "To Thomas and Anthony Cuthbert dividends and income of $8,000 6% stock debt of the United States for the separate use of my wife's niece Elizabeth Brewster, wife of William Brewster, and upon this express trust said Trustees to receive said dividends and income and apply same for support of Elizabeth and the maintenance and education of her children."

vi. ANTHONY WILKINSON, b. 15 February 1735, bap. Christ Church, 22 February 1735; bur. Christ Church, 26 February 1736/7; d. of small pox.

vii. MARY WILKINSON, bur. Christ Church 10 December 1787; m. at Trinity Church, Oxford, Philadelphia County, 13 September 1744, JOHN KNOWLES; d. 22 July 1804, in his 84th year, bur. Trinity Church. Knowles was a perukemaker in his younger years. In the 1765 Orphans Court partition of Anthony Wilkinson's estate, John and Mary Knowles were assigned a 30-foot lot fronting Water Street on the Delaware bank and two lots in the Northern Liberties at Front, Green and Duke Streets. By 1769 they were living in Lower Delaware Ward.[57] From barber and perukemaker, he progressed to merchant in the years prior to the Revolution. He was commissioned a justice of the peace for Philadelphia County 6 June 1777, an office he held until he resigned 16 February 1786. By 1779 he and his family were living in Oxford Township where he continued to reside until his death in 1804.[58] Knowles had his will drawn on 30 July 1795, "being advanced in years." It was probated 2 August 1804.[59]

Issue bap. at Christ Church: 1. JOHN KNOWLES, b. 17 August 1745; bur. Christ Church, 18 September 1745. 2. JOHN KNOWLES, (2nd), b. 28 July 1746; bur. Christ Church, 21 November 1756. 3. MARY KNOWLES, b. 12 March 1747/8; bur. Christ Church, 24 October 1761. 4. ELIZABETH KNOWLES, b. 28 December 1749; d. unmarried March 1831, ae. 81 yrs., bur. Trinity Church, Oxford. Her father gave her the messuage and bank lot on Front and Water between High and Chestnut Streets, presumably the property in Lower Delaware Ward where they had lived. Knowles reserved for Elizabeth's use during her natural life the back part of the dwelling house in which he was living in Oxford Township. This part of the house consisted of two rooms below and two rooms above stairs. Elizabeth was also given all the rest of her father's house and kitchen furniture of which he died possessed. Knowles named her one of the executors of his will. 5. CATHERINE KNOWLES, b. 17 November 1751; deceased by 30 July 1795, when her father's will was drawn; m. Christ Church, 20 May 1770, JOHN HART. To Catherine's four children, Mary, John, and Elizabeth Hart, and Susanna Hall, wife of Joseph Hall, John Knowles gave £100 each. 6. SARAH KNOWLES, b. 26 November 1753; bur. Christ Church, 4 June 1755. 7. SARAH KNOWLES, (2nd), b. 8 January 1756; d. 8 September 1831, ae. 75 yrs., 8 mos.; m. ISAAC KEEN, b. 19 September 1753, son of Matthias Keen and Margaret Thomas;[60] d. 20 February 1808, ae. 54 yrs., 5 mos., 1 da.; both bur. in Lower Dublin (Pennypack) Baptist Churchyard. John Knowles gave to his daughter Sarah Keen, his messuage and bank lot on Front and Water Streets between Mulberry and Sassafras. 8. MARGARET KNOWLES, b. 13 May 1758; bur. Christ Church, 3 April 1760. 9. JOHN KNOWLES, (3rd), b. 24 August 1760; d. 20 August 1819, ae. 58 yrs., 11 mos., 27 das.; bur. Trinity Church, Oxford. In 1795, his father, John Knowles, bequeathed to this only surviving son his plantation and tract of land in Oxford Township, together with all the stock and farming utensils thereon. He also gave him his messuage and lot of ground on Jones's Alley, commonly called Pewter Platter Alley. One half the rent or profit from this property was to be paid to his sister, Elizabeth Knowles. To John, he also gave his "Pint Silver Cann" and two silver table spoons. John was named as the other executor of his father's will. 10. MARY KNOWLES, (2nd), b. 18 November 1762; d. 17 October 1822, in her 60th year; bur. Trinity Church, Oxford; m. Christ Church, 20 November 1782, Elias Toy; d. 14 August 1832, ae. 82 years; bur. Trinity Church, Oxford. Mary was devised her father's messuage and lot of ground on the south side of Gilbert's (Elfreth's) Alley, and his messuage and lot on the corner of Mulberry and Fifth Streets.

2. MARGARET WILKINSON was possibly the eldest daughter of Gabriel by his first wife. She married at Christ Church on 2 February 1715/16, EDWARD MANKIN. He kept a small shop in the house in which his family lived.

[52] Peter Barndollar was living 25 April 1771, when he joined his wife Margaret in an indenture of that date. See Deed Book I-10, 74: 25 April 1771, Peter Barndollar et ux. to Bryan Wilkinson et al. A later indenture describes Peter as "late of the Northern Liberties, Co. Phila., Blacksmith, and Margaret, his wife, both deceased. Margaret survived her husband." Deed Book D-12, 520: 27 May 1785.

[53] Pennsylvania Archives, 3rd Series, XIV, 166. The estate of Margaret, living in Upper Delaware Ward, was rated at £16 16*s.* There was no listing for her husband Peter Barndollar.

[54] Deed Book I-10, 74: 25 April 1771, Peter "Berndolar" to Bryan Wilkinson et al. The three properties granted were to be rented or sold to raise the sum of £262 9*s.* 10*d.* The money realized was to pay off the debt owed by Peter to his brothers-in-law and the balance was to go to other such creditors of Barndollar whose names were annexed to the deed.

[55] Elizabeth was "the only daughter and issue of Peter Berndolar, late of the Township of Northern Liberties, Co. Phila., Blacksmith and Margaret, his wife . . . ," as recited in Deed Book D-12, 520: 27 May 1785, Bryan Wilkinson et al. to Jonathan Colly.

[56] Pennsylvania Archives, 3rd Series, XV, 95. Elizabeth Barndollar's name appeared on the 1779 tax list indented under that of Peter Knight, of the Northern Liberties, East Part.

[57] Ibid., XIV, 151. Knowles' ratable estate was £71 6*s.* 4*d.* Lower Delaware Ward ran between Front Street and the Delaware River, from High Street southward to Walnut Street. See "Philadelphia in 1750," as cited in Note 40.

[58] For Knowles' service as justice of the peace, see Minutes of the Supreme Executive Council . . . . (Harrisburg, 1852), XI, 215, and ibid., XIV, 640. WOOLF-ST.MICHAEL, BUTLER TWP.

Add to Vol.3 p197:

Henry WOOLF was also buried in St.Michael (Woolf) Cemetery in Butler Twp. His monument was the largest in the cemetery, but it has been moved from the area twice in the last few years. As of May 1978, it was still missing.

Henry WOOLF was born 1762 and died 1834.

It is presumed that his wife, Julia Ann BUZZARD WOOLF, was buried here too, but there is no proof.

KOFFEL CEMETERY, WEST TWP.

Add to Vol.4 p349:

The Koffel burials were the two sons of Mr. & Mrs. Harvey KOFFEL of West Township. One of the sons died from some unknown cause, and the other died after being hit on the head with a stone at school. Mr. & Mrs. Koffel went west, and it is thought they settled in Idaho. Several daughters went, also. Mrs. Koffel was Martha, daughter of William & Mary Ann (SANOR) WEAVER.

BATES CEMETERY
West Twp.

The Bates Cemetery was located in Section 4 in West Township. In the 1920's there were many visible stones in the cemetery, but in the 1940's the area was bull-dozed over and has been farmed since then. The location is on the south side of Mountz Road 8/10 mi. west of Knox School Road.

Two babies, a boy and a girl, the first children of John & Elizabeth (FREED) PIEREN, were buried there in the late 1850's or early 1860's. The youngest child of John Pieren (b1833) and Elizabeth (Freed) Pieren (b1838) was Hattie (Pieren) Hime, b 21 Aug 1874, the wife of William Hime, son of the early settler John L. Hime, who established the Hime Cemetery (now known as Moultrie Cemetery) in West Township. Hattie Pieren Hime gave the information about this cemetery in April 1977, and she died the next month, 21 May 1977, at the grand age of 102 years and 9 months.

Information provided by Clark & Lorna (Sanor) Hahn of Homeworth.

KOFFEL CEMETERY
West Twp.

The Koffel family cemetery consisted of only two burials on the family farm, which is located in West Township, Section 8, south of State Rte. #172 on the top of the first hill where the present home of Don and Mildred (Hahn) Essick now stands. It is not known who Mr. & Mrs. Koffel were.

THEY are buried at DAVIS Cem

Information provided by Clark & Lorna (Sanor) Hahn of Homeworth, Apr. 1977.
